Fair Ground Project For Colwood Launched

Architect Named To Draw Up Preliminary Plans

Plans for a huge fair, horse racing and sports centre at the old Colwood race track grounds moved forward another step at a meeting of the B.C. Agricultural Association Friday night.

Charles Craig, Victoria architect, was commissioned to draw up preliminary sketches for the type of buildings needed for a Class A fair at the 140-acre property which is under lease to the association. They are to be submitted by Nov. 12.

The program, envisioning an expenditure of around $1,000,000, would be financed through government grants for the fair, the leasing of horse-racing and other concessions.

PNE TALKS

Mr. Craig is in Vancouver discussing basic requirements for the project with officials of the Pacific National Exhibition.

The association leased the site of the former Colwood army camp from the department of national defence last June.

Two groups have shown interest in establishing sprint and possibly harness racing on the site, which was formerly used by the Victoria Track Racing Association and the Colwood Park Racing Association.

Guarantees of pari-mutuel operations have been assured.

Objective is a modern operation in keeping with the stature of a class "A" fair comparable to those in Vancouver, Toronto, Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton.

NEW WORK

Although in a state of some decay, not having been used since 1930, the existing track is expected to be reconditioned.

The fair would be the first of its class opened on the Island since the 1938 BCAA Fair at Willows.

Although largely inactive since that time, the BCAA has continued in good standing with the registrar of companies and its charter, dating back to 1872, remains valid and active.

ACCESSIBLE

The fair ground site is six miles from the city centre, and is accessible from all directions with two major highways and two railroads adjacent to them. There are also numerous motels near at hand.

Future plans call for landscaping of the property, with possible erection of facilities to accommodate baseball, football, basketball, curling, hockey and theatricals.

Stipulated a non-profit making organization under their charter from the federal government, the B.C. Agricultural Association receives annual statutory grants from that body and from the provincial government for maintenance of a fair.

U.K. Troop Withdrawal On Monday

LONDON (Reuters) — The withdrawal of British troops from Jordan will start next Monday, the Defence Ministry said today.

It said movement of personnel and stores from Amman to the port of Aqaba already has started.

About 3,000 British troops moved into Jordan at the request of King Hussein following the Iraq coup July 14.

Today's defence ministry announcement said the withdrawal should be completed by the middle of November.

The troops will be transported to Cyprus and Kenya.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United Nations will help the British get their troops out of Jordan, secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold said today.

He announced that the UN will aid with ground control of British transport planes flying paratroops from Jordan to Cyprus over Syria and Lebanon.

A Jordanian official earlier said that within the next week the United Arab Republic would lift its air and ground blockade of Jordan to help speed the British withdrawal.

WIRE BRIEFS

Comox Flier Killed

COMOX (CP) — An airman stationed at the RCAF station here was killed Friday night when his car skidded and crashed into a power pole at the intersection of Anderton and Dumphries Roads. His name was withheld.

Russ Jet Liner Crash

LONDON (AP) — A Russian TU-104 jetliner has crashed inside the Soviet Union killing four West Germans who were among its passengers, according to reports to German diplomatic sources today.

Detroit Wins 3-1

CHICAGO—A hat-trick by Alex Delvecchio gained Detroit Red Wings a 3-1 victory over National Hockey League leaders Chicago Black Hawks here today.

PERSONALITY CLASH DESCRIBED BY MONTY

How the strong personalities of "Monty" and "Ike" clashed after D-Day is told in the issue of WEEKEND magazine distributed with this issue of The Times.

In the second instalment of his own story, Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery picks up the thread of war in December, 1943, tells how D-Day was settled upon—and of British-U.S. differences which followed.

2-DAY NIGHTMARE

He Prayed In Icy Sea

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Ferndale, Wash., fisherman was pulled from the sea Friday by the British freighter Pacific Stronghold following a nightmarish two days in which his boat broke down and he was forced to swim for his life.

Raymond Hong, about 20, was picked up by the 11,300-ton freighter off Point Roberts, south of here, after he drifted and prayed for three hours, thrashing the icy waters to keep afloat.

His struggle for survival began Wednesday when his small gillnetter, loaded with fish, broke down in dank grey fog a few miles off Point Roberts.

Trying to attract attention, he fell overboard, but managed to pull himself aboard again.

But the boat began to fill with water, and finally settled to her gunwales.

Friday morning he found himself swimming, alone, in a cold, silent sea. It was then that the Pacific Stranghold, bound to Vancouver from Bellingham, Wash., spied him and went to his aid.

They gave him clothing, food, and a warm cabin.

He was taken to the United States consulate and provided with bus fare and pocket money to return home.

Storm-Tossed Tug Rescued Off Nanaimo

Two tugs and a U.S. Coast Guard cutter teamed up to save a third tug and its three crew members in a sudden storm just after midnight this morning.

The mishap occurred off Ballenas Island, about 18 miles north of Nanaimo.

The 40-foot tug Nanaimo Brave had left Jervis Inlet on the mainland 24 hours previously with a tow of logs and was making for Nanaimo when the storm came up.

She cast her tow loose at about 12.30 a.m., but ran into extremely heavy seas and took on water faster than her pumps could clear it. When the pumps failed altogether she radioed for assistance.

Air-Sea Rescue dispatched the cutter White Holly and the Vancouver Tugboat Co. tug Le Mars to her aid. The cutter made a lee while Nanaimo Brave's Captain Fred Wicks and mate Gordon McNeil of Nanaimo, and deckhand Robert London of Vancouver, leaped to safety on Le Mars at 1.45 a.m.

Meanwhile, the tug Broughton Straits, a sister ship of the Brave in the Nanaimo Towing Limited fleet put a line on the Brave, towed her to shelter at North West Bay, then pumped her dry.

Company manager Ian MacLeod said in Nanaimo today the Brave would be towed to Nanaimo when the weather is favorable.

"It was a sudden and unexpected storm," he said. "We wouldn't have dared tow logs across Georgia Strait unless we were pretty sure it was going to be dead calm."

Bribe Trial Resumes On Monday

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia's longest and most celebrated criminal Assize Court trial resumes here Oct. 20 after a juror's illness forced six-week adjournment.

Its central figure is Robert Sommers, 47-year-old MLA for Rossland-Trail, who was minister of lands and forests in the Social Credit government of Premier Bennett until his resignation in 1956. He and three timber executives and four firms are charged with bribery and conspiracy.

The case has been before Assize Court Justice J. O. Wilson and a jury of nine men and three women since May 1.

It is expected that on its resumption for its 66th actual sitting day—the previous record was 43 days—the trial will take at least another two weeks.

The case is unique in the province not only for its length but for the number of adjournments and technical points of law, raised mostly by the six defence lawyers.

Sommers' lawyer Angelo Branca was about to address the jury and wind up the overall defence case on the 65th day of the trial Sept. 4 when a woman juror became ill.

The case may go to the jury sometime early in November.

TOKYO, Sunday (AP)—The Tokyo meteorological station today announced detecting a new Soviet nuclear blast that may have been the biggest set off since Russia resumed testing on Sept. 30.

U.S. WRITER'S VIEW ON CHINA

What It's Like To Be 'Enemy'

This is the second in a series of articles by special NEA correspondent John Strohm on his tour of Communist China.

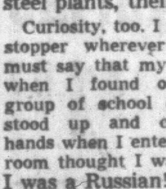
By JOHN STROHM

NEW YORK—What of the Red Chinese attitude toward John Strohm, the only American correspondent with both U.S. and Chinese permission to travel in China?

Amazement, first. For here was the mortal enemy they were ranting about, calmly taking pictures of their steel plants, their farms and their militia.

Curiosity, too. I was a crowd-stopper wherever I went. I must say that my ego dropped when I found out that one group of school children who stood up and clapped their hands when I entered the classroom thought I was a Russian. I was a Russian!

In a few spots the searing blast of hatred continually directed toward the U.S. licked at me personally. A cartoon of protest was drawn of me and placed in my hired automobile.



Strohm

Once while I was being shown through a farm implement repair shop by the vice-director of one of the new communes, a belligerent worker pushed toward me and shouted, "Get out! Get out!"

On another occasion I was surrounded and jostled by students who were serving the state by running a small blast furnace.

Scarcely anyone, once my identity as an American was established, missed an opportunity to lecture me severely about American imperialism and the validity of Red China's aims. An engineer claimed he once had seen U.S. soldiers rape girls in Peiping. In Shanghai, I was conducted through a street memorable as the scene where a drunken GI allegedly killed a pedicab driver.

"This is not a happy time for you to be here," was the understatement of a factory manager in Nanking.

10 MISSING IN SUBMERGED RADAR PLANE

ARGENTIA, Nfld. (CP) — One man is known dead and 10 others are missing with little hope for their survival following the crash into Placentia Bay early today of a huge U.S. Navy radar patrol plane.

Eighteen of the 29 men aboard the Super Constellation were rescued.

A U.S. Navy officer declined to comment on the possibility the 10 men could live inside the submerged plane, a half-mile offshore. The plane's wing tip was visible above the water.

The spokesman said "the men are listed as missing." Rescue operations "are going on smoothly and quietly."

MECHANISM PROVES SUICIDE

Bomber Blew Himself Up

WICHITA, Kan (AP) — The bomb that blasted Forrest Don McCuiston to death in Wichita's big air terminal Friday was hand detonated, police reported today.

This, Police Chief Eugene Pond said, "seems to bear out the theory of suicide."

The bomb, hidden in a paper-wrapped package, exploded as the unemployed Tulsa, Okla., aircraft worker carried it along a passageway adjoining the terminal's lobby.

A Federal Bureau of Investigation explosives expert discovered that the home-made dynamite bomb had no timing device and had to be set off manually, Pond said. Until this was discovered, authorities had been puzzled by some angles of the strange tragedy.

Donna Folsom of Dallas, Tex., the plane's hostess, remembered the package.

"I remember the man taking it down from the luggage rack as he left," she recalled. "It was larger than a shoe box. He carried it under his arm."

During the flight, Miss Folsom said, McCuiston seemed preoccupied, and in Wichita, "when I said goodbye to him he didn't answer, but just walked on past."

OUT OF JOB

McCuiston was convicted last June 24 on four counts of income tax evasion and placed on three years probation.

At his home in Tulsa, Okla., his wife, Mary, said he had been out of a job about a month and had gone to Wichita to seek employment. His father was quoted as telling neighbors his son also was losing his eyesight and had heart trouble.

McCuiston was an aircraft worker by trade. Police said they were informed he also was an "inventor and tinkerer." Neighbors described him as a quiet man who stayed much in his own yard.

Scottish XI In Shutout Soccer Win

((SCORES ON PAGE TWO)

LONDON (Reuters) — Scotland's international team, unbeaten on Welsh soil in 20 years, kept its record intact today with a 3-0 victory over Wales that gave the Scots an early-season lead in the four-team United Kingdom inter-sectional competition.

England and Ireland, the two other international teams, played to a 3-3 tie in their first games of the season and are tied for second place, one point behind Scotland.

In league play today, Bolton Wanderers opened up a two-point lead in the First Division with a 4-0 home victory over Blackpool. The Wanderers, winners of the Football Association Cup last year, had been in a tie with Preston North End for the lead before today's games but Preston bowed to Newcastle United 4-3.

Arsenal, Wolverhampton and Luton Town all took advantage of Preston's loss to pull into a points-tie for second place with the North-Enders, but Arsenal had the best goal average. The Wolves, last year's league champions, played to a 1-1 tie at Arsenal and Luton Town edged Chelsea 2-1.

WORLD'S MOST POWERFUL

Giant Bomber Built by Boeing

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — The most powerful airplane in the world—a global bomber that carries two guided missiles and several nuclear bombs—makes its maiden flight next week.

The air force disclosed today that the B-52G, with vastly greater range and punch than earlier B-52s, will enter Strategic Air Command squadrons "early next year."

Built here by Boeing Airplane Co., the eight-engine B-52G will carry two "Hound Dog" missiles that can be launched hundreds of miles from heavily defended targets.

With a guidance system that enemy radio or radar cannot jam, the supersonic missile is "all but impossible to stop," the air force said.

Armed also with "a selection of nuclear weapons" in its giant bomb-bay, the 650-mile-an-hour B-52G will be able to "destroy several targets literally thousands of miles apart on a single mission," the service added.

The plane poised for its first flight here is a 225-ton monster with enough fuel in its 185-foot wing to drive it more than 8,000 miles. This is 25 per cent further than earlier B-52s could go and makes the "G" a truly intercontinental jet bomber.

With a single in-flight refueling from a jet tanker, it can fly more than 10,000 miles.

COLLEGE ASSEMBLY

Science, Arts Must March Together—Dean

Science must never be separated from the arts, Victoria College annual assembly was told Friday night.

Carleton University Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, James A. Gibson, warned the gathering against ignoring arts in favor of pure science.

"There is a vast difference between scientific application divorced from every other strand of learning, and comprehension and scientific knowledge which fits in with the general reaching out of all human knowledge.

"For let no one suppose that progress in scientific achievement can really be separated from the intellectual climate in which a whole society lives.

"Do we really think we can work prodigies in science and live in an intellectual ice-age as far as other areas of learning are concerned?"

ABUSE

It would be a real abuse of greatness, he told the assembly, if the "sense of identity with history leaves us intellectually untouched, or if it should evade us, elude us, and pass by on the other side."

He advocated simultaneous attention to the arts, including history, and to the fields of science currently being emphasized in education.

Backed by over 50 years of tradition the ceremony was held at Victoria High School attended by over 400 relatives and friends.

Among the dignitaries were Education Minister Leslie Petersen, Works Minister W. N. Chant, Conservative M.P. A. de B. McPhillips, provincial archivist Willard Ireland, and pastor of Metropolitan United Church, Dr. F. E. H. James.

Chairman of the college council, Judge J. B. Clearihue, introduced the speaker, commenting on his previous association with the college as a student.

HICKMAN REPORTS

Judge Clearihue also introduced Principal W. H. Hickman, who gave a short report on the progress made over the past year.

In his address, Judge Clearihue told the assembly a library and science buildings are needed urgently at the college to stave off the possibility of restricted registration next year.

"If we don't get these facilities, I don't know where we are going to put the students," he said.

He said negotiations are going on with the federal government for the purchase of land at Gordon Head and with the provincial government for building funds.

2,000 BY 1970

He estimated that by 1970 there will be 2,000 students in first and second years alone and this would be swelled by third and fourth-year students.

"I have a hope that some of the class of 1962 will be the first to graduate from Victoria College," he said.

"The only reason we are not giving third or fourth-year courses," he said, "is that we have no buildings, no money, and not enough staff for even the first two years."

Judge Clearihue said that degree-granting courses at the college would be confined at first to arts and education but "we hope in the distant future to be able to give degrees in all the faculties."

He Giveth His Beard —For $100

The Community Chest, which in recent weeks has been the recipient of various weird gifts ranging from five tons of fish to a sweepstake ticket on a horse race, today got another one.

A beard.

Taken from the smiling jowls of Chest secretary Adrian Gilmore, the goatee-type beard was worth $100 to the campaign.

The money was promised to the Chest by campaign manager Justin Harbord, on the condition that Mr. Gilmore shaved his centennial fungus off.

HE PAID

He lost it Friday. Mr. Harbord paid up today.

Said he, "Greater love hath no man than that he giveth his beard to the community.

"But seriously, Victoria should consider itself fortunate to have in its employ this dedicated man. He is doing a wonderful job in the drive."

Meanwhile, the residential canvass was officially ending today, although considerable call-backs have still to be made.

Total cash received from all sources to date is $132,775.11.

Untouchable 'Book of Elite' Unveiled

MONTREAL (CP) — All that was missing was a burst of trumpet fanfare as Canada's new social directory of 40,000 names was unveiled Friday night before some 20 "select" reporters in a hotel suite normally reserved for royalty.

The book, a 700-page register bound in blue with a crest stamped in pure gold, was displayed with all the pride of parents showing off a new-born babe.

It lay in a glass crib on a bed of white satin. A single light bulb of soft pink illuminated two pages of closely-printed names—from Gagnon to Gerin-Lajoie, all Montrealers.

LOCK THE DOORS

A security guard in a blue uniform stood by, unarmed, to make sure reporters didn't man-handle the book or search for names. A mysterious official in another room of the royal suite—locked for safety's sake—checked names submitted by reporters.

Yes, Prime Minister Diefenbaker is listed. So are former prime minister Louis St. Laurent and Arthur Meighen. And Governor-General Massey.

"The church, the bench, the scalpel, the professions and parliament are well represented," said a social register spokesman. "So are some people who've never attended or given a cocktail party."

The book was compiled after 300 arbiters across the country nominated names of socially prominent people. It lists names and addresses, titles, decorations, clubs and phone numbers.

FOR CHRISTMAS CARDS

"It's a handy guide for making up Christmas card lists," said the spokesman.

Host at the partly was Toronto publisher David B. Crombie, who is vice-president of the Social Register of Canada Limited, sponsors of the book. He isn't listed in the register.

But then neither is hockey player Maurice Richard or comedians John Wayne and Frank Shuster.

Mr. Crombie said almost 10,000 Canadians have joined the Social Register Association of Canada, which entitles them to a gold-embossed membership card and a copy of the register. The only way to join the association is to get your name in the book itself, and pay a $25 membership fee.

"The book is not for public distribution," said Mr. Crombie. "It will not be sold, copies may not be bought in book shops, and I question the advisability of it ever being available to the general public."

He said copies were being mailed — second-class mail — to members.

Toronto has 56 pages of names; Ottawa, 33½ pages; Halifax, 14; Vancouver, 26; Winnipeg and Edmonton, each; Saskatoon, five, and Whitehorse, one.

The 555-foot-high Washington Monument in the United States capital has 81,820 tons of marble.

New Columbia Agency Urged

International Commission Flop On Water Hassle Says Senator

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP) — Establishment of a new committee to deal with U.S.-Canadian development of the Columbia River system was urged here Friday night by Senator Henry M. Jackson in a campaign address.

Jackson said the International Joint Commission has "neither the inclination nor the foresight" to find a solution.

Authority of the new agency should be broad enough, Jackson said, to enable the United States and Canada to work together in the fields of water resources, irrigation, flood control and economic development.

Friendly relations between the two countries in the past proved that a satisfactory agreement on the Columbia can be reached, but he did not believe the present commission was the agency to do the job.

OTHER PROBLEMS

"Regardless of how complete our program of downstream Columbia River hydro-electric power dams becomes, it can never realize its full potential until sufficient water storage facilities are constructed on Canadian soil to assure a steady water supply," Jackson said.

Canada and the United States will have to work closely on other problems now that Alaska has become a state, Jackson said. He cited the need for new and better U.S.-Alaska highway routes.

Jackson suggested that the new agency be composed of one member from the federal government, one each from Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana and five from Canada.

TO SUBMIT BRIEFS

Permission was given counsel for the city of Seatle, Wash., and British Columbia for submission of written briefs in their long-standing dispute about headwaters of the Ross Dam backing into the province. The commission looked into the matter as long ago as 1942.

Only 15 to 20 minutes was devoted to the most contentious issue of all, the Columbia River. Canada is awaiting comprehensive engineering and economic reports which will allow the problem to be pursued afresh and these are expected by the end of next month.

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION?

By MICHAEL ROSE

Question: What do you think of the attempts by the United States and other countries to launch a moon rocket?

Bud French, 326 Simcoe.

"Progress is progress and we'll never know the possibilities of rockets unless we try. If we don't try to get to the moon we will always be in doubt as to what lies out there."

French

Richards

Sharon Richards, 1789 Rockland.

"The whole thing is silly. I think we should be satisfied with what we have on earth. There is enough trouble here as it is without looking for more out there."

Marie Suffern, 111 Ladysmith.

"Russia is trying to do it, we must keep up with them and on that basis its okay. Also I think we should try to get to the moon just to find out if there is anything there."

Suffern

Zupanc

Frank Zupanc, 239 Tolcoss.

"I think it's a good thing since we will find out what is there and maybe improve what we have here by doing it."

Cecil Laundy, 2585 Queenswood.

"It is a good idea and I think they should keep on with it. We will certainly learn a lot about the moon and what there is on it. It will be interesting to see the other side after so many years."

Laundy

Hogg

Margaret Hogg, 13 Vickery.

"It's progress and it will satisfy a lot of people's curiosity. I don't think they will find anything even if they do get there but it's something different anyway."

Latest Meet Sidesteps Big Decisions

OTTAWA (CP) — A regular meeting of the international joint commission completed a heavy agenda Friday night with indications that no major decisions were taken.

The usual summary report will be released Monday, it was announced. The Canadian-American group concerned with problems arising from boundary waters, finished its closed-door meeting too late to make the drafted report public.

Subjects covered ranged from the west to east coasts during the four-day meeting.

Civil Service Resignations Seen Over Pay

CALGARY (CP)—J. C. Best of Ottawa, president of the Civil Service Association of Canada, says the federal government can expect resignations of highly trained civil service personnel unless wages are brought into line with industry.

He said scientific, professional and technical ranks will be thinned first unless wages improve. Mr. Best made his remarks Friday at a meeting of Calgary civil servants and at a press conference.

He said the association is protesting to Prime Minister Diefenbaker a decision by the civil service commission that a general nine-per-cent wage increase for civil servants is not necessary at this time. The association now would press for a general 15-per-cent increase.

Mr. Best said salary conditions cause the higher turnover of civil servants.

Hunters Fined For Disturbing Birds With Boat

NANAIMO (CP) — Three hunters each were fined $10 and costs here Wednesday after they were arrested on a seldom-enforced section of the Migratory Birds Act.

John Hunt, Robert Nash and Alfred York were observed shooting ducks over Michael Lake, using a motorboat to disturb the birds and force them to flight.

Game Warden Frank Greenfield said 33 shots were fired in less than 20 minutes, "to give you an idea of the number of ducks flying over."

Thirteen birds and the hunters' guns were confiscated by officials.

The section of the act forbids "using a boat, aircraft or motor vehicle to disturb birds with the object of driving them towards the hunter."

U.S. NEWSMAN LOOKS AT RED CHINA

My interpreter, who had translated a hundred lectures to me and must have been as tired as I of the propaganda monotone, consoled me in these words:

"You're the only American most of them have ever met. It is their chance to tell you what they think."

It's Dulles

What is it like to be an American in a hostile land at a time like the Quemoy crisis? One moves in a constant bath of virulent propaganda, from the official radio to the irate ladies in the old folks home.

To those who seem to possess some power to reason, you keep up a stiff counter-battery of patient argument. But when day is over the mind is exhausted and the spirit flags, even though you know one man cannot expect to offset massive Communist "re-education" and thought control.

The healing balm of honest resentment is a luxury one can enjoy only to a limited extent. Mainly one feels sorrow for the poor Chinese, whose streets, homes, shops and bodies have been cleaned up miraculously while, at the same time, their minds have been blackened by hatred and distortion.

Is there anywhere a few drops of good will for America? Many Chinese assured me that they were quite fond of the American people and wanted to be friends but that John Foster Dulles was preventing Americans from getting the truth about China.

I would be less than truthful if I failed to say that the vast majority of the Chinese I met—even against the hateful obbligato of the propaganda—were most helpful to me personally. They were courteous and far less evasive than the Russians on my visits to the U.S.S.R.

Give and Take

The International Tourist Bureau, a government agency that handles all foreign visitors, made every arrangement I requested, took me everywhere I asked to go. While travelling in the rural areas, I would spot farmers working in the fields and tell the driver, "Stop!" The interpreter and I would have a visit with the farmers and then move on, often stopping unannounced at an agricultural college or hospital.

Many of the impromptu conversations which resulted became spirited give and take. I pulled no punches in refuting charges against the U.S. but the debates produced no winners.

As in my visit to the Soviet Union this summer I raised the point: "But war is so terrible today there can be no victors and so there will be no war."

I found that this did not go over as well in Red China as it did in Russia because the Chinese seem to have a fatalistic acceptance that if war results from their effort to take what they believe rightfully belongs to China, then war it must be and the U.S. will be at fault.

Party Chairman Mao has said that China is the only nation that can afford a war: "We can lose 300 million Chinese and still have 300 million left."

A diplomat has reported a grim conversation with Mao in which the party leader said: "First World War set up socialism in Russia. Second World war set up socialism in the peoples' democracies of Europe and China. Third World War might see the death of capitalism and the triumph of socialism around the world."

Industrial Surge

How does one evaluate such statements as these? I only know this for sure: all this war spirit is getting a fantastic surge of production out of the Chinese workers, known officially as "the great leap forward in agriculture and industry."

In one rural commune they had set up 5,000 tiny blast furnaces to make pig iron, promised another 5,000 by the end of October as their answer to American "aggression."

A letter by a worker in a truck factory said, "We'll crush American aggressors beneath the wheels of our trucks."

Fukien province farmers, close to the guns trained at Quemoy, adopted the slogan, "More grain to support the front: heavy blows to beat the U.S. wolves."

Another reaction reported in the press: "Five million tons of manure were transported in one evening's effort."

When I visited the big open-cut coal mine in Fushun the secretary told me the workers were so upset they had voted to create "20 sputniks" — 20 new types of machinery to make for more efficient production.

During the past month most factories and communes have organized militia units. I saw them drilling with rifles or wooden sticks. They were, these amateurs asserted, ready to march out and repel the U.S. Marines who were going to land any day now on the Chinese mainland "just as they did in Lebanon."

"But what makes you think America has any idea of attacking China?" I would ask. And they would come back with Chiang's statements that he would lead his army back to the mainland and quote American admirals as boasting that the U.S. was backing up the Formosa government with "the greatest striking power in history."

But sometimes they are disdainful of American strength. "When America talks so much of its power," a Hankow steel official told me gravely, "it is really a sign of American weakness."

When I tried to talk back to this sort of thing by saying "America never started a war. Why should it now?" they would come back with a knowing smile: "And what about Korea?"

For many Chinese are persuaded that the U.S. started the war in Korea, just as they are sure that the Chinese Volunteers won it.

"The American people are afraid that the Communists want to force their form of government on the rest of the world," I argued.

Again the smile. "Ridiculous, Lenin himself said communism cannot be exported."

Only rarely did I encounter flashes of the Chinese humor which once was so endearing. Once in protesting that I did not believe there would be a war or I would not be travelling in China, I pulled out a photograph of my wife and six children.

"Oh, oh," smiled a factory manager, "so you are sputnik father."

Sputnik is the Chinese label given to anyone who overfulfills the production plan.

Pearson Gives Battle Pledge Against Tories

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Leader Pearson, "cheered and encouraged" by a cross-Canada tour, said Friday night his party will continue to hammer at "staggering inconsistencies and contradictions" exhibited by the government.

The opposition will not be deterred from its duties of criticism by any amount of government reaction, he said, while supporting measures of national interest, especially a united front where possible in international relations.

Mr. Pearson spoke over the trans-Canada network of the CBC in the political series called The Nation's Business. It is the first of a number of broadcasts to be made on the program on behalf of the Liberal party.

Mr. Pearson said the government's inconsistencies were revealed in its words while in opposition and its actions in office. The much-publicized public works program had been a "quack-remedy" for curing unemployment. Nor was the Liberal party going to allow a "wordy vision of the future, however glowing," dazzle its reaction to present problems.

The increase in wool duties and anti-dumping legislation passed at the last session of Parliament had cast a "lurid light" on Conservative eloquence about expanding Commonwealth trade.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT

Better Health Through Knowledge

- Food Cravings
- Face Picking
- Fluoridation

Q. Do doctors know why some expectant mothers crave certain foods?

A. There is no good explanation for this. Fruit seems to be a popularly "craved" item but some women have a yen for such things as sour pickles, soap and toothpaste. One doctor advanced the idea that cravings by expectant mothers may be due to the desire for something to crunch. According to this theory, texture of the food is more important than flavor. There is not very much said in the scientific literature about "cravings" during pregnancy. Some of our readers might shed a little more light on the subject. Those who have experienced such "cravings" might like to drop us a line.

Q. I have been trying to keep my face clear of pimples and blackheads but squeezing just makes matters worse. What should I do?

A. Leave the pimples alone! An Indiana doctor questioned 96 acne patients and found that those who had the most trouble frequently squeezed and picked facial blemishes. Patients who cleared up under the doctor's care were asked what they did to help achieve results. The reply was prompt. "I quit picking and squeezing"

Q. "What is your report on fluoride in drinking water? Some say it's good for the teeth but bad for the body."—A reader.

A. This was discussed several months ago. It is generally agreed that consumption of water containing small amounts of fluoride helps reduce tooth decay. Such water is considered perfectly safe. It has been reported that fluoride irritates the gums and the mouth tissue of some people. Whether this will become a problem is not known.

Answers do not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician.

The Deep Plunge

AS WAS REMARKED HERE the other day, the Government of Canada is experiencing for the first time a marginal but disquieting public resistance to its bonds. The reason for the disappointing sale of bonds to the private investor, as distinguished from the banking system, is obvious: The private investor cannot be sure what his money will be worth in purchasing power when the bonds are repaid, years from now.

Hence, as we said here before, the primary task of the Diefenbaker Government, in managing the national household, is to protect the value of money. For if confidence in money should be seriously impaired not only the Government's finances but the foundations of the democratic system itself would be in danger. Lack of such confidence is the dry-rot which, throughout history, has undermined many great states.

What, then, is the present Government doing to preserve the value of money? Something, certainly, but not nearly enough.

At the expense of repudiating its pre-election doctrine, it has sharply raised interest rates, a powerful weapon against monetary inflation. On the other hand, its gigantic deficits are calculated to feed inflation, at any rate after the current recession has passed.

These deficits are the core of the Government's fiscal problem.

Anyone who understands the national economy, and its limitations, must have been appalled to hear Mr. Diefenbaker say a few days ago that his Government was borrowing money and going into new debt at the rate of $100 millions a month.

The current annual deficit is officially reckoned at just under $700 millions but these calculations clearly are far too small. In fact, whether it is all called deficit or not, the Government is living beyond its immediate means at the rate of about $1.2 billions a year. And this is monetary gasoline poured on the combustible stuff of inflation, to be ignited soon or late.

Of course the Government's huge spending and massive deficits are not the only trouble. The present inflation is not mainly monetary but results for the most part from a rise in physical production costs—the familiar wage-price spiral.

To suppress the spiral the Government has thought of nothing, so far, but exhortation, and very mild exhortation at that. The Liberal Party, its fingers burned when it made a bold assault on monetary inflation some two years ago, is saying very little on that painful subject these days. The spiral continues.

But there is one obvious and proper thing that the Government can do to encourage public confidence in its bonds. It can begin to curb its deep plunge into deficits.

Most economists agree that a deficit in time of recession is wise to stimulate purchasing power but just as one medical pill may be valuable to a sick man and more may be lethal, so a deficit may be too large.

Does anyone, even Mr. Fleming, doubt that a deficit on the scale of a hundred million a month is too large? Many private investors evidently think so anyway.

The more bitter sort of Opposition partisans may find some cold comfort in the collapse of the Government's entire pre-election doctrine of finance. That is no help to the bond holder, to the Canadian family owning life insurance, to the pensioner who finds an adequate pension, long saved, now quite inadequate. None of us, in fact, except a few lucky speculators, can escape the erosion of money.

It is to be hoped, therefore, that the Government will plan courageously now for the days, perhaps not far ahead, when there will be no economic need for any deficit but, instead, a need for a surplus to pay off some of our swelling debt.

Such was the policy of the former Government—it's so-called "over taxation"—as long attacked by the Conservative Opposition.

To return to that policy at the proper time, to admit that the Conservative Party was utterly wrong and irresponsible two years ago, will require high courage. No one can question the need of it when the public, despite an intensive selling campaign, has lately reduced its holding of the Government's bonds.

Non-Political Civil Service

THE BRITISH COLUMBIA GOVernment Employees' Association has quickly and properly repudiated the suggestion that the association has committed itself to support any particular party.

It has affiliated with organized labor and the Canadian Labor Congress is at present negotiating with the CCF. But the official provincial civil servants' body is not tied to any partisan affiliation.

It is the right, of course, of individual members of the association to enjoy their own political convictions. It is inconceivable, however, that the association as such should be connected with a political party. The job of the civil servant is to work for the province under whatever government happens to be in office. Governments, by and large, have respected that point and have generally avoided political appointments within the service.

Any other course would disrupt the force conducting the province's business whenever a new party was put in power.

The civil service, a highly commendable group of men and women who perform their tasks well, has the right to expect non-political treatment in its work. Governments have a similar right to expect non-political service from the employees.

Leadership In the South

ONE OF THE MORE HOPEFUL attitudes arising from the United States' school desegregation issue has been taken by the Asheville (North Carolina) Times.

That newspaper expresses the honest opinion that most southern white people favor the segregated school system and are "understandably sad about this drastic change in their way of life."

But this paper faces the facts and says,

"We must adjust ourselves as rapidly as possible to this new way of life in public education. We must build a new and better tolerance and goodwill among all our citizens, whatever personal opinions they previously held on the school segregation question. . .

"It is sheer folly now to denounce the Supreme Court and keep looking toward the past instead of toward the glorious future that is ahead for this wonderful region of vast resources and great new opportunities. Our first big task is to see to it that the South's children get the best education possible."

The attitude of the Asheville Times may not represent the opinion of the Southern States. It does, however, point up an encouraging approach to the problem that so deeply disturbs our neighbors.

What Now In Guinea?

BEFORE MEMBER COUNTRIES of the French union voted recently on Gen. de Gaulle's constitutional referendum, Sekou Toure, prime minister of Guinea, placed himself at the head of what he took to be a parade of African peoples away from France.

Mr. Toure came to the fork in the road, took his course and found, when the votes were counted, that the parade had gone the other way. He was left alone.

As a result of his action, Guinea has achieved independence, but at a price. That price is the probable loss of economic support previously given to the country by France and the assistance given its administration by experienced French officials. If, or when, the two are withdrawn, Guinea faces difficulties.

And the Soviet Union seems to be following its general policy in offering to replace departing French aid, financial and administrative.

Russia has reportedly recognized Guinea's independence and seems prepared to establish diplomatic contact. That could be followed by economic and technical help.

Thus arises a situation familiar enough in these days of heightened nationalism among former colonial peoples. Guinea, in Sekou Toure's words, "prefers freedom in poverty to riches in slavery." But Guinea, in its present state of development, can scarcely stand alone.

The question raised by Guinea's decision is whether the Western nations embark on the often thankless task of helping the new state to attain strength, or of leaving the field open to Russia.

It is a question to which the West can ill afford to show indifference.

As Our Readers See It

Unsigned Library Contract

Four years ago a new library contract was proposed between the City of Victoria and the other municipalities. In 1956, Saanich electors assented by a large majority; late in 1957, the Intermunicipal Committee approved terms and then city voters passed the by-law by a seven-to-one majority. And yet the contract remains unsigned.

Meanwhile the Library offers improved facilities, and Greater Victoria increases its use of these. Book circulation in 1957 amounted to 618,619, an increase of 50 per cent over that of 1952, while the cost of circulating one book dropped in this period from 37.20 cents to 27.47 cents.

One does not question the wisdom of careful study and consequent delay. But problems quite as formidable confronted those who established the regional libraries of British Columbia, some of which are over twenty years old.

This, then, is a plea that councils now give to the library contract the priority it deserves, and resolve any remaining difficulties before the approaching municipal elections.

Culture Hits Canada, Painted Any Pictures Lately?

AS I gather after a month's absence, the city of Victoria has been stirred to the very depths of its being by a Work of Art. The town is split cleanly down its psychic middle by the paintings of a Mexican artist who is regarded by one side as a new Michelangelo and by the other as a bungling fake. This elevated, high-class debate is encouraging, especially at a time when the great Professor Lower is telling us over and over again that Canada has no soul.

Hutchison

In Victoria at any rate we obviously have a soul. No citizen of this town, except me, lacks a knowledge of Art or an opinion of the Mexican artist.

AS I am reliably informed, families are split, lovers are estranged, brother's hand is turned against brother, tycoons of business wrangle on street corners and truck drivers congest the traffic as they argue the artist's merits.

Alone I am immune to this debate because I know nothing about Art. It is a shameful admission to make when everybody else has a soul and has taken to wearing it on his sleeve.

Concerning these things, Mr. Stuart Keate, a reformed publisher and now an art collector, pronounces an important dictum. He says that everyone has a right to pronounce a verdict on the Mexican or any other artist. Quite true. But why should this basic human right be confined to Art?

THOUGH I hesitate to mention it in this furious artistic climate, there are other things beside Art which ought to be open to criticism but, strangely enough are not.

A man writes a book or paints a picture, exposes his soul and must take the consequences, no holds barred, no law of libel to protect him. Yet if he makes a new kind of detergent, a repulsive breakfast food or a hideous automobile, no critics, professional or amateur, pounce upon him.

He can pollute the air with the smell of his soap, assault the palate with his groceries or fill half a block with his car and nobody complains. Let Professor Lower note that well. His nation of Philistines is concerned only with higher things.

As the only citizen not concerned with them I look forward to a brighter day and a broader criticism. Having mastered, overnight, the principles of Art, we shall apply our new critical faculties to the neglected common things.

BESIDE the critic's review of a play or symphony we shall read the grocery critic's review of the latest bread, ham or sausage.

For example: "The Cellulose Baking Corporation's new loaf has a certain wooden symmetry of antique, pre-Raphaelite design but it lacks a true perspective, the colors are artificial, as if the artist were straining too much for effect, and the new-fangled texture of sawdust and gypsum (a feature of the radical, avant-garde school) violates the canons of composition."

What the critic means, of course, is that the bread contains no flavor and nourishment but in these cultured days you have to put these matters in the right lingo if you are to qualify as a critic.

THE professional critic will not tell us that modern commercial ham tastes like dyed flannel but that "The latest opus of the Unpalatable Food Corporation is an ambitious attempt to capture the spirit of the early primitives and combine it with the metier of the surrealist philosophy, but artistic integrity compels one to say that the attempt is a noble failure. The artist has a certain crude color sense but no instinct for line or balance. His work makes a fairly interesting exhibition at the Art Gallery but unhappily it has no place on the dinner table or in the stomach."

Or the soap critic will find that the masterpiece of Bubbles Inc. "while possessing a certain shiny, meretricious gloss cannot honestly be said to expand the horizons of our national culture since the basic architecture has no symmetry, it does not rise above the rudimentary, spherical concept of the bubble and, in truth, is only froth dressed up to look like Art."

THIS job of criticism will be nice work if you can get it. After a lifetime among sordid things like politics I am training for an old age of criticism.

I shall specialize, I think, in vegetables, my first pronouncement being that no British Columbian has ever tasted a potato, a vegetable grown solely in the Alberta foothills by a colony of primitive artists.

Also, I am planning a two-volume work on Okanagan peaches and melons as ripened to perfection there but never sold in that state in our cities.

Finally I shall publish a libelous pamphlet on householders who burn leaves in the autumn instead of composting them.

The field of criticism is unlimited now that Canada is emancipated. But if you are to earn any money from it you must first learn the lingo. I'm working on that now.

Thoughts of a Blacksmith Set Off a Chain of Memories

THERE is in this whole wide world probably nothing that so envelops the mind in the soft shrouds of nostalgia as to have witnessed the passing of an era in the history of mankind. It is not necessary that the end of an era shall be mourned, the passing is so inevitable. There is a compulsion which turns the wheels of progress. The only pity is that so often as they roll some beauty, some human quality may be crushed in the process.

Sivertz

And it is the height of futility to pretend that the "good old days" did not also encompass a great deal of poverty, soul-searing labor and stultifying monotony of long hours at menial tasks. From much of this the technological skills of this century have delivered us and granted us thousands of hours of leisure to pursue our random provocations.

One price of progress, however, is the loss of many manual skills and the passing of the craftsman, proud of his abilities — perhaps a heavy price to pay for what the age of automation has given us in substitution.

Remember the cabinet-maker, and he need not have been another Hepplewhite, Sheraton or Adam, his feet deep in the curled shavings from his huge wooden jackplane? His blunt-fingered hands smoothed from lovingly polishing wood; his handsaw so finely tempered that it could be bent into an arc of steel and then spring back as true as the day it was first fashioned; his chisels whetted to a razor's edge and then stropped on his own callused palm.

Remember the singing strokes of a crosscut saw in the winter woods and the sharp voice of a keen-edged two-bitted axe as it flaked off precise and thick chips of alder out in a woodlot?

There are so many fine, wholesome memories of men and women of skill: the shipwrights, the patient printers with their "sticks" of hand-set type and their almost magnetic fingers; women carding, spinning and weaving wool from their own sheep — the blacksmith and wheelwright.

Indeed, it is the memory of a master carriage maker, wheelwright and blacksmith that set off this chain of memories.

His name was John Meston and, as you may imagine, he was a Scot. But his heart was in Victoria, the city of his adoption and on which his long and useful life left an impact for good.

He was a quiet man and proud like so many of his race. And it may be that in his veins ran the blood of his adventurous forebears; ran with such compulsion that he must seek his fortune in a new land. It could well be that this skilful and kindly citizen of Victoria combined—as so many Scots do—a love of adventure with a footsure soundness that guided them so often to winning the esteem and respect of their neighbors.

There is all the more reason to suppose this when it is learned that one of his ancestors, William Meston of Aberdeenshire, took up the cause of the unlucky Stuarts in 1715, lived through that bloody period, died in 1745 and left behind him a published book of poems!

Well, it was easy to find John Meston's shop in Victoria. From the doors came the pungent smell of hot iron as he and his smiths hammered the glowing metal as it was whipped from the forge and held on an anvil.

The smiths, in their broad leather aprons, gripped their hammers in steel-like fingers and their great arms were corded with muscle. And as they hammered it was always with a double bang, like this, bang-bang-a-bang. One firm blow on the iron and then two taps on the anvil. I don't know why.

Over in another section a small boy might see the wheelwrights fitting an iron tire on a heavy wagon wheel; sweat streaming down their faces as the hot iron blacked and crisped the edge of the wheel's rim before they doused it in a huge sunken water tub so that steam rose in clouds.

Perhaps, if you were very lucky, a smith might offer to let you pump the long stick that operated the forge bellows and then—for a few great moments—you felt you had been elevated to the ranks of these lusty successors of Tubalcain who "instructed all artificers in brass and iron."

THINK BEFORE SPEAKING OUR THOUGHTS

By TONY EMERY

Only the Highest Standards of Thought and Speech

I HOPE you didn't forget to send T. S. Eliot a card for his 70th birthday a week or two ago. It seems odd that a man who is still regarded in some quarters as an angry young man, a literary Bolshevik, should have come to the end of his Biblical span, although I don't think we need to rush to compose his epitaph yet awhile. A poet who can direct a large publishing firm and still find time to write a play and get married is clearly not moribund yet. This is not the place for a lengthy essay on the position of Mr. Eliot in English letters, but I would draw your attention to one respect in which Mr. Eliot sets a good example to us all: I mean his insistence on simple and direct language, on concrete and clear expression, on the right word in the right place.

Emery

"I gotta use words when I talk to you," says Sweeney, Mr. Eliot's average (well, maybe a little above average) sensual man. And in a more serious vein, in "Burnt Norton," the poet complains that "words strain / Crack and sometimes break, under the burden / Under the tension, slip, slide, perish / Decay with imprecision, will not stay in place."

Later, in "East Coker," he mourns "Twenty years largely wasted. . . Trying to learn to use words, and every attempt / Is a wholly new start, and a different kind of failure / Because one has only learnt to get the better of words / For the thing one no longer has to say, or the way in which / One is no longer disposed to say it."

Words are important to Mr. Eliot. They are important to the linguistic philosphers who trace their descent from Bertrand Russell and Ludwig Wittgenstein, and who have done a great deal to describe the confusion arising from ambiguities in the use of language, even if they have not succeeded in dispelling it.

They are important to Mr. Empson, who has labored to catalogue "Seven Types of Ambiguity" found in poetry, and to examine "The Structure of Complex Words." They are of the utmost importance to you and me.

The importance of precision in the use of words was well demonstrated during the recent word-war in the correspondence columns, when several citizens expressed their anger at the presumption of the artist-critics in speaking "officially" for Victoria.

Now here was a splendid confusion. First, it was not the critics but the newspaper that headlined the letter "Official Protest". Secondly, the word the headline man wanted was "formal", not "official." The right word would have saved a lot of fury.

Words are such valuable tools that they should never be mislaid, misused, or allowed to lose their hard cutting edge. You should correct your friends when they make mistakes in your hearing, and you should welcome correction from others. In this way your vocabulary will expand as your circle of friends contracts.

Recently a colleague challenged my use of the word "concision". I was at the Oxford dictionary in a trice, to find that the word, in the sense in which I used it, has been in the language since 1774, which is good enough for me—but I was grateful for the challenge.

Nobody is infallible in the use of words; we are all learning, all our lives. Fowler, in his "King's English", convicts some of the best writers of crimes against the language.

It is no surprise to find that Marie Corelli did not know the difference between "perspicuity" and "perspicacity", but it is strange that Charlotte Bronte should have confused "comprehensively" with "comprehensibly" and "insensate" with "insensible".

There is comfort in the discovery that Dickens could mix up "truthfulness" and "trustworthiness"; that Prescott could write "arisen" for "risen"; that Ruskin could put "observance" when he meant "observation"; Gladstone say "continuance" for "continuation"; Carlyle make a schoolboy error over "euphuism" and "euphemism"; Borrow write "resource" when he meant "recourse"; and so on.

This does not, of course, excuse you and me when we commit avoidable mistakes. We are responsible for checking each word we use. It is our duty to see that it means what we think it means; that we keep it sharp and bright with correct usage; that we discover its correct pronunciation.

Dictionaries exist to help us, and if we are too idle to use them we must expect and accept the rebukes of our more careful and industrious friends when we stumble over "vagaries" or "desuetude" or "dichotomy".

Some errors are perennial: e.g. "compose" for "comprise" and vice versa; "masterful" for "masterly"; "domineer" for "dominate"; "careen" for "career"; "disinterested" for "uninterested".

Some are less common, though not less striking: for instance "jejune" used as though it had something to do with the French "jeune", and pronounced accordingly; "momentum" offered in place of "memento". Others are errors of taste, and in this category I would list archaisms like "anent", "albeit" and "eld", to name one trio of abominations. You can add your own pet horrors to the list.

Now some say that it doesn't matter if you make mistakes so long as you get your meaning across. I think they are wrong. If you value clear and unmistakable communication between human beings only the highest standards of precision in thought and speech will do.

Remember Confucius's answer when Tseu-lou asked him what he would do first if he were made head of the government. Confucius unhesitatingly plumped for a rigid insistence on exact terminology, since inexactitude led inevitably to confusion, corruption, and decay. I'm sure we already have enough of those commodities to last us some time.

BEFORE THE JUDGE — By SILENUS

Ruat Coelum

"MOST unfortunate! Dreadful timing! Shocking!" the Court House Seagull was muttering, as he puttered about, poking heaps of fallen plaster with his yellow bill. "Scandalous! Too much sand!"

I had just stepped out of the Court House elevator, which I often ride up and down in when in need of a period of calm reflection, when I ran into the old bird muttering and puttering as aforesaid. There was a large patch of exposed lath overhead, from which a thin rain of fine sand was sifting slowly down.

"What is going on?" was the obvious opening gambit.

"Going on! Coming down is more like! The ceiling, that's what! Did you ever see such stuff?" and he scratched a chunk of plaster with a contemptuous claw. "Awwrrk! Cheap! Ninety per cent sand, or I'm a pigeon. Must be modern! Faugh!"

SILENUS

"Fiat justitia ruat coelum. Things seem to be in a bad way here."

"It is impossible to describe the inelegant noise which the Seagull made in answer to this sally. Not in the home edition, anyway. But after a moment he resumed.

* * *

"If all you can manage is the same bad pun which I have heard I hate to think how many times today, you'd better get back in that elevator. Ruat coelum! Heavens fall, indeed! It's not any lack of justice being done here, with assizes and appeals going on at the same time up there. It's those policemen pounding about in their great boots upstairs. I always used to get nervous when I saw those red coats and felt that clump clump clump coming up the stairs, like the Great American Novel getting to the point, and now the inevitable has happened. Look out!" and he dodged expertly as a pound or so of plaster thudded onto the floor.

"Well, the building is getting a bit old, and maybe things have dried out a bit. You know how these things happen."

"Nonsense. Poor work in the first place. Look at the plaster at Hampton Court! Sistine Chapel! Versailles! Still there, ain't it? Lots of lime, and thorough mixing! You don't get that kind of work today. It's sad, that's what it is. Just ammunition for the anti-Court House crowd. They'll parlay a little bad plaster into a total collapse before you can say Chief Justice, and there we'll be, roosting in a stucco box up there on Cathedral Hill. It's a bad business all round. That's what it is. Awwrrk"

"You may have something there; certainly they'll never be able to put up a solid stone building like this again. Costs too much and lasts too long to be a fitting monument to Social Credit!"

* * *

"Steady there, boy! Didn't I tell you I was taking no part in politics any more? We've got to play this one close to the chest. Keep quiet about it, and just whistle a good plasterer in some night when no one's about. It will soon be forgotten, and all will be well. Fiat justitia! Fiat new plaster (with lots of lime)! Just a little slap of slosh here and there, and there'll be no more coelum ruating! We'll fix 'em. On the quiet. Must keep this out of the papers."

"Naturally."

"These ugly rumors must be stopped. Why, I even heard today that the judges are asking for danger pay when they come over here. Nothing in it, nothing at all. A wicked slander on our judges, who know a good court house when they see one!" said he, aiming a delicate kick at a heap of sand. "See that it gets squelched!"

And I hope it does.

LONDON LETTER — By WALLACE REYBURN

Raising the Rent

LONDON—I have from reader P. Grinstead of Toronto's Margueretta Street, a letter in which he says: "Would you tell us something about skiffle? What is it? I read of skiffle bands in various local papers from England but cannot make out if they are wind instruments, plucked instruments or some makeshift noisemaker."

Skiffle, the great musical craze of young people here, got its start around 1954 and was defined for me by an expert in such matters as "folk music played with a strict jazz beat."

Although it sounds like an American importation it is purely a British thing which merely borrowed its origins from the U.S. A home-grown product by the name of Lonnie Donegan is credited with being the man who got skiffle started. His first disc success: Rock Island Line. Followed by such hits as Cumberland Gap.

Reyburn

* * *

Skiffle is based on the type of music they used to make at "rent parties" in New Orleans in the old days—entertainment put on to try and raise money for the rent.

A skiffle group consists usually of a double bass, drums and three guitars. Sometimes a piano is added, but this is frowned on by the skiffle purists.

They argue that New Orleans rent-raisers could never raise the price of a piano. And by the same token some of the skiffle groups stress the poverty background by using a makeshift double bass consisting of a tea chest and a pole and one string.

Since southerners in the U.S. used to make this sort of music, how come it is now regarded as a British phenomenon? The point here is that it was just a local pastime in New Orleans and the British have turned it into a full-scale commercial proposition.

The folk tunes the skifflers use are invariably American, but not necessarily so. Anything in the folk field is their meat, whether it comes from England, Czechoslovakia, anywhere.

In my ignorance I thought that skiffle and rock 'n roll were related because to my untrained ear roughly the same sort of frenzied noise seemed to come from the exponents of both types of music.

* * *

But I learn that skifflers and rock 'n rollers have no love for each other. An outfit will stick strictly to one or the other, never switch back and forth. The skifflers, relying purely on folk music, have no time for numbers written specially for the style, as with rock 'n roll.

There is one aspect of skiffle that is welcomed by psychiatrists and others who tend to despair of life as lived today. The sale of guitars is booming as young people form skiffle groups all over the country, to play in their homes, at parties, on river trips, at holiday resorts.

The trend is to get away from listening on a record player to other people performing and instead make your own music, going back to the good old saner days when people got together with their musical instruments in the parlor and entertained themselves.

WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

SYNOPSIS—A disturbance along the coast this morning was moving eastward and will cross the province during the day. A band of showers accompany the disturbance and following its passage winds will become southwesterly. This will bring cooler air with gradual clearing conditions. Sunday is expected to be quite sunny in most areas with a few afternoon showers mainly confined to the mountains.

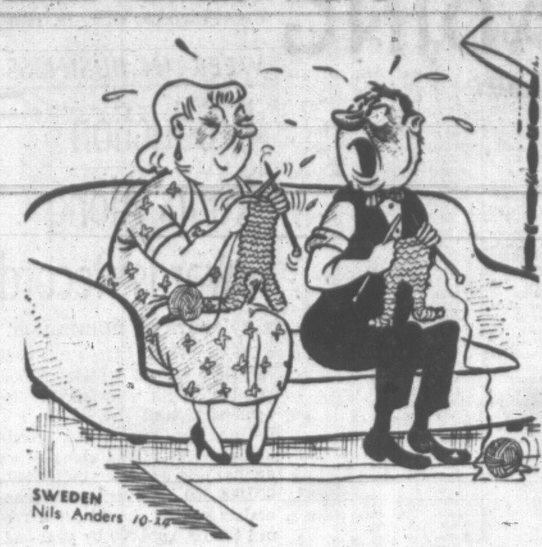
TODAY'S BEST FROM EUROPE



"Must you ALWAYS wait till the very last moment before you tell me something?"

The Day YOU Were Born

Marion Lynn Crowther, 795 Station Road, Langford, is a pretty little girl with dark brown hair and eyes, and a lovely complexion. She is in grade four at Langford Elementary School, and enjoys singing in the school choir.

Lynn is the oldest of five, and a big help to her mother. She sets the table, runs errands, and makes cakes (from mixes) and loves icing them with an icing set an aunt gave her.

The Crowthers are all busy in their spare time working on their DVA-assisted house-building program, and Lynn makes herself useful handing tools and nails to her father.

Lynn and her young brother ride their bikes to school, and, says their mother, are very careful about safety rules.

On the day she was born:

A U.S. steel strike threatened to shut down all auto-making plants. A coal strike also helped hinder industry in the U.S.

U.S. Surgeon-General Leonard A. Scheele said tuberculosis would no longer be a menace by 1959.

Philatelists complained that the portrait of the king on new Canadian postage stamps was "exaggerated, unflattering, and lacking in artistry."

A cyclone battered Atlantic shipping, disabling a freighter and holding up the Queen Mary 24 hours. Blizzards were sweeping the prairies and Montana had five-foot snow drifts. Victoria was clear and cool, temperature 55.

Vishinsky told the world that Russia had had the A-bomb since 1947.

Mrs. Nancy Hodges was sworn in as Coalition MLA for Victoria.

"Drink the coffee most people like BEST," says an ad, "at 54c a pound."

The date? Tuesday, Oct. 18, 1949.

PM WELCOMES BILL OF RIGHTS SUGGESTIONS

OTTAWA (CP) — The number of representations and suggestions from Canadian groups and individuals on the draft bill of rights indicates the importance attached to it, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Friday night.

This is "transcendent" importance prompted the provision of opportunities for such representation, he said of the draft bill introduced late in the last session of Parliament.

Mr. Diefenbaker was speaking to the third annual Bowater Awards dinner.

"If a statutory bill of rights will do no more than keep the spotlight on the process of encroachments (on liberty) it would more than justify enactment," he said.

WEEK IN BUSINESS

Production Roars Along Towards Record

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—Business in the United States took another giant step along the comeback trail this week.

Total production of goods and services roared along at an annual clip of better than $440,000,000,000. Government economists said it should hit a record $450,000,000,000 by year-end.

The previous high, reached last summer before the recession made itself felt, was $445,500,000,000.

Stepped up production of steel, copper, aluminum, zinc and lead contributed mightily to the economy's forward surge this week. So did consumer buying.

CARLOADINGS UP

The quickened economic tempo gave the railroads a lift—freight carloadings touched a 1958 high for the fifth straight week.

On the national economic level the fast pace of recovery showed up vividly in government statistics:

1. Personal income of Americans climbed in September to a record annual rate of $357,500,000,000 adjusted for seasonal vacations. That's a gain of $11,000,000,000 since February's recession low.

2. Output of U.S. mines and factories climbed to 137 per cent of the 1947-49 average—at a time (September) when Detroit was up to its neck in labor strife and model changeovers and auto production had slowed to a crawl.

3. Private housing starts in September soared to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1,220,000 foundations poured, highest since October, 1955. Confidence ruled this week from main street to Wall Street—and dispelled much of the gloom that had shrouded automobile row.

WEEK ON MARKETS

Industrials Setback Hits In Minor Form

By GERRY MARTIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The long-predicted setback to industrials occurred this week, though somewhat in a minor form on Canadian stock exchanges.

Rising steadily since June 20, industrials at Toronto had added more than 50 points on index without a week's setback.

This week they pushed their index to 505.69 at 11 a.m. Tuesday. This was just .64 off the industrial all-time index peak of 506.33 set Oct. 2, 1956. One hour later they started to slide with gathering momentum.

The profit-taking chopped big holes in the previous week's gains. It touched a low of 498.72 at 1 p.m. Wednesday before starting a slow recovery.

On the week, industrials were off .59 on index.

GOLDS OFF

Golds joined industrials off, with a .27 dip on the week but base metals and western oils rose smartly boosted by promising economic news and rumors.

Increased prices for copper, lead and zinc, resulted in a gradual rise for base metals, but they too suffered during the mid-week sell-off. At Toronto they closed with a 1.04 index gain.

Speculation on the contents on the Borden commission report and the possibility of tightening restrictions on the export of oil from the Middle East, enabled western oils to stretch their advance until the close. They were up 2.28, for an index of 144.16, a 1958 high.

While the western oil index was ahead, gains were generally limited to half a dozen of the more expensive issues. Canadian Husky was the leader, it gained $1.25 at $15.25. Pacific Pete, at $20.87½, and Hudson's Bay, at $21.62½, each added $1.12½. Calgary and Edmonton, however, lost $1.50 at $19.

MINES DOWN

Several mines had moderate gains on the week but all were down from their highs. International Nickel gained $1.50 at $91. Before sliding back to $89.50, unchanged from the previous week, Noranda was up $1 at $55.

Index changes at Toronto: Industrials off .59 to 503.62; golds off .27 to 83.25; base metals up 1.04 to 182.23; western oils up 2.28 to 144.16.

Index changes at Montreal: Banks off .78 to 54.84; utilities up 1.3 to 148.7; industrials off 1.8 to 296.3; combined off .7 to 247.1; papers new up 6.8 to 447.2; papers old up 10.44 to 1,361.26; golds up 2.13 to 79.41.

Power 'Steals' Spotlight As BA Opens New Refinery

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

PORT MOODY—Power stole the spotlight from petroleum, if infamously, here Friday when British American Oil Company opened its $25,000,000 refinery.

Power or lack of it interrupted BA's Hollywood-style kleig-light grand opening. A battery of lights proved too much for electrical facilities and ultimately scuttled them. The first dimout occurred just as BA president E. D. Brockett mounted the podium and began to pump oil—er, words—into two microphones.

He finally got under way, only to find himself the victim of a second dimout, caused by stripped circuit breakers. Mr. Brockett suffered in silence while frantic BA employees sought to find the cause of the trouble. The fuss prompted one wag to remark: "You can bet there'll be one BA electrician knocking on Shell Oil's door for a job tomorrow morning."

Malone

Ultimately, order came out of mild chaos and Mr. Brockett finished what he started. This included telling the illustrious gathering of petroleum uses and needs and how BA will attempt to fill them.

Awed onlookers had to agree, after touring the 380-acre plant in pouring rain, that the Port Moody refinery stands an excellent chance of fulfilling all the gas, kerosene and crude oil requirements that may arise in these parts for some time.

Their tour began after Labor Minister Wicks, having expounded colorfully on, "this era of petroleum", twisted five colored dials. In turn, they caused colored panels to light up, indicating that the crude unit, the naptha desulphirizer and reformer unit, the catalytic cracker, the distillate desulphirizer and the alkylation unit were percolating.

Mr. Wicks had a litite trouble with words like "desulphirizer" trouble than anyone else.

BIGGEST PROJECT

The Port Moody project is BA's biggest single undertaking. The adjective applies generally. Everything here is big, including the words. For instance: The refinery requires enough electricity monthly to supply 10,000 average homes (catalytic or otherwise). It will use twice as much water as Port Moody (pop. 3,000) and the gasoline from a single one of its great storage tanks would "fill up" 250,000 automobiles.

From the refinery will come 20,000 barrels of oil a day and assorted products such as gasoline, stove oil, kerosene, diesel fuel and high octane gas.

The raw oil will come to Port Moody via the Trans-Mountain Pipeline. After its arrival it will be washed, scrubbed, desulpherized, cracked and almost everything else will happen to it that engineers can think of.

Everything about the place is modern but it wasn't always so. Sixteen months ago when they turned the first sod, the rains came and all the fancy machinery at BA's disposal, bogged down. Production didn't stop, however, some brilliant BA engineer came to the rescue. "Use a horse," he said. They did. And it worked.

Two Powell River Subsidiaries Merged

B.C. Manufacturing Company Ltd. and Westminster Shook Mills Ltd., Powell River subsidiaries, have been merged under a new corporate name, Powell River Lumber Company Ltd., H. A. Renwick, Powell River Company vice-president, announced Friday.

Said Mr. Renwick: "The new name more correctly describes our business, and identifies us directly with the parent company which is so well and favorably known throughout the world."

RECORD BID FAILS SHORT OF B.C.

Ice Downs Distance Flier

An attempt to set a new distance record in a light plane flying from Tokyo to Miami failed Friday night when Charles F. Banfe put his machine down at Cordova, Alaska, a short time before he would have crossed into B.C. and Yukon territory.

The 39-year-old commercial airline pilot from Palo Alto, Calif., was forced down after logging 3,270 miles on he projected 7,022-mile flight.

Banfe, his face etched with lines brought on by 29½ gruelling hours at the controls of his Mooney Mark 20A aircraft, said ice that formed in the carburetor of his engine forced him down.

He was attempting to crack the non-stop, single-engine distance record established Aug. 1 by Marion (Pat) Boling, a commercial airline pilot who also lives in Palo Alto.

Boling took off from Manila and flew 6,979 miles to a landing at pendleton, Ore.

PLANS ANOTHER SHOT

Even as he shrugged off the weariness of his trip, Banfe was making plans for another shot at Boling's record.

"I'm going to try it again," he told reporters at Cordova Airport. "It will be the same flight, the same plane, within six months."

Banfe, who left Tokyo Thursday night, guided his plane into a safe landing here as fog and low clouds chocked visibility to 200 feet.

He had engine trouble three times during his long, lonesome flight along the great circle route used by commercial aircraft.

'Buy a House to Stop Inflation'

There is no better hedge against inflation than selling a home to a family, the Real Estate Board of Victoria was told Friday afternoon.

Every time you sell a house, you save a family from falling into the chasm of inflation," said Walter Graves, of Philadelphia, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards of the United States.

"You also help to save your country from inflation."

TIGHT ROPE

Mr. Graves said Canada is now walking a "tight rope" between recession and inflation. He believed this delicate situation could be remedied by positive, forward-looking salesmanship.

"You in Victoria are in a wonderful position," he told the real estate men. "If you will leave your comfortable chairs and get out and sell, you will leave your footprints in the sands of time.

"I urge you to do all you can to sell homes, in your own interests and in the interests of your country."

Mr. Graves referred to Canada as "one of the great frontiers of the world."

NEW FIELD

He said the St. Lawrence Seaway, to be opened by the Queen next year, will bring mid-Canada to the ports of Europe and open up a vast new field of trade.

"You may not have as much industry here in Victoria as they have in other areas of Canada. But I urge you to consider that this is as much your problem as theirs.

"Take a broad vision of the future and spend part of each day in constructive thinking about it."

Mr. Graves said the recent recession in the United States had been greatly exaggerated.

CONFIDENT WOMEN

"The spending curves indicates that American women spent as much duriing this period as previously, and this suggests that the women had more confidence in their country than the menfolk.

"It suggests to me that there was no real basis for the recession. Yet I am glad it happened because it halted the spiral of inflation—and inflation is a deadly adversary."

NEW HIGH

In spite of recession talk, Mr. Graves said savings in the United States are at an all-time high.

"The average personal income is also at an all-time high and the personal spending of U.S. citizens has moved steadily upward."

During a recent visit to London, England, Mr. Graves was asked if it were true that people were "standing in soup lines" in Detroit.

NONSENSE

"I told them this was sheer nonsense—that by the end of this year U.S. manufacturers would have sold about four and a half million cars.

"You do not sell that number of cars during a recession. Yet, because that number was less than the year before, people talked of it as a poor year."

Warning of the dangers of government control, Mr. Graves said:

"Under cur private enterprise system we should not look to the government to control our methods, but merely to reduce the distance between the peaks and the valleys our business cycles."

With the approval of all members Mr. Graves was elected an honorary member of the Real Estate Board of Victoria.

Four Killed in Fire

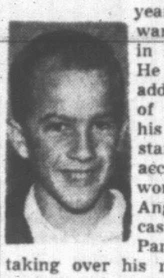
PEMBROKE, Ont. (CP) — Four persons were burned to death early today when fire swept a one-room log cabin beside Highway 17, about eight miles west of here.

Times Honor Carrier

Each day this month The Times honors one of its "junior merchant" carrier boys who have demonstrated qualities of leadership and application to their endeavors. Today's candidate is:

GEORGE SCHWAM

This 13-year-old is a Grade 8 student at St. Louis College. He plays hockey and football and likes fishing. His brother, Bud, delivered the Times for six years and George wants to follow in his footsteps. He has already added a number of customers to his route and started a savings account. He has won trips to Port Angeles, Newcastle Island and Parksville since taking over his route and expects to win a trip to Vancouver Nov. 1.



George has given his customers outstanding service and is well liked. Congratulations George, on being TODAY'S TIMES HONOR CARRIER.

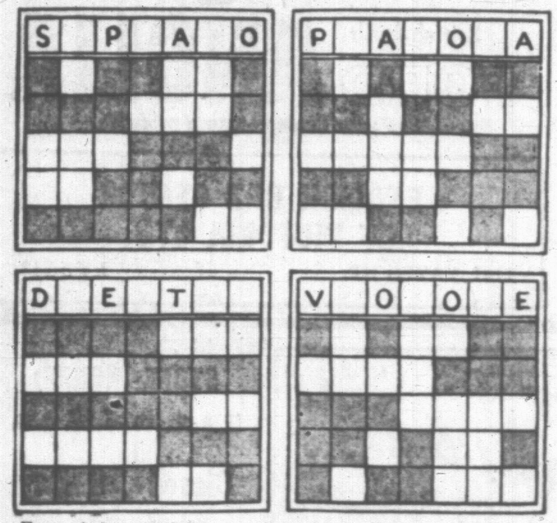
MUSIC TERMS TEST THE WITS



S P A O
P A O A
V O O E

Four skeletonized key words appear across the tops of the diagrams at right. You are asked to restore the missing letters and thus identify the words.

As a clue, we'll tell you that each term has a musical connotation. You must take it from there—

To begin, copy each of the letters now in sight in the blank spaces directly below them. That is, at top left, place an S in the two blanks below, a P in the one blank below, and so forth.

Then, using these letters in the lower diagrams, try to guess at missing letters to form short horizontal words—placing trial letters in all blanks of respective vertical rows including the top or key word row. Correct insertions will meet letter demands of all horizontal words.

Remember, all four key words pertain to music.

Answer: The terms soprano, pianola, duetted, and violone meet requirements of respective diagrams.

GIVE YOUR TONGUE THE JIM-JAMS

Say swiftly aloud: The skunk sat on the stump. The skunk thunk the stump stunk. Shows the skunk's no thinker.

MENTAL MAGIC

To demonstrate an entertaining trick, hand someone a full pack of 52 cards and have him shuffle it. He is then to deal a card face up from the top, and note the value of the card. Let us suppose he turns up a five. On this he is to deal cards totalling whatever number is the difference between the denomination turned up and 12. Thus in this case seven cards would go on the five spot.

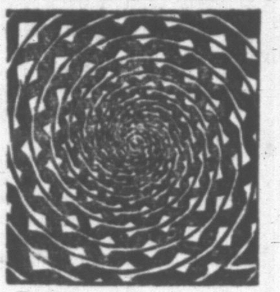
He deals another card face up and adds cards to make the total 12, exactly as he did before. Should he deal any court card (king, queen, jack) face up, he counts it as 10. This heap dealing goes on, until there are a few cards left over, which are laid aside.

You then look at the squared heaps and name a number, say 41. Turn the heaps over and lift off the single cards which were dealt first, with each heap. Add them up and they come to your number!

It's done with a simple mental calculation. Remember, you do not watch the dealing at all. At the finish, just count the heaps (in this case 7) and subtract 4, which leaves 3. Multiply this by 13 (in this case making 39) and then add the number of cards left over (in this instance 2). That gives the total of the bottom cards.

Sounds and looks complicated but it is impressive when you've memorized the formula and applied it.

VIEW IS AN EYE-OPENER



Trusting your eyes isn't always advisable, as is proved by the optical illusion displayed, above.

In this case, what appears at first to be a design made up of spirals, turns out to be a series of concentric circles. If you aren't convinced, check with a compass—placing the point of the instrument at the centre of the diagram and adjusting the pencil arm to the prescribed arcs.

LETTER ENIGMA

My first letter's in boy, not in man.
The second is in box, but not in pan.
The third is in yellow, but not in pink.
The fourth is in gopher, but not in mink.
The fifth is in sleet, but not in snow.
The sixth is in wind, but not in blow.
The whole is what without a doubt,
You could not possibly live without.

Answer: The word is oxygen.

HE'S SOLO NOW—Veteran humorist George Burns will start off a brand new career Tuesday night at 9, when he bows in a new comedy series without the services of Gracie Allen, his wife and theatrical side-kick for many years. With George will be son Ronnie and Harry Von Zell.

GRACE-LESS

George Burns Goes Solo Tuesday

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Can George Burns go it alone?

Beginning next Tuesday night Burns and the nation's televiewers will know the answer. That's debut night for his new Gracie-less TV series.

George himself is unsure about his acceptance as a "single."

"It's tough for me to come up with something different after 35 years with Gracie," he reflected. "We've filmed eight shows so far, and I keep turning around to ask her, 'How is your brother?' "

Checking with his friends for opinions on his chances for success as "Lonesome George," the bespectacled comic received little help.

To his question, "Can I make it alone?" he received the following encouragement:

Milton Berle: "No. But your cigar can."

Eddie Cantor: "I'll help all I can. I've made stars out of other unknowns."

Greta Garbo: "It's not an original idea."

Mickey Rooney: "I've always looked up to you, George."

Gary Cooper: "You've always looked up to me, George."

Groucho Marx: "Why didn't you quit when you were ahead — after you wrote 'Annie Laurie?' "

Bob Hope: "How many does it take to do a monologue?"

Jack Webb: "We're checking it out with R & I."

Ed Wynn: "You're an old man, George. You ought to retire."

Jack Benny: "I've never had a bad dinner at your house, George."

Undismayed by the levity of his buddies, George is happy with what he's done in the new series thus far. At a special showing for United Press International, he ran off the first show in his private projection room.

Burns has changed the format completely.

He plays himself, stranded without Gracie. To make a living he becomes a theatrical producer in a posh Beverly Hills office — which serves as the main set for zaney goings-on with his old cast of characters—Harry Von Zell, Bea Benaderet and Larry Keating.

Wayne and Shuster Head Three Major Canadian Efforts

Montreal Concert Thursday Night; Sonny Liston in Action Friday

Canada and the CBC carry their fair share of the highlights this week, contributing a 90-minute play, a 90-minute concert and an hour-long bit of fun, with comics Wayne and Shuster carrying the ball for dear old laughs.

The first mentioned takes place on Tuesday night at 9.30 when Channels 6 and 2 carry First Performance's "Man in the House" by Marcel Dube, featuring such French-Canadian actors as Gratien Gelinas, Collette Coutois, Ovila Legare, Germaine Giroux, Clement Latour and Mariette. A family tragedy gives a shy, awkward man great courage.

The concert from Montreal starts at 9 Thursday night on Channels 6 and 2 and features such artists as pianist Rudolph Firkusyn, soprano Leontyne Price, tenor William McGrath, baritone Napoleon Bisson and dancers Vilette Verdy and Scott Douglas of the American Ballet Theatre.

And at 9, Friday night, Channels 6 and 2, Wayne and Shuster appear with guests Joan Fairfax, Denny Vaughan and the Boyd Robinson Trio. Main skit will be a take-off of the popular TV adventure Zoro. It will be called "The Mark of Zero."

Other notes of interest: On Monday at 9, Channel 4, Lew Ayres will star in a 60-minute drama about Dr. Mudd, who was implicated in the Lincoln assassination. On Tuesday George Gobel will be seen with the aid of stereophonic sound supplied by radio station KOMO, Channel 4 at 8. And at 9 the same night on Channel 4, George Burns will find out exactly how good he is without the aid of wife Gracie Allen, now retired.

Thursday, Science Series studies the senses for an hour with the aid of cartoons on Channel 4 at 8. One should also remind fight fans that Sonny Liston tries again to prove he is as good as his press notices when he meets tough adversary Bert Whitehurst, the only man to have listed more than three rounds with Liston, Friday night at 6, Channels 6, 2 and 4.

SPUD IS A MANY-splendored thing, Bobby Bolt says admiringly as he examines five-pound, five-ounce multiple giant grown by neighbor E. C. Vestrup, 378 Charles. Big potato may be candidate for largest grown in B.C.; certainly poses peeling problem. (Times Photo by Bill Halkett.)

TOUGH COMPETITION IN WORLD CONTEST

34-Pound Potatoes in Ireland

Vancouver Island potato growers will have to beat the Irish if they want to win a world championship contest for the biggest spud, according to Alan Barker, managing secretary of the Island Vegetable Co-operative Association here.

"The Irish can grow potatoes weighing between 34 and 36 pounds," said Mr. Barker who formerly lived in Britain. "I've never seen the like of it."

The contest for the world's biggest potato opened this week. Judging will take place on Feb. 1 at Washington.

Mr. Barker said he has received several entries but nothing "which will make my hair stand on end.

The biggest potato turned in so far at the co-operative warehouse was one grown by J. P. Pendray, 4160 Blenkinsop, who was B.C.'s champion potato grower last year.

It weighed 3¼ pounds.

[illegible] is contacting Island points to find out if [illegible] had any worthwhile entries.

"We will have to do much better than that," he said. "The largest potato grown on Vancouver Island weighed about 5½ pounds."

Vancouver Island growers, Mr. Barker said, grew mostly medium-sized potatoes as these were tastier.

"But the warm weather this summer resulted in some abnormal growth," he said. "You never know what may turn up yet. I have yet to hear from the Comox Valley where there is a chance that something unusual will turn up."

Fall, Not Live Wire, Killed Victorian in Duncan Mishap

DUNCAN—Injuries suffered in a 30-foot fall caused the death of Darrell A. Mummery, 28, of Victoria, who was thrown from a ladder here Thursday when an illuminated sign he was dismantling came in contact with a 12,000-volt high tension wire.

Medical evidence given at an inquest into the death showed Mummery had sustained a fractured skull and other injuries. Verdict was of accidental death with no blame attached to anyone.

The accident occurred at 4.20 p.m., and he died in King's Daughters' Hospital three hours later.

His companion, Frank De Macedo of 1168 Oxford Street, Victoria, said he and Mummery were removing the sign from the former Canadian Legion building when the accident occurred.

He said he was guiding a loose guy wire from the sign through a string of Christmas tree lights on the building instead of watching the sign descend.

BLINDING FLASH

"As I was about to put the wire over the parapet I stepped forward to see if everything was clear," he said. "There was a roar and a blinding flash, and I was knocked over backward on the roof. When I came to I found the guy wire still lying across my chest. I thought it might still be hot, and shook it from my body."

He was still suffering from burns to his arms and chest when he appeared at the inquest.

13-YEAR-OLD GIRLS GIVEN BEER BY YOUTH

COURTENAY (CP)—Richard Allan Parker, 18, received a one year's suspended sentence Friday on a contributing charge for supplying beer to four girls, two 13 and two 14.

"I'm convinced your actions were stupid rather than criminal," said Magistrate John Ryland.

Parker was charged after a group of juveniles were found drinking in a car at Royston Oct. 4. He paid a $50 fine Tuesday at Cumberland for consuming liquor in public and pleaded guilty here to contributing to juvenile delinquency.

Hula Hoop Contest Tonight at Chemainus

CHEMAINUS—The Community Centre will sponsor a hula-hoop contest in the large hall tonight from 7 to 9.

The contest will be open to youngsters in four age groups: six years and under; seven to nine; 10 to 12, and 13 to 15. There will also be a grand prize for the best all-round hula-hooper.

Unemployment At Lowest In 15 Months

NANAIMO CP—The level of unplaced applicants for employment is at the lowest in 15 months, Jack Clark, Nanaimo manager of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, reported today.

Of the 936 applicants registered for employment on Oct. 9, 240 were women.

These figures compared favorably with those of Oct. 10, 1957, when there were 973 applicants for work, of which 200 were women.

NIGHT LIQUOR STORE REQUESTED AT NANAIMO

NANAIMO (CP) — Near-unanimous approval of late liquor store hours has been given by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Referred to the civic affairs committee following discussion, a motion by William Currie called for 11 p.m. store closing—"just like a lot of other B.C. towns."

Mr. Currie's suggestion centred on the importance of late hours to conventions, the tourist traffic, and convenience of the town as a whole.

Fluoridation Vote Assured

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — Fluoridation of the city water supply will be an issue in this year's civic election.

Ald. J. R. Dalton, reminding council that it was comitted to a referendum this year, has moved for introduction of a by-law to authorize the vote.

Mayor Loran Jordon, agreeing that council through a promise made last year was committed to a referendum, said:

"I'm opposed, but I know the rest of you are in favor. I'm just making my stand clear."

New Communications Network to Spur Canada's Growth

The longest single microwave network in the world—linking Sydney, N.S., and Victoria, B.C., was completed this summer. Seven of the eight major telephone systems in the country grouped together as the Trans-Canada Telephone System, joined in the construction of this coast-to-coast radio relay system.

IN BRITAIN

Hope Springs Eternal

By ED SIMON

LONDON (CP)—British track and field enthusiasts, saddened by the passing of their golden era in the distance events, are looking to their sprinters to capture the next slice of international glory.

Britain's dominance of distances from 880 yards to three miles ended decisively at Cardiff this summer when a bevy of Australian speedsters headed by the incomparable Herb Elliott reduced such illustrious names as Derek Ibbotson and Gordon Pirie to the also-ran lists at the British Empire Games.

As the season ended, Pirie joined Chris Chataway and Roger Bannister, the world's first four-minute miler, in retirement. Ibbotson, shorn by Elliott of his world record for the mile, appeared no longer capable of matching competition. Of the old guard, only Brian Hewson, European champion at 1,500 metres, appeared to have retained his form.

BRIGHT PROSPECT

Meanwhile, the most talked-of prospect for the 1960 Olympics is 19-year-old Peter Radford, a sprinter who couldn't make the first three in the 100-yard dash at Cardiff and who managed only a bronze medal in the 100 metres at the European championships at Stockholm.

Undismayed by the long tradition of United States triumphs in short-distance events, Radford's supporters stoutly claim that he is still two years away from his peak. The Staffordshire youngster, confined to a wheel chair for two years with a childhood kidney ailment, has reduced his 100-yard clocking to 9.6 seconds, a British record.

On present form, Britain's chances for Olympic honors look better in the women's sprints, with June Paul, Heather Armitage Young and Madeleine Weston offering a strong challenge to the Australians who swept the boards in Melbourne two years ago.

Mrs. Young, 25, and Miss Weston, 18, were barely beaten by Australia's Marlene Mathews Willard in the 100 yards at Cardiff and Mrs. Young and Mrs. Paul, 23, were a close-up third and fourth behind Mrs. Willard and Olympic champion Betty Cuthbert in the 220.

BEAT RUSSIAN

At Stockholm, Mrs. Young beat Russia's Vera Krepkina in the 100 metres, while Mrs. Paul pulled a muscle in the final of the 200 and failed to finish after clocking the fastest time in the semifinals.

The three English girls already boast one victory over Australia. In the 440-yard relay, together with Dorothy Hyman, they set a British Empire Games record of 46.1 seconds in beating the Australian team. Even with Mrs. Paul and Mrs. Young out because of injuries, their team finished second behind Russia in the 400-metre relay at Stockholm.

The sleeper on the squad could be Miss Hyman, a 17-year-old Yorkshire lass who has brought her 100-yard time down to 10.7 seconds, a bare tenth of a second slower than Mrs. Willard's winning time at Cardiff.

TO THE RESCUE

Human chain helps Eli Bariteau keep balance while making difficult recovery shot from deep rough at Pebble Beach, Calif. Bariteau had to teeter perilously close to embankment above sea in order to play ball. His shot reached green but anchorage called for rule interpretation. (NEA).

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pat McMurtry, the redeeming United States heavyweight who was saved from a possible knockout by the "image of Gene Tunney," will get another fight soon at Madison Square Garden for his upset decision over Canadian champion George Chuvalo of Toronto.

Before the ex-marine sergeant from Tacoma took charge in the third round Friday night and gave 10th-ranked Chuvalo a bloody beating, he was staggered by a terrific Chuvalo left hook in the second session. (Slugger George once knocked out four men in 90 minutes.)

"The instant that punch knocked me groggy," unranked Irish Pat said today, "the image of Gene Tunney popped up in my mind, and I ran like a deer until my head cleared."

After that, the rangy boxer-puncher from the Northwest hammered out a lopsided victory that ended the most disastrous four months for United States heavyweights in ring history. He broke America's losing streak in international heavyweight competition at eight straight since June 15.

GENE'S HIS IDOL

The ex-leatherneck fights in the classy, upright style of ex-champion Tunney, who also was a marine. It was because he patterned himself after Gentleman Gene that the image came to him when he was closer to a kayo than at any time in his career.

The more experienced McMurtry gave the big, bull-shouldered 9-5 favorite such a bloody beating that it seemed Dr. Alexander Schiff might order the bout stopped at the end of the seventh and ninth rounds.

At the finish, game Chuvalo was bleeding profusely from the nose, mouth and cuts on his left brow and under his right eye. And he was so bewildered by McMurtry's lancing left jabs, hammering straight rights and combinations of right to body and left hooks to head, that at times he would gaze up at the clock to see if he could last the round.

AFTER ALL, BLOOD IS THICKER THAN WATER

CHICAGO (AP)—Dorothy Comiskey Rigney said Thursday if she ever sold her controlling interest in the White Sox club, she would rather sell to her brother, Chuck Comiskey, than an outsider.

Chuck and Dorothy currently are embroiled in a series of suits and counter-suits over stock left by their mother, the late White Sox president, Mrs. Grace Comiskey.

Mrs. Rigney, White Sox secretary-treasurer, is the wife of John Rigney, co-vice-president of the club with Chuck.

She said she is against moving the White Sox from Chicago.

Asked if she would sell Chuck enough stock to give him controlling interest, Dorothy said: "I'd rather not answer that, but if it ever came up, I would sell to him rather than somebody else."

CASTOFFS HELP

Ivan's Recipe Starts to Jell

CHICAGO (AP)—It's beginning to appear the Chicago Black Hawks, with a blend of promising rookies and major league castoffs, are jelling after four dismal National League seasons.

Hawks, atop the standing with a record of three victories and a tie, seek their fourth consecutive triumph today against Detroit Red Wings in Chicago Stadium.

If the Hawks—picked by most experts to repeat their fifth-place finish of last season—do wind up a Stanley Cup contender, it will be their first such role since the 1952-53 season.

And if success does finally strike the Hawks, much credit must go to general manager Tommy Ivan. Ivan came to Chicago at the beginning of the 1954-55 season, after coaching the Wings to six consecutive league titles and set about to rebuild the tattered Hawk franchise.

Backed by the ample bank rolls of James D. Norris and Arthur Wirtz, Ivan started a farm system, a project which has been shunned by the team's previous management.

THREE FARM PRODUCTS

Although three members of the current Hawks — centre Bobby Hull, defenceman Elmer Vasko and rookie Johnny McKenzie came through the embryonic farm system, Ivan still has had to rely on castoffs and minor leaguers.

For example, three men playing a major part in the team's early success were picked up by Ivan at the NHL summer draft meetings. They include defencemen Al Arbour, Jack Evans and Dollard St. Laurent.

"All three of our drafted players have played up to, and occasionally, beyond our expectations," said Ivan. 'They should help our all-star goalie, Glenn Hall, have a much easier time of it this year."

Tod Sloan, acquired from Toronto after nine seasons with the Leafs, and Danny Lewicki, picked up on waivers from Montreal after being drafted from New York, improved centre ice play "tremendously" for the Hawks, Ivan said.

Pair of Panchos Pack Pro Punch

HALSINGBORG, Sweden (AP) — Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles and Pancho Segura of Ecuador won singles matches Friday in an exhibition by Jack Kramer's pro tennis troupe.

Gonzales defeated Ken Rosewall of Australia 8-6, 12-10 and Segura downed Tony Trabert of Cincinnati 6-4, 8-6.

Opening Salvo Nov. 15 For Commercial Wars

Victoria's new four-team Commercial Hockey League will open action with the first of 15 doubleheaders scheduled at Memorial Arena on Saturday, Nov. 15, it was announced Friday by league president Doug Fletcher.

Playing all Saturdays and Tuesdays not taken up by the Western Hockey League's Cougars, the league will card two games each night.

Opening games will feature Navy and PPCLI at 8 p.m. and City and Centennials at 9.30 p.m.

Fletcher said that he expected the calibre of play to compare favorably with that played in the "heyday" of Victoria commercial hockey several years ago.

"Many of the players," he said, "have had considerable experience in hockey on the coast, the prairies and in the east, particularly the PPCLI and Navy teams."

A workout for the City team will be held in Memorial Arena from 10-11.30 p.m. Thursday.

Medal Round

Medal round for ladies with handicaps of 15 or less will be held Monday at the Uplands Golf Club. Following is the draw:

10 a.m.—MacKenzie and Thirlwell.
10.05—H. G. Mearns and Harrell.
10.10—Todd and Dowell.
10.15—Harris and Crane.
10.20—Husband and Chisholm.
10.25—Lawson and W. C. Mearns.
10.30—Massey and Munro.
10.35—Godfrey and Poyntz.
10.40—White and Rice.

Workouts Mark Minor Activity

Moving into their second week of activity, teams of the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association will hold workouts and registrations next week.

The week's schedule:

MONDAY
7 - 8 a.m.—Midget workout.
5.30 p.m.—Junior and Juvenile workout.
TUESDAY
7 - 8 a.m.—Bantam workout.
THURSDAY
7 - 8 a.m.—Bantam workout.
6 - 7 p.m.—Midget workout.
SATURDAY
7 - 10 a.m.—Peewee workout.

Curling Correction

A correction in draw times for this week's Sunday Commercial Curling League, changing "B" section play from 2 to 1 p.m. and the "C" section from 1 to 2 p.m., was announced today by the league directors.

Troubador May Change Canucks' Tune Tonight

Vancouver Nips Calgary; Riggin Blanks Quakers

Even without rollicking troubador Marcel Pelletier in the nets, Vancouver Canucks are sharing first place in the Coast Division as the young Western Hockey League season swings into its second week.

Rookie goalie Bruce Gamble had some troublesome moments against Calgary's hustling Stampeders at Vancouver Forum Friday night, but turned aside 21 shots and the Canucks nipped the Prairie Division invaders, 3-2, to climb into a first-place deadlock with Seattle Totems.

Tonight, the Canucks will be aiming their shots at Pelletier for the second time this season when they move into Memorial Arena against Victoria Cougars.

THREE-WAY TIE

Pelletier, league-leading netminder while with Vancouver last season, almost turned the tide against Canucks in the opening tussle. He stopped 38 shots and Canucks were forced to come from behind to edge the Victoria crew, 3-2.

Edmonton Flyers, playing their fifth game of the season Friday night, have goalie Dennis Riggin to thank for their third victory. Riggin chalked up his second shutout as Flyers clipped Saskatoon, 1-0, on ex-Cougar Gene Achtymichuk's first-period goal and climbed into a tie for first place in the league's Prairie Division with Calgary and Saskatoon.

It was the Quakers' first loss in four games.

Saskatoon defenceman Bill Burega was serving a penalty for tripping when Chuck Holmes drove a long shot at the Quaker net. Achtymichuk caught goalie Lucien Dechene moving the wrong way as he deflected the puck into the goal from 15 feet out.

Despite the defeat, Dechene was probably the best man on the ice. The portly netminder turned aside a total of 32 shots, many from point-blank range.

He was pulled for a sixth attacker by coach Frank Boucher with 80 seconds remaining and Quakers kept the puck in Edmonton territory the rest of the way, but couldn't get it past Riggin.

AT VANCOUVER SUNDAY

Rookie Ted Hampson scored with less than five minutes to play to give Canucks their victory.

He completed a play with linemate Danny Belisle and Mel Pearson to fire a backhand shot behind Roy Edwards to beat the tiring Stamps.

Don Carter and veteran Hugh Currie collected the other Vancouver tallies. Eddie Dorohoy and Chuck Blair scored for Calgary.

Besides the game at Memorial Arena tonight, Calgary plays at Spokane, Seattle is at New Westminster and the Quakers host Winnipeg Warriors.

Sunday, Cougars and Canucks tangle in the first Sunday game played at Vancouver and Royals are at Seattle.

Pop Tries 'Lonesome Formula'

NEW YORK (CP) — Frank (Pop) Ivy, whose thundering fullbacks ran over all opposition for years when he coached Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference, is cooking up something new.

His Chicago Cardinals are seven-point underdogs in their National Football League game with New York Giants Sunday and Ivy has worked up a new formation to bolster his sagging fortunes.

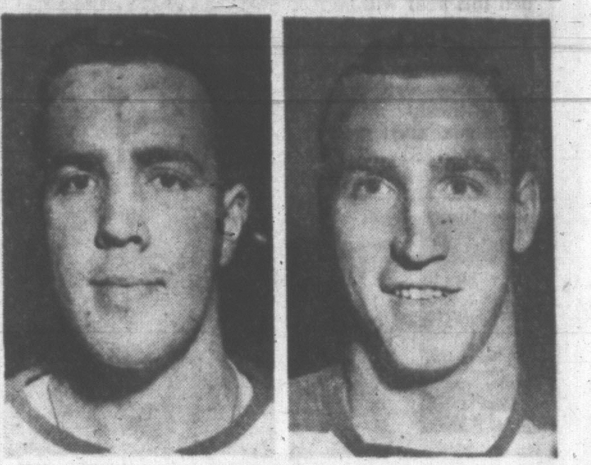
In Edmonton, Ivy employed the line-busting twin-fullback formation of Normie Kwong and Johnny Bright in a campaign which led to three straight Grey Cups—1954, 1955 and 1956.

"LONESOME" FORMULA

Sunday he is expected to give his new "lonesome fullback" formation a real workout. He tried it out last week and made things hot for the Cleveland Browns.

In this latest card trick, rookie quarterback M. C. Reynolds lines up directly under centre, both ends split about eight yards, two halfbacks split off one way and the fullback the other.

In other NFL action, Bobby Layne will be at the controls when Pittsburgh Steelers meet Cleveland and the western division-leading Baltimore Colts will take on Detroit Lions; Los Angeles Rams tackle Chicago Bears and San Francisco '49ers are visiting Philadelphia Eagles. Green Bay Packers go after Washington Redskins.



IN ACTION TONIGHT for Victoria Cougars against Vancouver Canucks in Western Hockey League game at Memorial Arena will be defenceman Jean Marc Picard (left) and forward Al Nicholson. Picard, injured in opening game at Vancouver, will be making first Victoria appearance. Nicholson, who scored two goals in last Cougar game, will be trying to continue scoring pace. Game time is 8 p.m.

WATERS LEADS RUNNERS

Vics Grab Trophy But Not Record

By GARRIE McNAUGHTON

Setting a blistering pace that placed eight runners in the first 10 finishers, coach Gordon Hartley's Victoria High School cross-country squad chalked up an easy triumph in the opening race of the season at Vic High Friday.

However, individual honors in the field of 65 starters went to Fred Waters of Shawnigan Lake School, who set a new record of 18 minutes, 23 seconds for the 3.4-mile course.

The next six places were captured by the Vics, who were paced by John Cliff, timed in 18.25. Simon Princenburg, another 15 seconds back, and John Burgess, fourth in 18.42.

Only other runner in the top 10 not on the Vic High team was Warner of the Navy squad, who edged the Vics' Paul [illegible] in a duel for eighth place.

Runner-up in team results was Shawnigan Lake, 33 points behind the winners, followed by Navy, 78 points down. Fourth, fifth and sixth in team competition were University School, PPCLI and HMCS Venture, respectively.

Victory gave the Vics possession of the Lonsdale Log, a trophy donated for comepitition between Shawnigan Lake and Vic High.

On Oct. 31, the Log will again be the object of battle, when the two squads clash at Shawnigan Lake over a rugged 4½-mile course. University School and Venture cadets will also contest the race, although they are not eligible to compete for the Log.

Next meet at Victoria High on November 5, will be the Canadian Legion annual fall race, a non-team jaunt offering twelve trophies to runners in three classes—junior, intermediate, and senior.

Gene's Hoop Hopes Chilled by Braves

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Pitcher Gene Conley's plans to play professional basketball during the off season were jolted Friday by General Manager John Quinn of the Milwaukee Braves who said the club would not permit it.

Conley left Milwaukee Monday to try out with the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association. Quinn said this was contrary to the Braves' wishes, and in violation of the standard player contract which forbids participation in any other sport.

"I don't believe baseball and basketball mix," said Quinn. "I don't like to see players in whom we have investments take part in anything where there is risk of injury. He might throw his arm out, or break a leg, or anything."

At Pittsfield, Mass., where Celtics played an exhibition game Thursday night, Conley said that he didn't anticipate any difficulty with the front office. He said he agreed with Quinn that baseball and basketball do not mix but added "I just want to play basketball this winter. Considering how little I pitched this summer I think it's the best thing for me. Anyway, I haven't even made the Celtics yet."

Japanese Open Meet Three-Way Scramble

TOKYO (UPI) — Rain forced postponement today of the red-hot battle between American pros Ken Venturi and Jackie Burke, Jr., and Japanese Canada Cup champion Torakichi Nakamura in the final round of the Japanese Open golf tournament.

With the three favorites all tied at the end of 54 holes at 217 strokes, a steady rain forced tournament officials to postpone until Sunday the final round of the tourney, even though play already had started.

Venturi, Burke and Nakamura were expected to be the principal contenders for the top money prize of one million yen ($2,778), the biggest purse ever offered in Japan, when play resumes Sunday.

The only other contenders were Yusei Shimamura, veteran pro at Fukuoka, Kyushu, who was two strokes behind the leaders with a 219; and Loichi Ono, who teamed with Nakamura to win the Canada Cup team trophy last year and who was in fifth place with 221.

Despite the heavy rains a crowd of more than 1,000 enthusiastic spectators turned out at the course today.

Dutchmen Want Another Chance

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen want a second chance in Olympic hockey competition.

Club directors have voted unanimously to apply for selection as Canada's entry in the Olympic tournament at Squaw Valley, Calif., in 1960.

The Dutchmen played in Cortina, Italy, in 1956 and dropped a 2-0 decision to Russia in the final game that decided the championship.

Riders Release Import Lineman

REGINA (CP)—Don Berger, a 25-year-old offensive centre and defensive tackle, who came to Saskatchewan Roughriders this year from Michigan State University, was released today by the Western Football Conference club.

Berger's spot in the Rider lineup was taken over last weekend by new tackle Harry Javernick, a late cut by the National Football League Philadelphia Eagles.

Rider coach George Terlep also named Canadian halfback Johnny Fedesoff, recently cut by Montreal Alouettes of the eastern Big Four, to his lineup.

ON THE ALLEYS

By GRAHAM COX

What's One More Job for Bowling's Busy Peggy Trickett

One of the busiest women in town must surely be Peggy Trickett.

She is one of the city's top lady bowlers, on staff and instructing at Gibson's Bowladrome, originator of the new Women's Matinee Tenpin League and on a handful of league teams. Yet she still has time for more.

Her latest project is out at Esquimalt Bowling Alleys where something of a revolution has taken place in the last two weeks.

Peggy has taken on the job of secretary of the two-week-old Sunday Night Mixed Tenpin League under president Nip Sage, there.

The scores registered so far haven't been world shattering, but it is the first-ever ABC sanctioned league held in the Esquimalt house.

Not in the new league, but setting a blistering fivepin pace for the establishment last week was Harry Sisterson with his 843 series, ahead of Gary Roskamp with 838 and 756, Daryl Prezeau 831, Frank Morgan 812, 776, and Bert Copp 801.

Behind them were ranked Geoff Worrall 799, Doug Crawford 783, Flora Kirker 765, George Adams 775, Be Lundgren 758 and Percy Riddle 752.

* * *

Something to look out for in the next couple of weeks is Larry Marshall's Parade of Champions, a continuing weekly fivepin challenge tourney with a $20 first prize on a four-game, total-pin roll. A trophy will be awarded each week's winner and become the property of the winner of the greatest number of events at the season's end.

* * *

Versatility is one thing, but Ron Cush carried things a bit far last weekend at Capital City Bowling Alleys.

One of the top golfers in the city, an unattached pro at Gorge Vale Golf Club, Ron set aside his clubs and the more familiar tenpin ball he rolls with authority, to set the season's high three mark with a 926 (302, 318, 306) series.

He did it in the Thanksgiving Day doubles tournament, won by Dick Hall and Dave Allen with a 10-game 5,363 total. Cush paired with Vic Harrison for second place with 5,176.

Behind Cush during the week were Irene Bowe, 787 (301); Keith Todd, 825 (323, 326); Emil Liska, 806 (317); Harry Smith, 812 (342, 338); Wilf Gregory (Nanaimo), 854 (307); Cy Waters, 788; Ted Dawson, 794 (301); Stan Bell, 818 (328); Dick Hall, 885 (328), 774; Reg Waggoner, 841 (339, 318), 778.

* * *

The top of the tenpin week came out of Strathcona Bowling Alleys where Monday Commercial Leaguer Bill Oakley fired out a 630 (203, 241) series. In the Senior League, Red Lawson bowled 609 (223).

Lawson led Dave Williams with 549, Harold Paulding 566 (202), George Motion 571, Ralph Baker 549 (212), Ray Rivers 547 and Lloyd Chow 540 (208).

In the Commercial League at Gibson's Les Oberg rolled 560 (201) Bill Dunaway hit 543, Wilbur Webb 541 (202), Wally Robertson 554 (236) and J. Mills (550 (220).

Len Murrant paced the Seniors with 619 (240) ahead of Harry Holness 541, Oakley 564 (200), Webb 541, M. Mapes 568, George Motion 574 (213), Lloyd Chow 556 (219), Andy Hawkins 550, H. Bryan 549 (201), Andy Quinn 548, Ron Wilson 548, Jack Lim 565, Roy Okell 540 and Alec McKeachie 592 (211, 201).

In the Commercial Fivepin loop, Bill Odgers scored highest at 822 (353) followed by G. Smith 769 (327), Harold Quissy 761, Cec McRae 748 and Keith Todd 806 (307).

A question put to us the other day that perhaps someone might be able to answer . . . "Why is it that the nearest place to Victoria that bowling shirts can be purchased is Portland?" Hmmm.

WORLD CUP COMPETITORS RULED OUT OF OLYMPICS

ZURICH (Reuters)—The International Football Federation announced today that all players who took part in the world soccer championships in Sweden this year will be ineligible for the Olympic soccer tournament in Rome in 1960.

The federation said it is taking this action in order to "root our professionals and to hand back the Olympic soccer tournament to the amateurs."

Hitherto, countries that had no professed professionals, such as Russia and Hungary, took part both in the World Cup for professionals and Olympic tournament for amateurs.

ERNIE FEDORUK

Everybody in general and the executive of the Victoria Cougars in particular are aware of weaknesses in this city's Western Hockey League entry.

The weaknesses, everybody says, are to be found on defence and in the attacking department. Some deplore the lack of a hard-hitting defenceman needed to keep rival forwards honest. Others bemoan the lack of one or two proven goal-getters.

Not a great deal, however, has been said about Cougars' tieup with a National League team. In this case, the Boston Bruins.

We can't help but feel that if Cougars could obtain a more solid working agreement, many of their on-the-ice problems would be solved.

★ ★ ★

The situation keeps leading me to believe that the Cougars have taken on the role of beggars, forced to accept scraps and leftovers tossed their way by the Bruins.

At any rate, the Boston club has not been overly generous. Perhaps it is because their agreement does not necessitate generosity.

★ ★ ★

We can understand an NHL team's desire to keep their most promising prospects in their own backyard. American Hockey League teams are much closer to the NHL centres than Coast teams. This enables major league clubs to keep a close watch on the play of certain individuals and, also, it is more convenient from a standpoint of dollars and cents and immediate recall purposes.

Nevertheless, other NHL clubs manage to send some of their better prospects to the West Coast.

Why not the Bruins?

The sudden and belated surge of the B.C. Lions is NOT the result of capital improvements by the Capital Improvement District Commission. But whatever the improvement, the West Coast's pro football team has now won three straight games and the folks that strayed from the Lions' band-wagon are now returning for another ride.

I wonder if that means that the Vancouver Sun will recall football writer Annis Stukus from Formosa?

The Sun, perhaps indicating it wants nothing less than a winner, shipped Big Stuke to cover the Formosan situation. Stuke's presence, undoubtedly spiced with lectures on how the Lions roared in '54, could improve the morale of the Chinese defenders.

Back home, the Lions have never had it so good.

Still with football, the annual rush for Grey Cup tickets is on. Vancouver Island fans who are not regular season-ticket holders have two chances to get Grey Cup tickets . . . very slim and none.

Lions expect to receive between 8,000 and 9,000 tickets for the Nov. 29 classic. These will be distributed on a strict priority basis to Lion Quarterback Club members and season-ticket holders. Since Lions have approximately 3,500 members, this immediately takes care of 7,000 tickets.

Season ticket holders will fight it out for the rest.

So don't hold your breath, Charlie . . .

Given a break in the weather this evening, Oak Bay Drakes can count on the largest crowd of the season for their football exhibition against Frank Gnup's University of British Columbia Thunderbirds.

It could be a decidedly interesting game, despite the weather.

The Drakes' executive is also hoping to lure as many Victoria College students and UBC alumni as possible to Royal Athletic Park.

The Thunderbirds could use some vocal support and the Drakes could use the monetary support. The Oak Bay team went out on a large financial limb in order to schedule the 'Birds in Victoria.

Sunday Rink Problem May Return to Courts

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Crown has asked permission to appeal a magistrate's ruling that it is legal to charge admission to Sunday hockey games in Winnipeg rinks that are allowed to hold Sunday skating under the city charter.

A Crown official said Friday that an answer to the request has not yet been received from the attorney-general's department.

Attorney-General Sterling Lyon said he could make no statement on the case until he had a change to study the ruling made earlier this week by Magistrate M. H. Garton.

The magistrate convicted and fined the Olympic Rink Ltd. and manager Crosby Lyon on a charge that they violated the Lord's Day Act by selling refreshments during a junior hockey game last March 23.

However, the magistrate ruled that the rink, allowed to charge for Sunday skating under the city charter, could also charge admission for a Sunday hockey game. He dismissed a charge that the rink violated the Lords' Day Act by charging admission to the game.

OAK BAY SWIM GALA

They All Knew Bob Was There

Wheaton . . . that was a name quickly recognized by everyone near the Crystal Gardens Friday night while the Oak Bay High School Inter-House swimming gala was being contested.

Tall and lean, 17-year-old Bob Wheaton, holder of five Canadian swimming records and bronze medal winner at the 1958 British Empire Games, staged a great one-man show in the annual event.

He not only paced his House I team to victory—scoring 26 of its 111 points—but also won three events, swam his fastest-ever backstroke race in the Victoria pool, and gave the spectators the most thrilling race of the night.

FINGER-TIP WIN

In order, Wheaton trimmed his own 50-yard school backstroke mark from 27.3 seconds to 26.8 seconds; swept to a 36.5-second win in the senior boys' breast stroke event and then anchored the House I senior boys' freestyle relay team to a come-from-behind win that lifted spectators to their feet.

Going into the last lap, House I was a full 15 yards behind the field when Wheaton hit the water.

Moving like a run-away torpedo, the Canadian champ proved his mettle by making up the distance and squeezing home in front by a finger-tip.

SALLY WINS PAIR

In the final standings, House I recovered from a last-place finish last year to take the meet with 111 points and the rest of the Houses followed in numerical order.

House II had 92 points, House III had 78 and House IV notched 74.

Sally Holland was the only other two-time winner in the gala, taking the senior girls' freestyle and the senior girls' breaststroke events.

Results:

SENIOR BOYS

50-yard freestyle—1, Craig Mearns (III); 2, Alan Savage (IV); 3, Mike Muirhead (IV). Time 26.9 sec.

50-yard breaststroke—1, Sue Morgan (II): 2, Jay Botterell (I); 3, A. Bonnell (III).

Relay—1, House I; 2, House IV; 3, House II. Time 2.28.0.

Last-Minute Free Throws Save Alberni

ALBERNI—Two successful foul shots in the dying minutes of the game by Ray Gailleaux gave Alberni Athletics a 60-59 victory over Vancouver Eilers Friday night in the opening game of the senior A basketball season.

The Dominion champion Eilers, ahead 29-27 at half-time, were leading 59-58 as Gailleaux went up for his foul shots.

Lance Stephens, playing his first game for the Athletitcs, was high scorer with 16 points. Ken Larson led Vancouver with 13 points.

Second game will be played here tonight.

Packers Continue To Tie Up Rivals

(From CP Reports)

Kelowna Packers, prepping for a hockey trip to Russia this winter, are trying to prove their worth early.

The Western Canada senior champions scored their third straight victory in the Okanagan Senior League Friday night, edging Kamloops Chiefs 3-2.

In another league encounter at Penticton, the hometown Vs blew a 4-1 second-period lead then came back with a goal late in the third period to beat Vernon Canadians 5-4.

At Kelown, Bugs Jones, Moe Young and rookie defenceman Wayne North accounted for the Packers' markers. John Milliard got both Kamloops goals.

At Penticton, Vs led 2-1 at the end of the first session on goals by Bob Chorley and Tic Beattie. Merv Bidoski scored for Vernon. Pat Coburn and Ed Johnson gave Penticton a 4-1 lead in the middle frame but Vernon tied the score on goals by Walt Trentini, Larry Plante and Bidoski. Jack Taggart notched the winner for Penticton at 15.26 with the Vs playing five men to Vernon's four.

Surprise? Not These All-Star Grid Choices

Bishop, Schick Lone Outsiders To Crash Dream Team Balloting

PETE TURKO
. . . unanimous choice

If any reasons are needed to point out why Oak Bay Drakes continue to dominate the Victoria Intermediate Canadian Football League, they're listed today in the three-team circuit's annual all-star list.

And it's certainly no surprise to find the smooth-functioning Drakes dominating the latest all-star selections in almost the same manner in which they manhandled city rivals on the gridiron this season.

Ten Drake stalwarts — four of them unanimous choices — are included on the official "dream team" as chosen by the coaches, sportswriters and sportscasters. Navy and Vampires, the league's other entries, each placed one man on the all-star team.

The results of the all-star balloting were announced while Drakes awaited their fifth exhibition game of the season, a meeting at Royal Athletic Park tonight with University of British Columbia Thunderbirds.

LONE OUTSIDERS

Two halfbacks, Navy's Bill Schick and Charlie Bishop of Vampires, prevented Oak Bay from sweeping all berths.

Other all-star choices are halfback Red White, fullback Ken Higgs, quarterback Jack Patrick, and the entire Oak Bay first-string line — ends Till Briggs and Pete Turko, guards Ken Slocker and Ivor Jenkins, tackles Joe Kurylo and Trev West, and centre Leo Kozak.

Kurylo, Turko, Jenkins and Patrick were named on all ballots. It marked the third straight season Kurylo and Turko have been named to the team.

Briggs, Jenkins, Patrick and Higgs were also named last year, while Bishop was voted a berth on the select team in 1956.

West, Sloker, Kozak, White and Schick made the grade for the first time.

Balfour's Two Goals Help Spill Providence

By The Canadian Press

Murray Balfour's two goals were all Rochester Americans needed as they downed Providence Reds 3-1 in an American Hockey League game Friday night.

Americans spotted Providence an early goal before coming back for the victory before 4,164 Rochester fans.

Bill Shvetz and Gordon Vejprava each scored a pair of goals and assisted on two others at Cleveland as the Barons got their first victory of the season, a 6-4 decision over Springfield Indians.

Defenceman Camille Bedard put the visitors in front at Rochester but Balfour scored twice within eight minutes and Claude Labrosse added the insurance in the second period.

Barons scored twice in each period and withstood a three-goal assault by the Indians in the finale. A big factor in Cleveland's triumph was Gerry McNamara, their new goalie.

Ken Schinkel, Harry Pidhirny, Duke Edmundson and Dale Anderson scored for the Indians. Bob Bailey and Art Stratton tallied one goal each for Cleveland.

ONE OF SET of four heraldic wall plaques, enamel on copper, designed and executed for the Bank of Nova Scotia by Victoria artist William West.

ART IN REVIEW — By MONCRIEFF WILLIAMSON

Bill West Creates Beauty With Ancient Complex Art

The art of enamelling is one of the post-war revivals which certain artists, the patient ones, have brought before the public almost as a new art. It can be used either as an architectural embellishment or, as in the fire-flooded works of Polish-born Stefan Knapp, as an additional means of picture making.

Williamson

The first major display of contemporary enamel pictures was on view in London's Hanover Gallery in 1955; a large exhibition in a gallery well known for advanced views, sound painting and not particularly modest prices.

The enamel pictures by Knapp were quickly sold and the London art world was considerably excited by what, after all, was but an old friend in new clothing. For some it was "fad," such as Venetian ashtrays of spun-glass; for others the art of enamelling was a new and serious art.

Enamelling is, basically, the fusing of layers of glass, transparent or opaque, on to a metal base. It is an ancient craft used often in ecclesiastical objects and in jewelry, but seldom handled in large-scale projects.

It is best known to us as dating from the 12th century and later periods of Limoges and Limousin. But in the 20th century it has become not only a medium used by painters; it has been used extensively in decoration. But it is a gallant craftsman who pits his skill against the combined vagaries of glass, fire and metal. Mistakes are costly and soul destroying.

Commissioned

Victoria's Bill West has now completed the last of a series of four large heraldic wall plaques in enamelled copper for branches of the Bank of Nova Scotia in New Westminster and Toronto. By courtesy of the Bank of Nova Scotia it has been on view at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria all week.

In every way it is a success. The balance of design, the intricate mosaic of enamelled copper billets are united in a highly original and provocative union of color and form. Heraldic symbols are proudly majestic, giving an impressive sense of weight which blends, in the mysteries of expert craftsmanship, in a light, delicious airiness. Mr. West and the bank which commissioned him are to be congratulated.

On view at the Art Gallery until Nov. 2 is a compact exhibition of 26 works by members of the B.C. Society of Artists. These are mainly drawings in water-color, none especially memorable yet with one or two items lifting the display out of doldrums.

Insubstantial

Jack Shadbolt, Herbert Siebner and Dorothy Cope present interesting but not very moving or deeply-felt items. Indeed, the whole display suffers from a lack of emotional virility which one might justifiably expect from such a distinguished group of exhibitors.

My own preferences were for Francoise Andre's "The Encounter" Alastair Bell's very accomplished "Victoria Buildings"—a work which captures the mood of Victoria's streets—and Joan Boyd's "Clearing British Properties."

Donald Jarvis is well represented by "Tall Figure" and two works which seemed a cut above some of the other exhibits were Bruce Boyd's "English Bay" and "Rock Landscape," by Bruno Bobak.

Yes, a thin exhibition without much substance.

* * *

I must gloss lightly over the exhibition of paintings by Violetta Koszeghy at Eaton's and mention Miss Alice Carey's one-man show which is on view at the Little Gallery, Fort Street.

Miss Carey was a late starter in the world of art and there are undoubtedly disadvantages in such a situation which make themselves apparent in certain of her landscapes.

Where Miss Carey gains is in her determination and self-confidence. She has the invaluable gift of work and the ability to progress, so that I am sure those who have been watching her development will find much in this modest display which is highly commendable.

She is moving forward all the time, and while her portraits show an occasional weakness in form and structure, she has a remarkable facility for capturing both likeness and character.

This exhibition contains the original portrait sketch of Chief Mungo Martin, several pastel sketches and two well-handled and pleasing water colors of Long Beach.

I for one would like to see her concentrating more on portraits.

THE STAMP CORNER

By REG NAIRNE

Most of the new season's catalogues have now made their appearance, Scott's Vol. 1 being still to come. It should be out about the end of the month, and is always eagerly looked for, as it lists the stamps which are most collected on this continent—the issues of the British Commonwealth, and North and South America.

Gibbon's Vol. 1, published in London, is actually the most comprehensive listing of the stamps of the British Commonwealth. The 1959 edition shows many new price changes, nearly all upwards.

Another English catalogue which finds favor with those who collect only the stamps of Queen Elizabeth's reign, is the "Commonwealth," which gives the most highly specialized listing of these issues of any work of reference.

The cost of the new Scott's volumes has again been raised, which is hardly to be wondered at considering their greatly increased bulk. The writer remembers, when, as a boy, the two were combined in one small pocket volume about the size of a school reader. Stamp collecting was a simple affair in those days.

* * *

Australia has now decided upon the designs for the new regular issue showing the Queen's portrait. As was anticipated in this column when the change was first suggested, an alteration in the likeness could hardly be for the better, as the present stamps are such outstanding examples of what a portrait series should be.

The new design shows the Queen in an informal pose, with an engaging smile on her features, and the general effect is quite pleasing. But somehow a more classic treatment seems to be called for in showing the Royal portrait on stamps, just as it is for our coinage.

* * *

Nigeria is going to issue a 3d commemorative to mark the centenary of Victoria, Southern Cameroons. The design will feature the same view of Ambas Bay, Victoria Harbor, as that now shown on the 2s 6d stamp, with dates and inscription added. Colors will be black and violet.

CAMERA ANGLES

By ED FITZGERALD
United Press International

Inasmuch as the lowly box camera is still the mainstay of the great majority of America's amateur photographers, here are 10 quick tips for better snapshots with a box camera.

1. Hold the camera steady. Most box camera shutters are set for about 1-50 of a second. That's just about fast enough to freeze some action . . . unless the photographer jiggles his camera.
2. Squeeze the shutter gently. Jabbing jars the camera and causes fuzzy pictures.
3. Shoot when there is enough sunlight to cast shadows. Midmorning or afternoon sun is kinder to the people in the pictures than the straight-down sun at high noon. Let the sunlight come from over your shoulder and a little to one side.
4. Shoot from as close as you can without cutting off any important part of the picture. Some simple cameras can be focused as close as 3½ feet. Five feet is the minimum for many others.
5. Snap from a viewpoint which lets your camera catch the meaning of what's going on in the situation you're photographing.
6. Keep backgrounds simple. Good backgrounds for pictures of people are sky, trees, grass, sand or a wall.
7. People in snapshots should be doing something. Catch them busy and unaware or ask them to pose as if in action.
8. Speaking of action, the best method for snapping moving people is to have them come right toward the camera.
9. When shooting landscapes, have a foreground object frame or lead into the picture. If the picture is primarily scenic and you have a person in it, have him look at the scene and not the camera.
10. To do justice to a sky full of puffy white clouds, your camera needs a cloud filter. Black and white snapshots pack more punch this way.

Important 25-Volume Project

Publisher Alfred A. Knopf has launched an ambitious project to publish jointly with Hutchinson of London a History of Human Society.

It will start from the time of the "first small-brained men, whose only tools were chipped pebbles and sharpened sticks" and proceed to the atomic age.

The complete work will run to 25 volumes, each book dealing with a civilization or society which has played an important part in history. Each book will be written by an individual scholar.

The general editor will be Dr. J. H. Plumb, Cambridge historian. Dr. Plumb is assembling a team of historians for the project. The first volume is expected to appear in 1960 and the work will proceed at the rate of two or three volumes a year.

The publishers were unable to estimate what the completed set would sell for.

BOOK TALK — By JAMES SCOTT

Big Expectations Fail to Materialize

The September surveys, both those based in the U.S.A. and local Canadian reports, all show that Patrick Dennis is way up on top with Around the World With Auntie Mame. This is a book which, heretofore, I have eschewed talking about in this space. There are many reasons: In the first place I have to confess that I did not particularly enjoy the original Auntie Mame.

SCOTT

I changed my mind completely when I saw the celebrated Rosalind Russell perform the title role on Broadway. Indeed, I enjoyed the show so much that I went back to see it twice—once with Constance Bennett in the lead and once with Sylvia Sydney. On stage, undoubtedly Auntie Mame was funny and perhaps she was a lot funnier in the book than I had realized.

With this in mind I approached the new series of chronicle. As I read about a younger, more girlish but completely zany Auntie Mame cavorting through adventures involving the Follies Bergere in Paris, cigar-smoking in Vienna, and a series of misadventures with gigolos in Port Said, Biarritz and various other points, once more I found myself finding it all not very funny. Again, I think it might look comical in the extreme, but somehow it seemed to be pretty thin on the printed page.

Well, that's one man's opinion. Apparently the great American public is going to prove me wrong. Just the same, I can't help wondering how many people have bought Around the World With Auntie Mame because they enjoyed the show so much. More than one, I'll wager.

* * *

LET DOWN

Maybe this is my week for disappointments, but I have to report on a couple of new books which I approached with great gusto and anticipation and came away from feeling let down and sad.

One of these was Vance Bourjaily's The Violated.

This was a much-touted novel along book row this fall and with some reason. Mr. Bourjaily had written a first novel of The End of My Life; The Violated was supposed to bring to maturity the powers hinted at in the first novel.

For my money, this does not happen. The Violated is a large book (much in the current fashion) but its bigness is purely physical. It has an interesting set of characters who should have made a good hard-hitting novel of modern times, but instead, as Mr. Bourjaily handles them they lead only to confusion.

MIXED UP

The central figures are a millionaire playboy from Mexico, who never quite gets off the ground, and his beautiful sister, his best friend, a smalltowner who becomes an alcoholic after she married a successful Wall Street trader, plus a curious misshapen ugly fellow from Long Island with a deep hate against most of the world.

The book covers these people's lives from late adolescence into maturity. It seems to say that the whole world is mixed up (and that may be a sound proposition), but in saying it the author gets all mixed up, too. I think I know what Mr. Bourjaily was attempting to do, but there is no getting around it, he does it in a very inept way. If he is going to come to maturity as a writer, it will be in another book.

* * *

Another disappointment for me was what was billed as "satire" in a novel by Owen Guinness called Doctor Tonrondo. I suspect, from the first name, that Mr. Guinness is himself Welsh. So is his hero. I have never known a Welshman yet who really knew how to laugh. Sing, yes, but with that deep, pervading Celtic undertone of melancholy which makes this such a distinctive people.

Satire is out of the question and the misadventures of this unfortunate young medical man who marries a frigid wife are far from funny. They are as grim and uncomfortable as a Welsh chapel and just about as inspiring. If you want that, the believe what they say on the book is all right: but don't dust jacket. It isn't funny

Make Your Own Musical Instuments, by Robert E. Wood and Muriel Mandell (Sterling, 128 pages: $2.95). Wire hanger harps, pie pan tambourines, stove pipe drum, barrel congas, comb kazoos, cocoanut bongos, musical glasses and dozens of other instruments can be devised in the home, to produce music or rhythm makers for every member of the family. Mr. Wood and Miss Mandell open the door to an entertaining hobby for everybody.

Old Glass Paperweights, by Evangeline H. Bergstrom (Crown, 132 pages: $7.50), is a beautiful exposition of their art and manufacture, and a catalogue of the distinguishing features of the glass paperweights, door knobs and medallions most desirable to fanciers. Over a hundred are illustrated, 20 of them in full color.

Jewels and the Woman, by Marianne Ostler (Horizon Press: $7.50), is a history of feminine adornment and a guide to the wearing of jewels by a professional designer of precious jewelry. It is illustrated with photographs and paintings of famous pieces of jewelry and their wearers.

Hungarian Virtuoso Appears As 20th Century Franz Liszt

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Some time ago, I mentioned that one of the most amazing pianists of this last century is Gyorgy Cziffra, a Hungarian refugee, who escaped from his communist-controlled country in 1956.

Davy

I don't know whether you have ever heard one of Cziffra's records, but if you haven't I suggest you give one a whirl. You won't be disappointed. For sheer technical wizardry, and virtuosity, there are few, if any, who can match this pianist.

When he gave his first public performance in London in 1957, some critics likened him to Franz Liszt, regarded as one of the greatest pianists of all time. One thing is certain, Cziffra has no difficulty in playing the works of the famous 19th century abbe.

* * *

Cziffra can be heard on three Angel records, two of which feature the piano works of Liszt.

The latest record (Angel 35610) is a brilliant show piece which will leave no one in doubt of the new virtuoso's technique. Cziffra performs an incredible paraphrase on the "Flight of the Bumble Bee," as well as Von Vecesey's transcription of Valse Triste and the Khatchaturian Sabre Dance.

The records also include Cziffra's improvisations on Rumanian Fantasy, William Tell and Johann Strauss' Tritsch-Tratsch Polka and the Blue Danube.

* * *

Some people like a musical variety on their records. One recent Columbia Masterworks "Philadelphia Orchestra Gala" (ML5267) is designed for such listeners.

The orchestra under the baton of Eugene Ormandy, performs Tchakovsky's Nutcracker Suite; Debusy's Claire de Lune; Grieg's Ravel's Bolero. The sound is excellent.

Current Hot Issue Novel Theme

CITY OF SPADES, by Colin MacInnes (Macmillan): A story, told as fiction, of the life a "Spade" (Negro) leads in a city of "Jumbles" (spelled Johnbulls)—London's "Harlem."

It is a story of mutual discovery: while Johnny Fortune, newly arrived from Nigeria, is learning how to live with the Jumbles, a native white Londoner named Montgomtry Pew is learning with some consternation what life is like for a Negro in the British capital.

The book is neither a complaint nor a plea, but a straightforward account of a way of life. As entertainment the book is a delight. As information it gives a serious insight into a way of life about which some British authorities would rather not talk.

Famous Mystery Under Microscope

The Montesi Scandal, by Wayland Young (Doubleday): A few years ago newspaper readers all over the world were avidly following the progress of the Montesi case ,which began when Wilma Montesi's body was found on a beach near Rome.

The mystery surrounding her death involved a wide range of characters from call girls to government officials. Young, a former British news correspondent in Rome, has pulled together the known facts of this fascinating scandal-mystery into an absorbing book.

Elephants are driven by their ears, says the National Geographic Magazine. The mahout, or master, sits on the beast's neck and conveys his orders by pressing with knees, toes, or heels on the elephant's ear fans or shoulders. Using no words at all, he makes his mount amble forward, wheel right or left, pick up things, go into reverse, break off an interfering branch, kneel, salute, stop, look, or listen.

THE SOUNDING BOARD

Opinion, Personal ...Or Qualified?

By AUDREY ST D. JOHNSON

The super-charged air that has been heating the Art Gallery for the past two weeks is cooling off now; the scorching pens and wagging tongues will have to seek new fuel. Looked at from the sidelines, the whole thing has had a highly amusing aspect and a basic absurdity. Against a little qualified opinion we have had a flood of unfounded and uninformed comments.

Audrey

But the sediment of all this moiling and boiling is beginning to settle now and in it the wise may be able to detect some worthwhile substance.

It has, for example, been made abundantly obvious that personal opinion and considered judgement are poles apart. To like or not to like is, one thing and every man's privilege.

To have the cultivated knowledge to asses a work of art—to measure it against a standard which is arbitrary but nevertheless necessary — is a very different matter.

Imagine if you will, the anarchy that would result if there were no culturally established standards and every person who viewed or listened to a work of art, had his opinion accepted as justifiable! What confusion for all concerned!

Can the Critics Perform?

In plain words everyone has a right to say that he admires Salgo's or any other artist's work, or he dislikes it. Only a few qualified people can logically and acceptably say a thing is good art or bad.

There are also one or two other aspects that intrigue me. One is the way in which that perennial indictment against critics was highlighted—"What have they ever done themselves that is half so good as what they criticize?"

Well, in this particular instance of course, all but one of the original critics of Senor Salgo happen to be practising professional artists of high technical proficiency; whether one has a taste for their various styles or not is beside the point.

Familiarity with a name, a bit of glamorous publicity, is all the public needs to accept an artist or performer as a minor god.

But sad to say, the dazzle of limelighted publicity does not by any means always fall on the worthy and expert and avoid the charlatan. Indeed the latter seem best to know how to jostle themselves into it—even how to manufacture it.

Which leads to a lot of befoolment all round.

SOLOIST with Victoria Symphony in this weekend's pair of concerts is pianist Sheila Bates, on a visit home from London, where she is studying at Royal Academy of Music. Miss Bates is winner of several music scholarships and awards and was a pupil of former Victoria teacher Stanley Shale.

GRUBER CONDUCTS

Case of Bela Bartok Typical Of Erring Artistic Judgement

Some recent events have once again proved that there is no such thing as bad publicity, and that all publicity, no matter how unflattering, is bound to be of service to the human butts of public criticism.

In Hollywood, for instance (whence the most trivial per-personal news is syndicated for all the world to read), yet another "triangle," leading to divorce, has authoritatively greatly increased the commercial value of the parties involved; accordingly, their agents are quoting higher prices per picture on behalf of their actor-clients, based on certain signs that their box-office drawing power is the greater for having been involved in a scandal.

Hans Gruber

Now, this is not their fault. I don't suppose Hollywood's divorce rate is higher than average, it's just that the whole world promptly knows about each one.

The fault is ours. It is we who make a point of seeing as soon as possible a personality who has been in the news, and our curiosity is aroused in direct proportion to the reprehensibility of the nature of such news. Is it that, very secretly, we do tend to regard immorality as glamorous?

Closer to home, and in a very different vein, those who sought publicity to discredit an artist, have, had they but known it, done him a favor of such magnitude as the most expensive publicity could not have come near to achieving.

HISTORICAL FACT

Let us be quite clear as to why this outburst was doomed to futility, at least so far as achieving its intended end is concerned: history has proved, irrevocably and finally, without a known instance of exception, that it is the PUBLIC, and never fellow-professionals, who render final, AND CORRECT, judgment upon works of art, in whatever form; and, secondly, that most of the greatest creative artists were misunderstood in their own time, their very greatness having lain in their having been ahead of their times — their creativeness having contained an element of the prophetic.

Time, incompressible—sometimes the span of a whole generation — was necessary before an artist came into his own, and was, though himself long since dead, appreciated for his full worth; he who appeared a wild-eyed maniac to his contemporaries.

Not always, of course, does it take a generation. Sometimes, it is only necessary for the artist to die, in poverty, neglect, and prematurely because of lifelong undernourishment — let's face it, slow starvation — in order that he world may suddenly discover meaning in his works which only yesterday, while (or because?) he was alive remained obscure.

IN OUR TIME

I do not now speak of Schubert and Mozart, applicable to them though this may be. Bela Bartok died in our time—1945—in and under the same circumstances.

Next day, literally, the music world proclaimed him the greatest since Beethoven, and executant artists, most particularly his fellow-countrymen long since famous and wealthy, began performing his music with a frequency unabated to this day; a fraction of which would have kept Bartok out of the charity hospital — likely out of any hospital—had they troubled about him or his work a few years sooner.

They were right, of course, in their high opinion of Bartok's music, even if they were right a little too late.

Bartok lay already on his death-bed as he wrote this Third Piano Concerto which Sheila Bates will play with the Symphony Sunday afternoon and Monday evening.

It took Eugene Ormandy and Peter Bartok, the great man's son, to decipher the last 17 bars written, as they were, by a dying hand.

Phil Lee's Two for the Show

AA (Oscar Class) BB (Worthwhile)
A (Don't Miss) B (For Rainy Days) C (To put in time)

(BB PLUS) "THE FLY" and "SPACE MASTER X-7" (Capitol): The next time you're about to kill a fly, halt the swatter in mid-air and look that fly in the eye. It may be a friend of yours. On the other hand it may be the Simon Legree who holds your mortgage, the man who introduced you to your wife or the blonde you met at the taxidermists' ball who is threatening to tell all. Okay, swat away.

Actually 20th Century-Fox's science-fiction is very clever, conceiving the idea that man will eventually be able to step into a "transmitting station" and be broken up into atoms and then "reassembled" when he enters the "receiving station," much the same way that television pictures are sent through the air in a pattern of dots then "reassembled" into pictures by the receiving set.

The trouble with scientist Al Hedison's experiment was that he got sloppy. When he was in the "transmitting" station he failed to notice that a housefly was in there with him. With the result that . . .

But, no, we'll desist from explaining what happened and let you go and gather your own nightmares.

★ ★ ★

IN ADDITION to being clever in conception—possibly cleverer than in execution—"The Fly" boasts an unusually sound cast, including Hedison, Patricia Owens as his frightened wife, Vincent Price as his unbelieving brother and Herbert Marshall as the dignified inspector of police. And, finally, the grimness of the whole was not marred by the use of solidly bright DeLuxe color, which does wondrous things for blood.

"Space Master X-7" is like having a nightmare about a bowl of jelly that gets out of hand. The jelly grows and grows and grows. It makes unseemly sounds and possesses nasty habit of destroying everything it touches.

Cast includes Bill Williams, a security agent; Paul Frees, an outer space researcher, and Lyn Thomas, Frees' wife, who runs away not knowing she is contaminated. It all ends in a frightening aircraft flight 18,000 feet up in the air.

Tour Honors Toscanini

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Symphony of the Air is planning a "Memorial Tour" of Europe and the Middle East this November in honor of its late conductor, Arturo Toscanini.

The tour, which will be under private sponsorship, will probably start in Parma, Italy, the Maestro's birthplace.

In 1956, the orchestra was to have visited the Middle East under State Department sponsorship, but tour was cancelled because of "transportation difficulties" after charges of pro-Communism were made against unnamed members of the group.

Ghosts to Romp On Sidney Stage

Noel Coward's delightful whimsy about mediums and manifestations is the current choice of the Peninsula Players of Sidney. It will be seen at Sidney Elementary School next Friday and Saturday.

"Blithe Spirit" tells a hectic and hilarious story of Charles Condimine whose first wife Elvira is accidentally conjured up by a flamboyant medium whom his second wife has invited to dinner.

Elvira proves both jealous and mischievous and from then on things go from bad to much worse.

Members of the cast are Dorothy Rayburn, Mary Leaf, Eve Gray, Joan Henricksen, Margaret Dixon, Herb Drew and Bob Hallock.

Poltergeist eruptions during the course of the play provide the backstage crew with plenty of technical problems to solve.

NATURE IS B.O.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Five Walt Disney feature-length nature films, released at a one-a-year rate since 1953, have grossed $19,000,000 thus far. Disney says the films grossed $8,500,000 in the United States and more than $10,000,000 overseas.

Dennis the Menace
by Hank Ketcham
WE BROUGHT THE BOY, BOB. COULDN'T FIND A SITTER.
GOOD. GLAD HE COULD COME.
THE BABY SITTER CHICKENED OUT!
OH?
HE'S KIDDING, BOB.
THAT'S WHAT DAD SAID!
HEH-HEH. KIDS!
UH...YEAH. SURE.
THE MITCHELLS BROUGHT DENNIS, DEAR.
OH? WELL...
THE BABY SITTER CHICKENED OUT!
THAT'S SORT OF A FAMILY JOKE, EILEEN.
YEAH BABY SITTERS ARE ALWAYS CHICKENIN' OUT IN OUR FAMILY!
I GUESS I'D BETTER TAKE A PEEK AT OUR DINNER.
MAY I HELP, EILEEN?
I'M STARVED
YOU GOT ANY KIDS, MR. HARMON?
NO, DENNIS. JUST A COUPLE OF BIRDS.
Ketcham 10-19
I DIDN'T THINK SO. YOUR HOUSE LOOKS SORTA LIKE NOBODY USES IT.
DENNIS!
ALL RIGHT, BOYS. DINNER IS ON THE TABLE.
AN' AM I EVER HUNGRY!
IS THIS IT?
WHA-WHAT DO YOU MEAN, DENNIS?
WELL, GEE WHIZ! YOU SAID DINNER WAS ON THE TABLE...AT OUR HOUSE WE CALL THIS A SNACK!
SHALL WE JUST LEAVE QUIETLY, EILEEN?
AW, FORGET IT! LET'S ALL START EATING BEFORE OUR SNACK GETS COLD!

EVERY ENTRANT WILL RECEIVE A FREE COLOUR PICTURE OF LASSIE!

Lassie has three of the most wonderful puppies you could possibly imagine! And Nestlé's are giving them away to the first three prize-winners in this exciting contest. If you win (and it's easy to win!) you'll be flown to Hollywood for five thrill-packed days. You'll see Disneyland . . . you'll meet famous movie stars . . . and you'll be given one of Lassie's wonderful puppies to take home as your very own!

Yes, this is just about the most exciting prize any boy or girl could possibly win. And you'll be able to take Mom and Dad to Hollywood with you absolutely free. So don't wait another moment! Enter this fabulous contest now! One of Lassie's own puppies is waiting for you . . . in Hollywood!

Everybody wins. You get a free colour picture of Lassie just for entering.

FOLLOW THESE EASY RULES

...ENTER NOW!

All you have to do in this thrilling contest is complete the following sentence "Quik is my favourite chocolate drink because . . ." using 25 additional words or less.

Print or write your complete sentence on a plain sheet of paper. Add your name and address, your age and your grocer's name and address. Cut out the illustration of the glass (or reasonable facsimile) from the front panel of any Nestlé's Quik package. Then send the cut-out together with your entry, to Nestlé's Quik Contest, Box 1550, Toronto, Ontario.

There are lots of reasons why Quik is the favourite chocolate drink." Nothing tastes so chocolatey-good as Nestlé's Quik." It mixes instantly. Quik is easiest to make and fun to drink. Quik is chocolatey-delicious whether you drink it hot or cold. Quik is full of nourishment . . . contains sunshine Vitamin D. Include in your sentence the reasons why Nestlé's Quik is your favourite chocolate drink. (You may ask Mom and Dad to help you, if you wish). Every entry will be opened, and every entry will be judged. Neatness, originality and aptness of thought will be considered in awarding the prizes.

You may send in as many entries as you wish. But remember: each entry must be accompanied by a cut-out of the illustration of the glass of Quik (or reasonable facsimile) from the front panel of any Nestlé's Quik package.

A Free colourful Lassie picture will be mailed to each entrant.

CONTEST CLOSES NOVEMBER 30th, 1958.

Winners will be notified by mail.

Winners' names will be published in all publications in which contest advertisements have appeared.

A complete list of winners' names will be mailed to any interested party on request.

This contest is open to all persons residing in Canada except employees of Nestlé (Canada) Limited, its advertising agencies, any persons engaged in advertising or selling the company's products, and the immediate families of such persons, or anyone directly or indirectly connected with the handling of this contest.

All entries must be postmarked not later than November 30, and received not later than December 7, 1958.

No entries will be returned. Entries, contents and ideas therein belong unqualifiedly to Nestlé (Canada) Limited for any and all purposes.

The decisions of the judges shall be final and no correspondence will be entered into.

NESTLÉ'S Quik

Nothing tastes so chocolatey-good as Nestlé's Quik. That's why Quik is more popular than all other chocolate drinks combined.

Watch the Lassie Show on TV every Sunday and see the Lassie puppy YOU may win!

NOTHING TASTES SO CHOCOLATEY GOOD AS NESTLÉ'S QUIK!

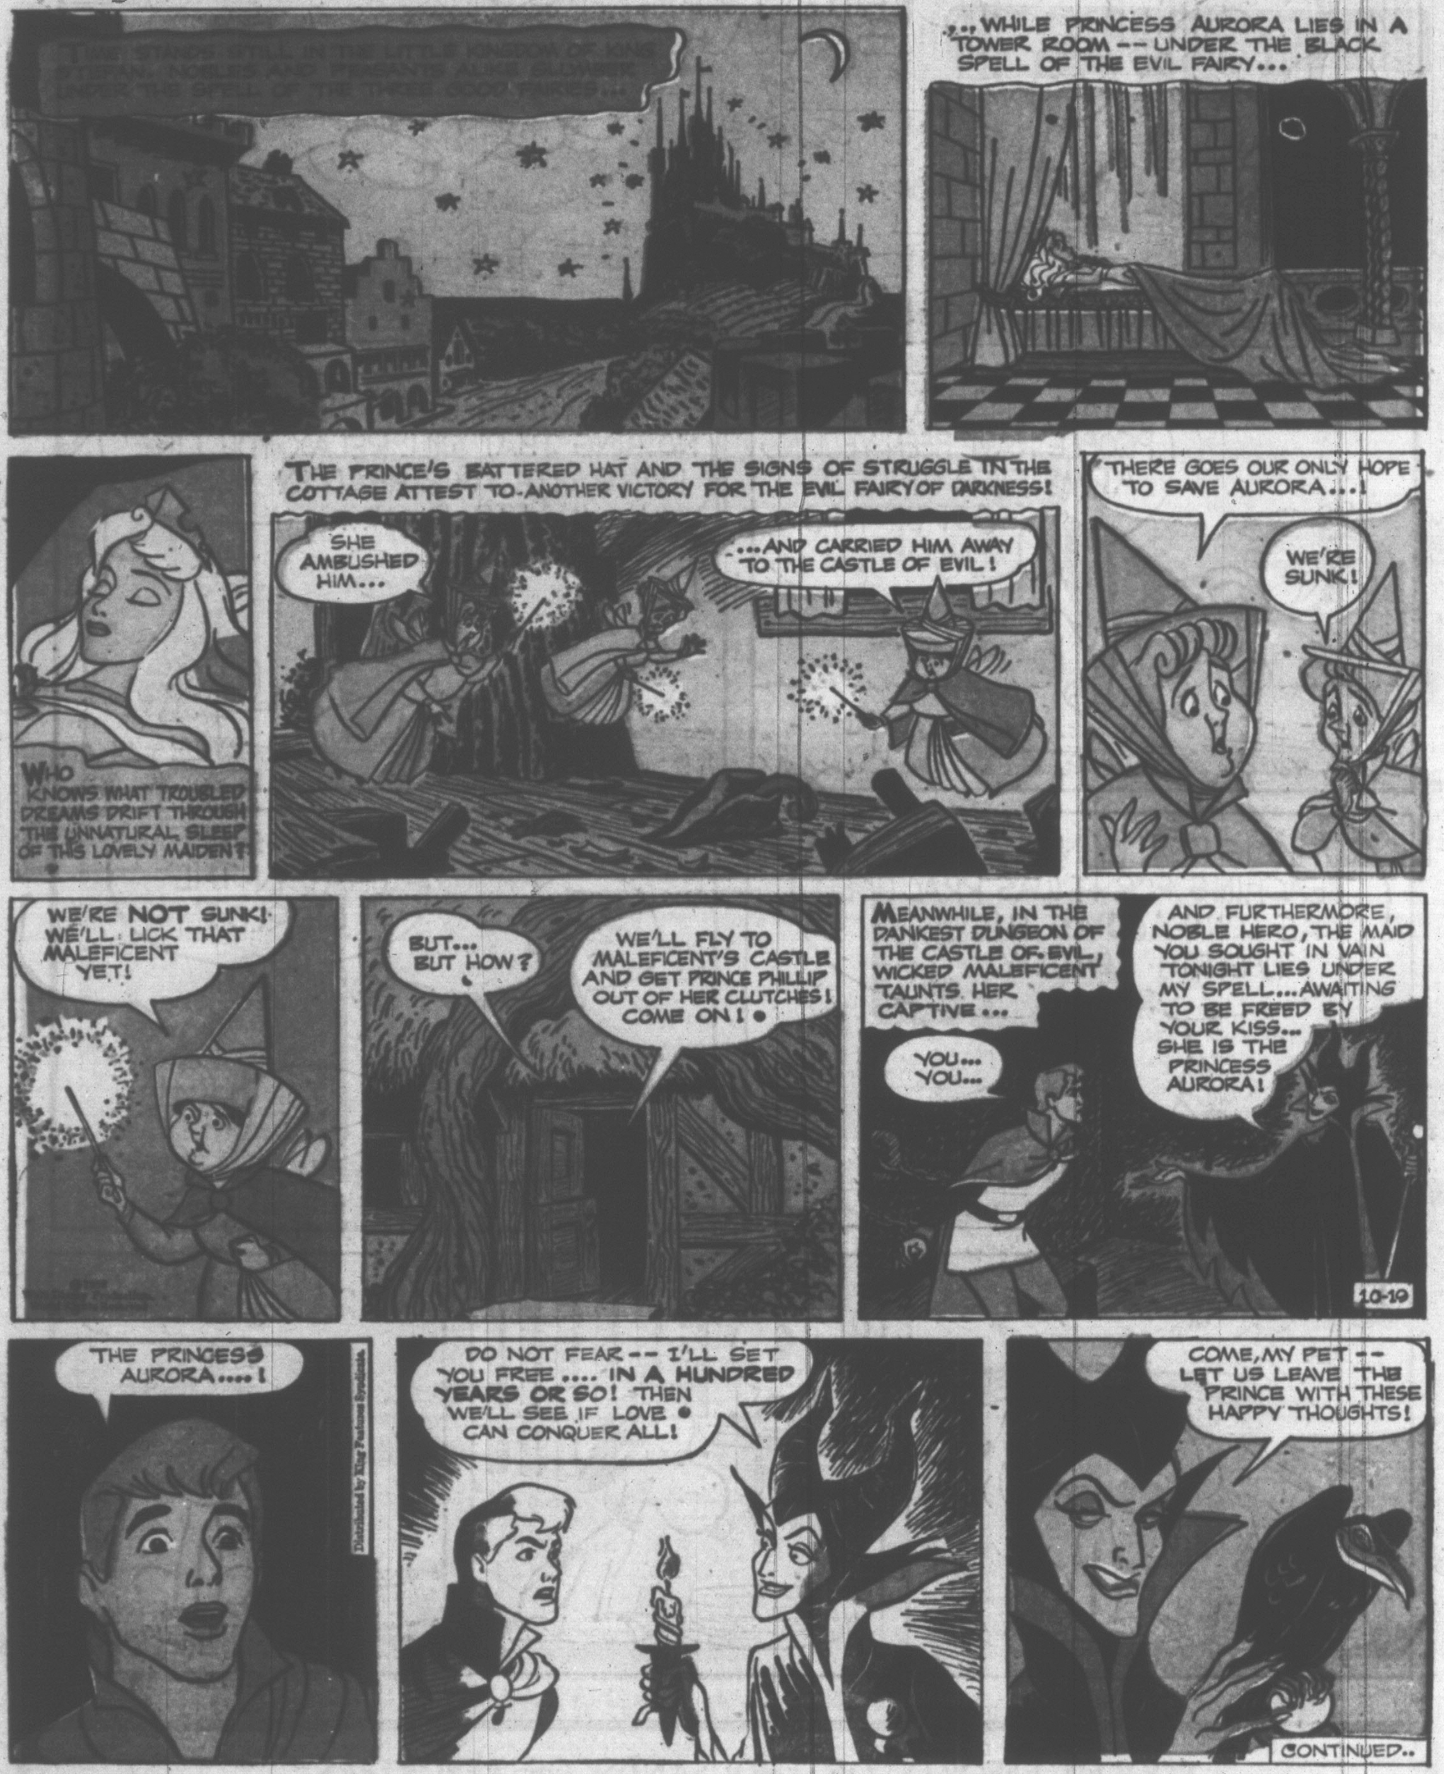
SLEEPING BEAUTY



TIME STANDS STILL IN THE LITTLE KINGDOM OF KING STEFAN. NOBLES AND PEASANTS ALIKE SLUMBER UNDER THE SPELL OF THE THREE GOOD FAIRIES...
...WHILE PRINCESS AURORA LIES IN A TOWER ROOM -- UNDER THE BLACK SPELL OF THE EVIL FAIRY...
WHO KNOWS WHAT TROUBLED DREAMS DRIFT THROUGH THE UNNATURAL SLEEP OF THIS LOVELY MAIDEN?
THE PRINCE'S BATTERED HAT AND THE SIGNS OF STRUGGLE IN THE COTTAGE ATTEST TO ANOTHER VICTORY FOR THE EVIL FAIRY OF DARKNESS!
SHE AMBUSHED HIM...
...AND CARRIED HIM AWAY TO THE CASTLE OF EVIL!
THERE GOES OUR ONLY HOPE TO SAVE AURORA...!
WE'RE SUNK!
WE'RE NOT SUNK! WE'LL LICK THAT MALEFICENT YET!
BUT... BUT HOW?
WE'LL FLY TO MALEFICENT'S CASTLE AND GET PRINCE PHILLIP OUT OF HER CLUTCHES! COME ON!

ONLY INSTITUTION OF ITS KIND IN WORLD OPENED BY DEFENCE MINISTER

$3 Million Navy Technical School Sprawls Over Four and One-Half Acres

The Royal Canadian Navy today opened a school at Esquimalt believed to be the only one of its kind in the world.

The Naval Technical School, just off Esquimalt Road behind Moresby House, will provide training from the apprentice stage to petty officer, covering the complete range of technilogical knowledge needed by ratings and NCOs in the modern navy.

The school, opened officially by Defence Minister George Pearkes, will take the place of a dozen installations formerly scattered through HMC Dockyard and HMCS Naden.

It also replaces HMCS Cape Breton, the "floating classroom" formerly used on the East Coast for apprentice training.

Cape Breton is now on this coast, being refitted as a sea-going maintenance and supply ship.

Establishment of the school is a direct result of a survey conducted throughout the RCN in 1951, which showed the navy must produce many more of her own technicians, or else go short handed. In competing with the higher wages of industry, the navy was rapidly losing ground.

Decision was made to build the school, to replace outdated and adequate facilities of the Ordnance Training School, Mechanical Training Establishment (West Coast) and Electrical Training Centre.

Objective of the school, according to an official navy statement, is "the production of the finest technical personnel possible, to man, maintain, and fight the increasingly complex naval equipment."

Cost of construction was about $1,500,000, and at least a similar sum will be needed to equip it fully.

Built mainly of pre-stressed concrete, with huge areas of window space, the building has a working floor area of four and one-half acres; windows measure a total of three and one-half acres. All classrooms are individually air conditioned.

The NTS has capacity for an enrolment of 400 trainees in various stages of trades training. At present, 177 are under instruction, including 121 technical apprentices. They aim to meet the high standards required to qualify as engineering, engineering (air), electrical, ordnance, and shipwright tradesmen.

As a general rule, the apprentice, after three years, three months, joins the fleet as petty officer, second class.

All navy trades' training now will be conducted under one roof.

MONTE ROBERTS

The Bell Telephone Co's Montreal branch recently gave serious consideration to a wonderful idea.

Bell talked about returning to the good old days before dial telephones, when the subscriber picked up the 'phone and was greeted by the dulcet tones of a charming young lady saying "Number, please."

The reason: the growth in the number of subscribers. This year, for the city of Montreal, Bell had to print a 2,100-page phone book listing 720,000 subscribers.

The company conducted a survey which showed the average user carries 20 numbers in his head, consults the book for only one number in six. The thought was, why not dispense with the phone book, and have switchboard girls supply the missing numbers?

Unfortunately, the plan fell through because of the amount of money needed for extra salaries.

Which is indeed a pity. At the risk of appearing to be against technological progress, I am in favor of going back to the dear old "central" days.

In those days, the telephone was much warmer, much more personal. You felt you had a real friend in the person of the hello-girl, whose voice was alert, cheerful, and showed every wish to please.

Now we are moving even farther away from the telephone girl. In the near future, we will by-pass her on long distance calls, using the new and mechanically marvellous direct-dialing system.

Much faster, of course, much more efficient. But something fine will be missing when you no longer dial 110, and enlist the help of a highly-trained, very pleasant young lady to reach your aunt who may be in Okomokee, or is it Phanistrania?

I am a great admirer of today's long distance operators, just as I used to be an admirer of the centrals of long ago.

I guess the only thing left will be the [illegible] voice of the information operator.

I may be allowed to hope the scientfic blokes will never get around to inventing a mechanical replacement for this helpful young lady.

FISHERIES MINISTER MacLEAN . . . under fire.

MAN DENIES INTERFERING AT JOB OFFICE

A Victoria man pleaded not guilty in city police court today to an obstruction charge carrying a maximum penalty of 14 years in jail.

Robert Brodie, Westholme Hotel, is charged with wilfully interfering with use of the Queen's property at Unemployment Insurance Commission office, 1039 Johnson, on Oct. 6.

He was remanded for trial to Monday.

Complaint was laid by employment officer Walter H. Graham, according to the sworn information against Brodie.

STALLING CHARGE

'Salmon Glut' Loss Estimated At $2 Million

A spokesman for the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union charged today that B.C. had lost more than $2,000,000 since September because federal Fisheries Minister J. Angus MacLean "refused to do anything" about a salmon glut in the Fraser River.

Homer Stevens, union business agent, told The Times B.C. fishermen are daily dumping so many "thousands upon thousands of good salmon that the river bed must be deep in dead fish."

He said too many salmon are reaching the spawning grounds, causing much of the spawn to rot and pose a threat to next year's salmon haul.

BUY NO MORE

The glut of salmon follows the Sept. 18 decision of the B.C. Fisheries Association not to buy any late run sockeye after the end of the month.

Association officials said there was no market for the rest of the run, which they described of "inferior grade."

The fishermen immediately protested the announcement and denied that the fish was not top quality sockeye.

"But the canners won't take the fish," Mr. Stevens said today, "so we are having to dump it."

"We met the fisheries minister twice recently trying to get him to intervene, but he stalled both times. We even suggested the fish be canned for use by the Colombo Plan if Canadian markets didn't want it, but he turned us down flat.

"First he said any action would require parliamentary approval, then he said he didn't think the situation justified any move by him.

DUCKING ISSUE

"He is just ducking the issue and we don't like his attitute at all. It is costing the industry —$2,000,000 at least since Sep-$2,000,000 at least since September."

Mr. Stevens termed the position a "disaster" and said further action was contemplated. He said the Salmon Commission and B.C. Fisheries Association are similarly "ducking" the problem, "and meanwhile more and more healthy salmon is being lost."

FIRST STEP IN UNIFICATION PLAN

Service Medics to Merge By Jan. 1, Says Pearkes

Medical services of Canada's navy, army and air force will be brought under single administration Jan. 1, according to Defence Minister George R. Pearkes, VC, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich.

He is here today for the opening of the new Naval Technical School.

Mr. Pearkes referred to the move as the first step in unification of the armed forces.

Motive of the scheme is to provide a "close-knit organization for the control of operations."

Mr. Pearkes indicated Canada may never reach the day when sailors, soldiers, and airmen wear the same uniforms.

"But all services are being brought much closer together," he said.

"The first step must be — without making any radical or revolutionary change — to go ahead and unify the logistic, or administrative services."

Next branches to be unified, after the medical branch, will be recruiting and chaplain services.

SIGN FOR ALL

"Recruitment of the three services is being brought together so that recruiting officers will be able to sign up men for all services, and not just his own."

Commenting on the decision to employ the Bomarc missile, Mr. Pearkes said he thought it was a good selection as Canada's main anti-aircraft weapon of the future. The CF-105 supersonic jet interceptor had "outlived its usefulness before it was fully developed."

Mr. Pearkes arrived at HMC Dockyard from Vancouver aboard the destroyer escort HMCS Athabaskan at noon today, and lunched with Rear-Admiral H. S. Rayner, flag officer, Pacific coast, before attending the school opening ceremonies.

The destroyer was dispatched from Esquimalt when weather conditions made flying uncertain. As Athabaskan entered harbor at 12.15 p.m., a 17-gun salute was fired to honor the minister.

Young Driver Badly Hurt; Cars Wrecked

Both cars were wrecked and a driver received severe injuries in a two-car crash near Glen Lake Friday night.

Colwood RCMP said both drivers were alone when they clashed in a tangle of metal, glass and rubber on Sooke, between Metchosin and Jacklin at 8 p.m.

Frank Chow, 17, of 3344 Wishart, is reported to be in fair condition at St. Joseph's Hospital with head, face and chest injuries.

He was driver of a 1948 model car and the other motorist, identified as Robert J. Hunter, 3256 Happy Valley, drove a 1953 Cadillac, police said.

Details of the accident were not available, but it is known the highway was wet and possibly misty after heavy rainfall Friday afternoon.

The injured driver was taken to hospital semi-conscious, a member of his family said. The other driver was not injured.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Fortune, James Bay, Miramichi, Cowichan, return late this month.

Crescent, Cayuga, Athabaskan, Skeena, Fraser, Margaree, leave 9 a.m. Monday on U.S. cruise.

PARADE MONDAY NIGHT FOR AIR COMMODORE

AIR COMM. ROSS . . . to inspect auxiliary

Air Commodore Arthur D. Ross, GC, CBE, CD, commander of 5 Air Division, RCAF, in Vancouver, will inspect 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron Monday night at the squadron's headquarters, 865 Yates Street.

Inspection of the auxiliary squadron on parade will be at 7.45 p.m., and will be followed by a check of training facilities and all squadron personnel at work. Parade commander will be Sqdn. Ldr. R. D. Higgins.

'POOR CRICKET' SAYS OFFICIAL

Steed Resignation Accepted by Dean

Dean Brian Whitlow announced today he has accepted the resignation of Graham Steed from his post as organist at Christ Church Cathedral.

The Dean did not amplify this statement, nor did he comment on Mr. Steed's resignation.

Mr. Steed emphasized that his resignation has "nothing to do" with a controversy last June over a jazz record of the Holy Eucharist.

"My resignation is the culmination of a situation that has developed over the past three years," he told The Times.

PLAYS SUNDAY

The organist said he would play for services at Christ Church Cathedral this Sunday as usual.

In his letter of resignation, addressed to the Dean Friday, Mr. Steed said:

"It grieves me more than I can say that we cannot work together in harmony for the things that we both believe in."

He continued:

"I must add, with all the power at my command, that the music of the church cannot be produced by blind obedience to directives, nor under assertions of authority."

"MUTUAL TRUST"

He said church music could be produced "only on a basis of mutual trust and respect for convictions held and supported by eminent authority . . . and a willingness on the part of the clergy to delegate authority to persons skilled in music so that the sung praises of Almighty God may never become stale, but ever keep pace, in an age of progress, with new trends and ideas."

Mr. Steed said that by eminent authority, he meant the principles and recommendations of the Royal School of Church Music which are "certainly applicable here."

"It is my hope that my successor will have a less difficult path to tread than has been my lot in this Cathedral church which I have tried to serve to the best of my ability for the past nine years."

Last year Mr. Steed flew to England to consult with a firm of organ builders concerning a $40,000 rebuilding of the Christ Church organ.

The job was completed, and the organ dedicated, earlier this year. A public performance by Dr. Alexander Schreiner of Salt Lake City, introduced the new instrument to Victorians, and was warmly acclaimed by a capacity audience.

A member of the church committee made this comment on Mr. Steed's resignation:

"It seems to me pretty poor cricket for Mr. Steed to air this grievance in the press.

"There is more to it than appears in his statement. His strong views have not been wholly acceptable to the choir or congregation.

"Perhaps his resignation will clear the air."

ASK The TIMES

Q. Please tell me the average temperature and rainfall per month for a year for Victoria.

A. According to Dominion weather office records, average temperatures by month over the past 57 years were: Jan. 39, Feb. 41, March 44, April 49, May 53, June 57, July 60, Aug. 60, Sept. 57, Oct. 51, Nov. 45, Dec. 41. Full year 50.

Over the past 68 years, rainfall (in inches): Jan. 4.49, Feb. 3.13, March 2.18, April 1.21, May .95, June .90, July .48, Aug. .66, Sept. 1.39, Oct. 2.80, Nov. 4.12, Dec. 4.79. Full year 27.10.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Question and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

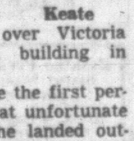
PUBLISHER'S NOTEBOOK

By STUART KEATE

That First Crash

An interesting letter, all the way from Dartmouth Hill, near London:



Keate

"I have received recently, from a friend in Victoria, copies of the Centennial edition of the Times and an article on aviation.

"The article mentions that the first airplane to fly over Victoria crashed on a building in Chinatown.

"I claim to be the first person to greet that unfortunate aviator when he landed outside the city on the morning of his fatal flight.

"I was 8 years old at the time and lived in a shack at the edge of a field in Oak Bay.

"Early one morning while dressing I heard a strange sound and ran out of the shack in my vest and underpanted to investigate.

* * *

"The noise was made by a flying machine skimming over the grass. It landed a short distance away, close to the beach.

"Still in my underwear, I ran over the field and watched the pilot climb out of his wicker-basket seat.

"Later in the morning the pilot's wife arrived and the two of them set to work converting the machine into a seaplane by removing the wheels and fitting two floats. The pilot was going to demonstrate his plane over the city and land in the harbor.

* * *

"Early in the evening the work was completed and we all helped drag the machine down to the beach for launching.

"By this time a strong breeze had sprung up, and as it was in the right direction for the take-off the pilot had no need to manoeuvre and took his plane into the air, straight off the beach.

"I last saw the machine as a speck in the sky over Oak Bay.

"A few minutes later it had crashed. Yours faithfully,

"GEOFFREY LLOYD."

CHURCH WINDOW DEDICATED BY ARCHBISHOP

QUALICUM BEACH — A stained glass memorial window in St. Mark's Church here was dedicated by Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Victoria, Archbishop of British Columbia.

He was introduced by Rev. S. Williams, DD, rector of the church, who said the project had been started only 18 months ago, but that funds were sufficient to pay all expenses and leave a small surplus.

City Urged to Pay Church's Tax Debt

Finance committee Thursday recommended that city council give Emmanuel Baptist Church a grant of about $735 to pay its back taxes.

The recommendation was made on compassionate grounds because if the church's 1956 and 1957 taxes remain unpaid it would eventually be taken over by the city.

The church was eligible for tax exemption but failed to go through the qualifying procedures to obtain it for the two years. It requested the grant because it cannot afford to pay the due amount.

Total owed is about $1,100 but finance committee decided the church should be responsible for the taxes for school purposes, about one-third the amount.

Managing Editor 'Klug' Crawford Retires in Brandon

BRANDON (CP)—The retirement of H. L. "Krug" Crawford as managing editor of the Brandon Daily Sun was announced Friday by E. C. Whitehead, publisher and chairman of the board.

Mr. Crawford, a member of the Sun staff since 1919, will remain as an associate editor.

Mr. Whitehead also announced appointment of James E. Reid as managing editor. Mr. Reid joined the Sun in 1946, was appointed sports editor the following year and news editor two years ago.

Lindsay Crysler, formerly of Winnipeg and Saskatoon, is appointed news editor to succeed Mr. Reid, and Lubor Zink, formerly of Toronto and Prague, Czechoslovakia, is appointed chief editorial writer.

AVM Walter Kennedy Of Air Council Dies

OTTAWA (CP) — Air Vice-Marshal Walter E. Kennedy, 44, of Vancouver, RCAF comptroller, died suddenly at his home here today.

Cause of death was not immediately known but RCAF officers said Air Vice-Marshal Kennedy apparently was stricken with a heart seizure.

As comptroller of the RCAF since 1955, Air Vice-Marshal Kennedy was a member of the Air Council, the five-man body which determines air force policy.

Born in Vancouver Dec. 27, 1913, Air Vice-Marshal Kennedy was graduated from the University of British Columbia with a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering and was commissioned as a pilot officer in the RCAF in 1935.

He played a key part in the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan during the Second World War and commanded flying training schools at Claresholm and MacLeod in Alberta.

He became deputy chief of technical services in 1948 and chief staff officer of Air Material Command in 1950. He was named assistant vice-chief of the air staff in 1952.

Church Takes Middle Ground Race Strife

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Representative pastors and laymen of the Episcopal Church this week rejected a call by their bishops for an end to racial separation and endorsed a milder approach to the problem.

However, they also turned down overwhelmingly a statement saying "some degree of segregation is compatible" with Christian beliefs.

In a stormy session of the House of Deputies at the church's triennial general convention, Virginia churchmen led a winning drive for a resolution described as taking a middle ground on the racial issue.

John Paul Causey of West Point, Va., who introduced the resolution, said it "represents a meeting ground on which all people of the church . . . can stand united, rather than divided."

It urges all people "to work together, in charity and forbearance, toward the establishment without racial discrimination of full opportunities in fields such as education, housing, employment and public accommodations."

Final Tribute To Pope Sunday

VATICAN CITY (AP)—World diplomats gathered in Rome today for a final tribute to Pope Pius XII while cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church made plans to bury one of their number.

Celso Cardinal Constantini died Friday night of heart ailure just before he was to leave hospital to participate in election of a new pope. His death cut to 52 the number of cardinals expected to begin voting next Saturday for the next pontiff.

The cardinals already in the Vatican for the conclave were expected to arrange funeral services for the 82-year-old Italian cardinal for next week, after the nine-day mourning period for Pius XII ends.

MOURNING ENDS SUNDAY

The papal mourning will conclude Sunday with a requiem mass in St. Peter's Basilica to be attended by high-ranking representatives of many lands.

West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Bretano was to arrive today.

Already in Rome are President Sean T. O'Kelly of Ireland, Premier Joseph Bech of Luxembourg and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France.

The Communist newspaper in Rome suggested the foreign officials would negotiate over who would be the next pope, with world political considerations exerting considerable influence on the cardinals.

COMMUNISTS SILENT

Communist papers in predominately Catholic countries of Western Europe have been circumspect in discussing the death of Pius XII on Oct. 9 and the choice of a successor. But today the Rome paper L'Unita charged:

"The Catholic powers — and today those which are not Catholic starting with the United States—exercise with all discretion possible, but with full knowledge of the importance of the post at stake, their influence to favor or oppose this cardinal or that one."

L'Unita's comment followed the charge of Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, that government leaders were coming to Rome not so much to participate in the pope's funeral as to influence the election of his successor.

Iceland's population of about 160,000 are mainly descendants of Norsemen who first settled there in the 9th century.

CANADA TOLD BEWARE RACE 'WICKEDNESS'

TORONTO (UPI)—Toronto Rabbi Abraham Feinberg spoke out Friday night against the danger of letting racial hatreds seep into the minds of Canadians.

If hatred of people for the color of their skin were allowed to grow our society would crumble," he said.

"Such racial wickedness would undermine the basic brotherhood ideal of Judaism and Christianity."

He told his congregation that feelings of racial prejudice existed in Canada and in Toronto.

"It differs from the South in degree, but not in kind."

Douks Fear Pressure

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — Sons of Freedom Doukhobors have told the federal government they fear pressure will be applied to get them out of the country after next Tuesday, deadline for signing up for a proposed migration to Russia.

The sect released Friday the text of a telegram sent earlier this week to Justice Minister Fulton.

"Kindly advise what status or connection Dr. C. H. Wright's committee for Canadian Doukhobor affairs has with the department of justice of Canada and the attorney-general of British Columbia re the proposed Doukhobor migration to Russia," the telegram said.

"Nick T. Oglow, a member of said committee, told press representatives: 'The whole situation rests with the Russian government as to whether these people would be accepted. Until the Soviet has indicated its position, we can't bring any pressure.'

"This indicates that a campaign of 'pressure' is already prepared for Doukhobors who will reveal their desire to migrate by filing the signed forms.

"Is that government policy, or is it merely a continuation of local vigilante undertaking?"

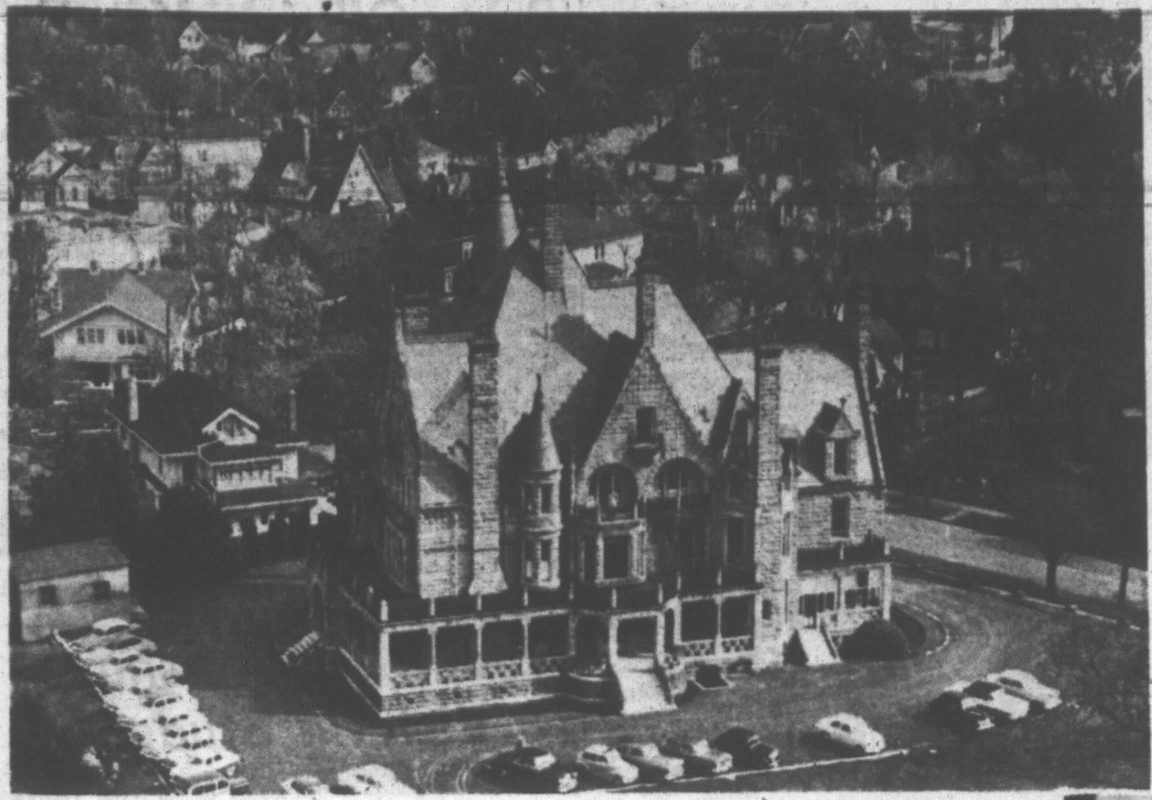
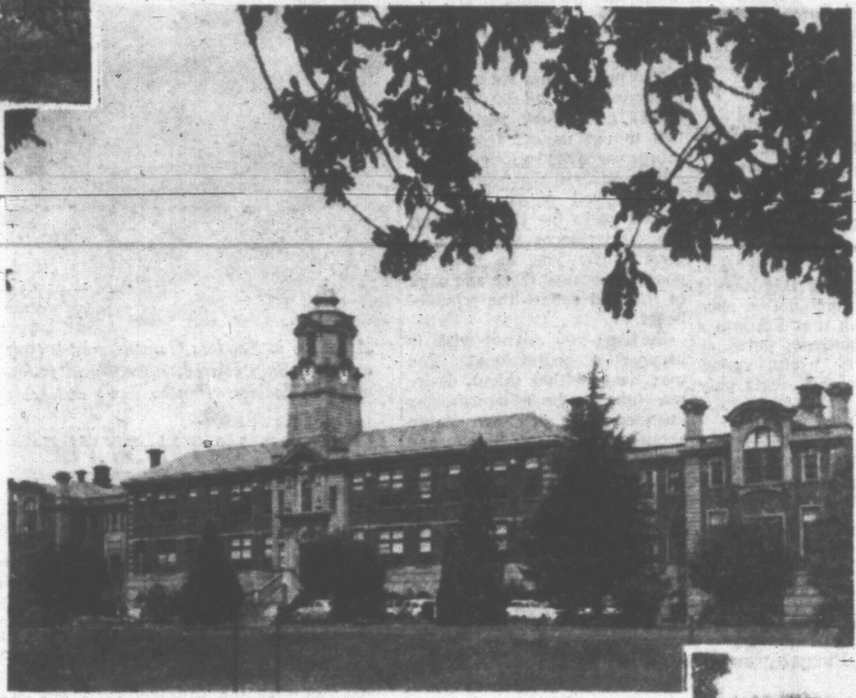
Centennial Homecoming

This evening, Victoria College opens its doors to welcome back 500 ex-students of the college for centennial home-coming weekend. Former students of the first college, Victoria Arts College in 1903, those who studied in Craigdarroch Castle, and the more recent scholars of Victoria College up near Mt. Tolmie, will reunite at the college to reminisce, laugh and sing about the good old days at Victoria College!



Victoria College was housed in beautiful, historic Craigdarroch Castle from 1921 until 1946. It saw a steady stream of scholars in those 26 years, but it was not until the post-war influx of veterans over-strained the much-loved Castle on Joan Crescent that the college moved to its present campus on Richmond Road. (Photo by Bill Halkett.)



The present Victoria College is situated on a wide sweep of land boasting famous lawns, trees and flower beds, on the corner of Richmond and Lansdowne Roads. It's in these buildings that the Provincial Normal School, for training of teachers, was housed with the first and second-year arts classrooms of the college. In 1956, the two were incorporated as the Victoria section of the new College of Education. (Photo by Bill Halkett.)

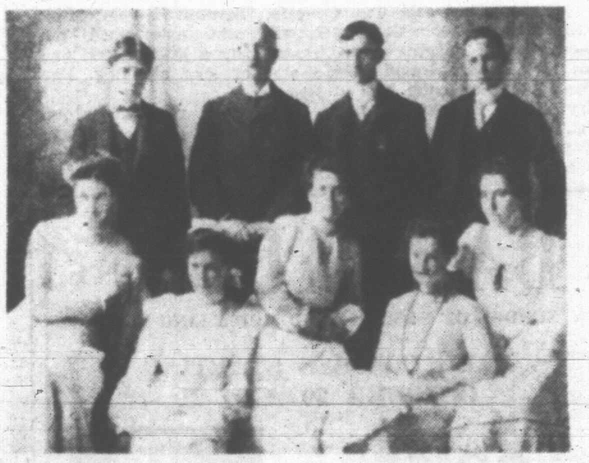
A special guest at this evening's homecoming at Victoria College will be Mrs. H. E. Young, the former Miss Rosalind Watson, instructor of the first Victoria College class in 1903. Mrs. Young, pictured at her home on Oliver Street, was teacher of English and history and a keen sponsor of campus athletics while at the college, 55 years ago. Mrs. Young has been active in furthering education all her life. She was responsible for the writing of a geography on British Columbia, was the first president of the University Women's Club, and one of the organizers of the University Extension Movement. (Photo by Robin Clarke.)



Pictured here are the first Victoria College students. It is the class of 1903, which was established in the little building next to the first Victoria High School. The group included from left back, Clifford Rogers, Dr. E. B. Paul, principal; Frederic G. C. Wood and Joseph B. Clearihue. At front from left, Sara Spencer, Kate Pottinger, Miss Rosalind Watson (Mrs. H. E. Young) instructor; Lilian Mowat and Josephine Wollaston. A remark made recently by one of the students of this class was: "We were the closest and happiest class imaginable!"

Those Wee China Tureens Have So-o-o Many Uses!

By PENNY SAVER

Perfect to hold hot sauces, little television dinners, dips for cocktail parties or dressings at dinner are these attractive wee tureens. The two china bowls are complete with lids and can be set into their own caddy tray for simple passing around. Tureens are priced at $1.65 a set.

* * *

A "must" in any household is an ice bowl. The ones I found today are gaily hand painted and pretty enough for the most formal of parties! Brass tongs come with the bowls ... for what is an ice bowl without tongs? They're selling at $4.95 a set.

* * *

Kiddies, don't! Don't ride your bicycles at night without a light somewhere on the machine. You're weekly allowances will surely stretch this far to buy a neat light with batteries for 69 cents!

* * *

For bedroom, lounge, den or just anywhere in the house, these bright-colored scatter pillows are delightful!

I like the idea of placing the children around on the corduroy pillows at television-watching time ... the little pouffs priced at $2.25 and up are soft and comfortable!

* * *

Travellers, both men and women will go for this item, I know! It's a combination shoe horn and brush that fits into a corner of a suitcase, purse or pocket. The useful good-grooming accessory costs only 29 cents!

PIONEERS WED 73 YEARS

Seventy-three years of marriage were celebrated quietly by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jordan, pioneer British Columbians, at their home in Burnaby recently.

They were married in Ontario, and came to Vancouver Island in 1892, where Mr. Jordan was foreman with the Royal Engineers who were building fortifications in Victoria and Esquimalt.

Mr. Jordan started work at the age of seven, and stopped only at the age of 82, when he was injured. Both he and his wife are 94, and were presented to Princess Margaret in July.

In Burnaby for the quiet celebration marking the anniversary were Mr. and Mrs. George W. Robinson of Victoria. Mr. Robinson is a nephew of the couple.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Most women, if they are real women, at some times dramatize themselves. It is a good healthy habit if it is not taken too far.

Woman is naturally creative. That is her main mission in life. If this creative urge is stifled by no children, it is especially difficult. But even if she has children, she was, from the first, imbued with the need for creativeness and self-expression.

We all have at some time dreamed of ourselves in some dramatic role. Perhaps we wrung tears from an audience or were famous in one of the arts, or maybe we just dressed up our daily life with a little imagination.

Susceptibility to the arts is a natural part of every woman. Our emotions and glandular systems are pleasantly stimulated by music, literature, the dance, the theatre and art. We should expose ourselves to these revitalizing experiences as often as possible.

Too many times we allow the hecticness of daily happenstance and heavy responsibilities to cut us off from these things we loved so long ago and still would if we would only lift the veil of routine. We should go to the theatre, enjoy the masterpieces and listen to good music just as often as possible because these add color to life and soothe the troubled heart.

Perhaps you do not wish to become a professional. You may have neither talent, desire nor time to be a dancer, for instance, but you can dance about your own home and swing and sway with resulting relaxation of the body and mind. Sometimes use your radio or record player and give yourself over to rhythm. This has a fundamental pull for everyone.

Do this exercise to music. Stand with your left side toward the wall and place your left hand on the wall. Swing your right arm back as you raise your right leg forward (stiff knee). Now swing your right arm forward as your right leg swings backward. Continue, with the arm moving in the opposite direction from the leg.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Grace and Charm" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 57 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DEAR ABBY ...

He Knew What He Was Doing!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: This married woman across the street won't leave my husband alone. My husband put a new roof on our house and that nervy girl was up there on the roof with him every day for three days, handing him the nails. The first day I never said a word, but the second day I told my husband to tell her to get off the roof and stay home because it looked terrible for the neighbors. He said she wasn't hurting anything and he didn't mind if she wanted to hand him the nails. They are the talk of the neighborhood and I am very mad at him for not telling her to stay home. Was my husband at fault or was she?

PLENTY MAD.

DEAR PLENTY: It takes two to tango, and the roof is a pretty dangerous place to do it. Your husband should have told the woman to stay at home.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Last Sunday at the pool my daughter came out of the water, changed clothes and wrung her bathing suit out on her father's back while he was sleeping. He grabbed her and turned her over his knee and gave her a spanking. Our daughter is 17 and I think she is too grown up to be spanked in this fashion. I would appreciate your thinking on the subject.

MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: A childish prank deserves a reprimand for a child. (She's lucky he didn't wring her neck).

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law lives in a distant city (thank heavens!) and when she learned we were expecting our third child in six years this is what she wrote: "What is the matter with you crazy kids? How do you think you are going to support the size family you are going in for?" I got so mad I almost had a miscarriage. We have never asked her to help us support our family and I intend to have at least six children. My husband said she didn't mean anything by it. Should I write her a letter and give her a piece of my mind or should I ignore her?

VERY UPSET.

DEAR VERY: Giving your mother-in-law a piece of your mind won't bring peace to yours. Ignore her remarks.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 years old and am in high school. I like a boy but he doesn't like me. He liked me before I liked him, but when I started to like him he found out about it and didn't like me any more. Do you think I should quit liking him or is there a chance that if I quit liking him he will start liking me again?

LIKING HIM.

DEAR LIKING: You don't have to quit LIKING him—just quit letting other people (and him) know about it.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO LUIS THE ARTIST: If she wants to pose for you for money, that's her BUSINESS. If she'll pose for you for nothing, that's HER business.

A poncho in Pandora Carnival print is typical of the brightly colored, slightly mad fashions at Palm Springs. Poncho lining matches the brief bathing suit of gold, made in a drip-dry fabric. Casual cottons and cocktail ensembles are just as glamorous.

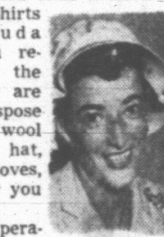
IN STEP WITH STYLE

By NONA DAMASKE

Sunshine and Swimming Pools Fine Life for Fashion Editor

PALM SPRINGS — Casually colorful is the theme of daytime dress in Palm Springs.

As you step off the plane and walk into the rambling, hacienda-like airport and see the sun-tanned staff dressed in open sport shirts and Bermuda shorts, you realize that the sooner you are able to dispose of your wool suit, felt hat, hose and gloves, the happier you will be.



Nona

The temperature at this season hovers around 90 degrees during the day, but with a swimming pool as standard equipment in every hotel, motel and home, it isn't hard to take!

Air-conditioning is as much a part of life here as is electric light. The desert nights are cool and still, and so all in all it is a very pleasant life for a lazy sun-worshipping vacationer like me.

Swimsuit for poolside, cotton Bermudas and shirt for town and sightseeing, and "flips" are standard apparel. The "flips" are just a rubber sole and a leather thong between the toes—their name I imagine comes from the flip-flop sound they make as they slap the heel at every step. Everyone wears them, from tots to oldsters.

Daytime sun-shielding hats are a real riot. Shapes, sizes and colors are unbelievable. In full swing at the moment is an attempt to promote the "Palm Springs hat" as an all-year attraction, instead of just during Desert Circus Week.

It's a unique headpiece—a straw cowboy-type, all bedecked with bows of silk ribbons and gay flowers—a summer-type Calgary Stetson.

Hilda Crawford, women's editor of The Desert Sun, was kind enough to arrange for me to attend a champagne fashion show at the Chi Chi Club, for women accompanying their husbands to the two-day Shrine convention.

Fashions were exactly the sort of clothes you would wear in this resort city. Swim suits, play clothes, casual cotton dresses and finally glamorous cocktail ensembles. Late-day clothes were especially exciting as they were, for the most part, quite high style, with the bubble and balloon skirt holding a very prominent place.

Seated at the table with Hildy Crawford and myself were Frank Bogert, the mayor of Palm Springs; Charles Farrell, star of that wonderful old movie, "Seventh Heaven"; Phil Harris, who entertained the guests with a little patter, and a star of long standing, Fay Bainter.

We were a very gay group and I do not know when I have enjoyed a luncheon fashion show so much.

On Friday some friends drove me to the Western Hills Hotel, where Desi Arnez is the genial host. He chatted with us and said how sorry he was that Lucy wasn't there to meet us. That same day we went all through Shields Date Gardens at Indio, Calif., and on down to Calexico, where we crossed over the border into Mexico.

More news next week—if I don't become too waterlogged to climb out of the pool!

Beau O'Brien Married In Morning Ceremony

A morning wedding was solemnized recently when Bernice (Beau) Lillian, youngest daughter of Mrs. M. O'Brien of Craigflower Road, exchanged marriage vows with Robert Raymond McNeil, youngest son of Mrs. O. Halfacre of Lumsden, Sask. The ceremony took place in Our Lady Queen of Peace Church, Esquimalt. Father L. MacLellan officiated.

Wearing a white brocaded gown in day length, the bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, W. J. O'Brien. The simply styled dress was fashioned with a high bateau neckline and long lily point sleeves. The full skirt extended from a princess line waist. A tiny bow bandeau held her chapel-length veil and her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls with matching earrings. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and white carnations.

A pink brocaded gown along the same lines as that worn by the bride, was worn by maid of honor, Miss Frances O'Brien, the bride's sister. The bodice had a bateau neckline and short sleeves. Her bow bandeau was en tone and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

Best man was Wesley L. Avison.

A two-tier wedding cake centred the bridal table at the luncheon reception at the home of the bride's mother.

W. J. O'Brien proposed the toast.

Leaving on a short wedding trip Up-Island, the bride topped her wedding ensemble with a black tweed coat. The newlyweds are making their home at 451 Superior Street.

Present Scholarships To Victoria Students

Three Victoria students were presented with Canadian Legion scholarships at an informal gathering held in the lower lounge of the Naval Veterans' Branch. Executive members of all branches of Victoria and district zone council were in attendance along with the students and their parents:

The Sir Percy Lake Memorial Scholarship was presented to Dennis J. Connor by Miss Jerry Mumford, ex-service women's representative. Mr. Connor is a second-year student at Victoria College and plans to pursue a career in nuclear physics. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Connor, 790 Rodgers Street.

Zone commander Bob Longridge presented two Provincial Command scholarships to Miss Heather R. Robson and Peter D. Wilkinson.

Miss Robson, a graduate of Oak Bay High School, entered Victoria College this year and plans to study medicine. She lives with her mother, Mrs. Ellen Robson, at 1025 Monterey Avenue.

Mr. Wilkinson graduated from Victoria High School and entered Victoria College enrolling in arts and science. He lives with his mother, Mrs. D. Wilkinson, at 970 Abbey Road.

Following the presentations refreshments were served by Victoria Ex-Service Women.

Executive Director Tells Of Work in Rural Korea

By JUDY NICHOLSON

Miss Williams is visiting in Victoria as a guest of the local YWCA.

Miss Viola Williams of Salisbury, England, has what she calls "the East bug."

It is understandable, too, for the young home economist has for the past three years, lived in Korea, where she was executive director of the Rural Training Project, now sponsored by Canada's YWCA.

This project was started by the World YWCA Mutual Service Committee.

Her duties in Korea, in accordance with YWCA objectives the world over, included working mainly among Korean teen-age girls, many of whom lost their families during the war. She was in charge of two farms in a rural area in Pusan where these girls learned agriculture and she was also head of a vocational school where the young women were taught different trades and where they learned to support their families as well as themselves.

"A hard task . . . after generations of sheltered existence," she says.

"Rehabilitating Korean women and girls is by no means easy," explains this interesting visitor.

"It requires care and understanding on the part of a director and her staff—which in my case was all Korean.

"We found the poor creatures in the most disgraceful condition, which included malnutrition, sickness and mental unhappiness."

Actually, this dynamic woman was no stranger to the Far East. During the Second World War, she was in Burma, with the welfare service of the British army.

"I imagine it was at that time that the 'bug' got me and, when this job with the YWCA in Korea came up, I was only too glad to take it . . . just to get back to an old familiar stamping ground!"

Work with the women's institutes is also Miss Williams' forte. After the war, she spent some time in Malaya as an institute welfare worker.

Miss Williams will not return to Korea immediately. She plans to travel across Canada to visit YWCA organizations that contributed to her work in Korea.

"I wish to meet all those people who gave so much, both physically and financially, to our Korean project. It is heartwarming to know they care for those in distress, even if they never see the conditions or really know the hopelessness in which these people live."

PLAN NOVEMBER WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hanslip announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Sharon, to Gene Errol Richardson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Richardson, all of Victoria. The marriage is to take place Friday, November 7 at 8 p.m. in Oak Bay United Church.

Fairfield United Church Choir Sings at Friday Night Wedding

The hymn, "The Lord Is My Shepherd" was sung by the church choir of which the bride and groom are members, at the wedding, Friday evening in Fairfield United Church, of Marjorie Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Keifer, and Michael James Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bennett.

Dr. H. K. Johnston officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

White chrysanthemums and shasta daisies decorated the church for the wedding. Mrs. R. Webster, sister of the bride, was organist and Ray Van Druten sang "Benediction" during signing of the register.

For her marriage, the attractive bride chose a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace over white satin. The fitted bodice was embroidered with sequins and pearls and featured lily point sleeves. The full, bouffant skirt was styled with layers of the matching lace. Her elbow-length veil was held by a white satin coronet studded with sequins and pearls, and her jewelry was a gold pendant and chain, gift of the groom. Talisman roses, stephanotis and lily of the valley were in the bridal bouquet.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Bridal attendants, Miss Frances Keifer and Miss Norah Bennett, wore similar sheath-style dresses of embroidered silk in flame coral and pale yellow, respectively. They had matching bandeaux and carried bouquets of white carnations centred with yellow rosebuds.

Best man was David Bennett and ushers were Stewart McIntosh and Rodney Webster.

The home of the bride's parents was scene of the reception.

Mother of the bride received guests wearing a dress in dawn pink lace. Mrs. Bennett, the groom's mother, wore a floral satin gown in brown and gold tones and her accessories were brown.

Rodney Webster proposed the toast to the bride. A three-tier cake centred the bridal table. Assisting in serving were Mrs. A. B. Hurdon, Port Arthur, Ont.; Mrs. R. Webster, Mrs. M. Youson and the Misses Betty Ann Sutherland, Pat McIvor, Donna Magrath, Carol Keifer and Mrs. N. Webster.

For a wedding trip to the mainland, the bride donned an avocado green suit with white bleached beaver collar. Her satin hat was en tone and she had brown accessories. Her corsage was gardenia surrounded by rose petals. The couple will live at 130 Linden Avenue.

Reception To Honor Volunteers

An awards reception honoring volunteer workers of the Cerebral Palsy Clinic has been arranged by the Women's Auxiliary, to be held next Thursday at 8.30 p.m. in Newstead Hall, 723 Fort St.

Guests of honor will be the 86 women who are at present doing volunteer work at the clinic.

Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett will present awards to the three women who have given well over 500 hours of service since the volunteer program was inaugurated, and to 34 others who have given over 200 hours of service.

Committee in charge of reception arrangements includes Mrs. A. Ashford, Mrs. H. Eng, Mrs. J. J. Feeley, Mrs. H. James and Mrs. H. C. Taylor.

At a meeting of the auxiliary held Wednesday evening it was announced that the fall rummage sale will be held at the CCF Hall, Nov. 13. Warm clothing and quality household items will be featured. Convener is Mrs. R. Southwell, EV 5-1132.

Mrs. R. T. Singleton reported that $235 had been raised at the Centennial Ball held recently in Club Sirocco.

Following the business meeting members worked on articles for the Christmas gift bazaar to be held in November.

Double Ring Ceremony In Centennial United

Centennial United Church was scene of a recent marriage between Hilda Dorothy, daughter of Mrs. A. G. Smith of Victoria and Edward Alexander Lock, Courtenay, and Mrs. I. Lock of this city.

Rev. Douglas B. Carr officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Organ music was played by Mrs. J. Wilmshurst, and soloist was Norman Tyrrell.

Entering the church on the arm of her brother, J. G. Smith, the bride wore a gown of white lace over satin, slightly en train. The bodice had lily-point sleeves. A pearl tiara held her chapel-length veil. She wore the groom's gift of black diamond pendant earrings and she carried a cascade of red roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. D. W. Mills was matron of honor wearing a floor-length dress of lace and net in orchid tone topped with a tiny jacket. She had a matching bandeau and carried a bouquet of pale yellow carnations. Miss Marion Dempster, bridesmaid, wore an aqua-toned lace dress and carried a cascade bouquet of carnations. Her headpiece was en tone.

Little Sandra Britton, as flower girl, wore an embossed yellow nylon frock, matching bandeau and carried a miniature bouquet of red roses, stephanotis and ivy. E. L. Roger was best man and ushers were Jack Britton and Kenneth Blagbourne.

A three-tier cake centred the bridal table at a reception in Centennial United Church hall. E. R. Hall proposed the toast to the bride.

Leaving on a wedding trip to the United States, the bride wore a red knitted suit with hat en tone. Her accessories were in black and she had an orchid corsage.

Newlyweds will make their home at 2680 Prior Street.

KNEES WILL SHOW BEFORE LONG

HOBOKEN, N.J. (UPI)—The head of one of the nation's major department stores predicted today that women will be wearing dresses that show the knee within two years.

Max Hess of Hess Bros. department store in Allentown, Pa., said that a five-week buying trip in Europe convinced him "the shorter dresses will be coming over here just like the chemise" in the next two years.

Victorian Wed in Penticton

Of interest in Victoria and Penticton was the recent marriage of Gertrude Grace, daughter of Van Rensselaer K. Dafoe, Penticton, to Thomas Fenton Garnons-Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert A. Garnons-Williams of this city.

St. Saviour's Anglican Church at Penticton was setting for the marriage, with Canon A. R. Eagles officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz-length gown of white satin. Styled along princess lines, the dress had a fitted bodice and scooped neckline, extending to a cowl effect at the back. Sleeves were three-quarter length. A Queen Anne cap held her chapel-length veil. Her only jewelry was a pair of pearl earrings. She carried a bouquet of roses, carnations and stephanotis.

Miss Marilyn Bent, maid of honor, wore a dress of leaf green taffeta in waltz length. She carried a bouquet of gold chrysanthemums and wore a matching floral headpiece. A gold taffeta gown was worn by the bridesmaid, Miss Dorothy Lynne Dafoe. Her head bandeau was of yellow chrysanthemums and the same flowers were in her bouquet.

Best man was Frank G. Garnons-Williams and ushers were Richard V. Garnons-Williams and Lysle B. Russell.

Harold Lupton was organist and Mrs. A. R. Eagles the soloist.

E. H. Cleland proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in Masonic Hall, Penticton.

Leaving on honeymoon in the Okanagan, the bride wore a jersey dress in coral shade. Her accessories were in beige tone and she topped the ensemble with a light blue coat and hat.

"Lizzie Lives Again"

Maurice Humber

EVERYONE is getting into the act, writing about their old Model T's . . . so here's my memory of the family flivver. The salesman delivered it to my Dad while he was down at the old Lemon, Gonnason Mill, on some business. The man said . . . "just push down on this pedal, pull down on the lever, take your foot off . . . & lettergo." Dad did this, but hadn't the faintest notion how he got all the way home to Oak Bay, where he jumped out, and never drove again. We took over from there. I said to Aubrey Walls, "let's see if we can make Seattle in this thing eh??" & Aubrey sed, "sure . . . and we'll take George McCann with us . . . he can fix anything." A fellow I knew in a garage gave us 4 used "Pathfinder" tires. We got on the Ferry at Sidney alright, but coming off was a horsepower of a different color. I gave "Liz" "full throttle," because it was low tide, and the ramp ahead, was almost straight up. We hit it wide open . . . & collapsed . . . busted the back axle. We were held up all day, & most of our capital . . . 16 bucks. It was pitch black when we hunted for a place to sleep, somewhere near Everett. We crawled under the car, and I sed to George, "does that sound like a lion to you??" In the drizzly dawn we found we had parked in a zoo. It started to pelt, & the roof leaked . . . then the wind howled, & carried away most of our top, so we could stand straight up, & rest our elbows on the ribs. Sixteen blow-outs & 3 days later we hit Seattle. It was getting harder to steer, because both front tires were stuffed with dead ferns & grass. We couldn't afford more oil, so the transmission got so hot it set the floor boards on fire. We pitched these in a passing garbage truck. It was real drafty now, the side curtains gone too. We were getting real hungry, so headed back, & all the way from Sidney, we never had any front tires at all . . . just rims. Never had any brakes either, just "reverse." I wobbled in our garage, forgetting this, & plowed right thru into Grandfather's chicken yard. His prize Leghorns flew every which way, while the last 2 "Pathfinders" exploded on the rear wheels. Lizzie, at last . . . WAS HOME.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

By JACK BEASTALL

Q. A friend has a plant in her garden which she calls a salvia, but it is blue instead or red. It comes up every year, but I have never before seen or heard of blue salvia. Can this name be correct?—Anon, Oak Bay.

A. Yes, indeed. There are many of our loveliest blue perennial flowers found among the salvias. The deepest blue salvia is Salvia patens, a perennial; S. farinacea is lavender-blue, and has been grown in Beacon Hill Park as an annual; S. pitcheri is sky-blue, perennial; sage and clary, two herbs, are also salvias and are purplish-blue.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Observe Simple Cautions For Successful Planting

By JACK BEASTALL

Since most of the planting work in the garden is done during the next few weeks there seems no better subject for this weekend.

Planting can be as complicated or simple as the gardener cares to make it, but success is more likely if certain precautionary measures and planting procedures are followed.

Jack

Remember that garden plants are outdoor plants and not house plants. When they are delivered to your home put them in a sheltered spot on damp soil, not in the basement or garage.

Planting should be undertaken immediately. If this is not possible see that the wrappings are thoroughly soaked with water because dry newspaper or dry sacking will rob the rootballs of the moisture needed by the plants.

In cases where planting will be delayed for more than 24 hours it is best to protect your investment by putting the plants into temporary holes in a vacant part of the garden.

AVOID EXPOSURE

When the roots are not in soil keep them covered with a pad of wet newspaper or a wet sack. Never allow a plant to lie on the soil with its roots exposed to light and air.

Most gardeners ask if peat moss should be used at planting time, and many plantsmen say "yes" without making reservations.

Straight peat moss is extremely acid and is good for plants which thrive in an acid soil, such as rhododendrons, azaleas and certain heathers, but to use it with lime-lovers (wallflowers, baby's breath, fruits) can be the beginning of trouble.

The so-called fortified peat products containing whale solubles are much safer to use on all plants excepting the acid-loving kinds. These products have added lime in some form to neutralize the natural acidity of the peat.

WET MOSS

Any peat moss or peat moss product must be completely moistened before it is added to the soil, otherwise it will take the moisture it needs from the plant and the surrounding soil. Many ornamental conifers and evergreens have died from drought through being planted into dry peat moss.

Always mix the peat moss or peat moss product with the soil and mix it thoroughly. At least 50 per cent soil should be present in the finished mixture.

We gardeners usually fail miserably when it comes to digging planting holes. We pay $3.50 for a plant and expect it to appreciate a 25-cent hole.

Most of the holes we dig are too narrow and too deep. In width, the hole should be three times the spread of the bare roots or three times the diameter of the root-ball.

When digging, the top six inches of good soil goes into one pile, and the lower soil to the required depth into another pile. Both piles may have compost, well rotted manure, or a peat product added.

WATER WELL

An important point to remember when filling-in is to put the good soil at the bottom and around the roots, and use the poorer soil for topping and levelling.

Water well when the hole is half filled regardless of recent rains.

Use only bonemeal as a fertilizer when planting in the fall, never a complete fertilizer nor organics high in available nitrogen.

All trees, especially dwarfed fruit trees and large shrubs, require stakes, until the roots are firmly anchored. Swaying in the wind will break the new rootlets as quickly as they are formed.

Drive the stakes before the plants are set into the holes.

The first home to be lit by Thomas Edison's incandescent bulbs was the boarding house of Mrs. Sarah Jordan in Menlo Park, N.J.

The first orange tree in the United States was grown from seed brought by the Spanish settlers to St. Augustine, Fla., in the 16th century.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q—How warm should I keep the house if I'm going to be away during a cold spell, to keep pipes from freezing?—P.A.

A—No lower than 55 degrees. Unless someone checks for you while you're gone, to see if furnace is working properly, best bet is to drain all outside pipes.

WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

Plant primulas of all kinds into flowering places, with wall flowers, daffodils and other spring bulbs.

Plant coniferous evergreen shrubs, such as cypresses, junipers and arbor-vittaes (thujas). Also the broad-leaved evergreens as pieris, aucuba and holly.

Cuttings of violas and pansies, and runners of violets may be rooted under glass now and planted out in spring.

Moving of peonies should be completed now.

Rhubarb plants may be put in, or old beds remade. Dig deeply, and add plenty of rotted compost or old manure.

Remove yellowing leaves promptly of brussels sprouts an other brassicas. This helps to prevent spread of diseases during wet weather.

Cut asparagus growth to ground level. Top dress bed with manure or compost.

Prepare for planting of fruit trees, berry fruits and roses.

Planting sites should be readied for the arrival of trees, shrubs and bulbs which may come from the nursery during wet weather. The job of putting them in will at least be straightforward then, even though messy.

Mexico Lifts Ban On Metals Exports

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The government Wednesday lifted a temporary ban on exports of lead and zinc to the United States.

The ban went into effect Oct. 1 until the government could fix quotas for shipment. The government said the quotas were needed to distribute equitably the U.S. cut of 20 per cent in foreign purchase of those metals.

AROUND THE WORLD

Wtih JOHN MANNING

University student John Manning of 3225 Ripon Rd., has taken a year off from classroom studies to "vagabond" around the world. The 21-year-old Victorian is writing his impressions of the places he is visiting and the things he is seeing. This is his fourteenth article.

AFGHANISTAN — In the Kyber Pass the goats were few in number, moving aimlessly as though with no hope of finding forage; their bells sounded muffled in the dryness of the air.

The sun came searching down into every crack and every corner and against every rock.

Under the shadow of a ledge a man sat watching the goats. In one hand he held a rifle—the butt of it in the dust and the barrel leaning against his shoulder. Across his chest were strung two bandoliers of ammunition. Even in the shadow, the cartridges gleamed.

I went by on the other side of the Pass and when he saw me he stood up quickly and took the rifle with both hands but kept the barrel downwards until I was gone from view.

There was a trail below the road. It had been used for centuries by the Arabs with their caravans. In later years the British soldiers came along and in the heat of it all they died from the bullets of desert tribesmen who did not wish them there.

* * *

Rising up like a gun sight out of the plains of West Pakistan, the Khyber Pass begins in a range of bare hills extending into the desert of Afghanistan.

Near where the trail reaches the summit on the eastern side, there is a large fort of the "Khyber Rifles" called Shagai. It is still occupied.

Along the upper ridge stood small blockhouses. Not once was I out of sight of one of these, for they command a sweeping view of the trail.

At the western end the pass widens out onto the desert, and there, if you are on foot, it can be dangerous. At night you make your camp, using no fire, for the tribes in that country know no laws but their own; it is a strange feeling to be alone, knowing that there are men about you somewhere in the stillness of the desert who may make the decision to kill you if they come upon you.

* * *

On the way I came upon an oasis. I had never seen one before and rested awhile to watch the Afghans as they came to the cold spring. Some small bushes grew near and provided a bit of shade. It was a scene that could have been centuries old.

I arrived in Kabul the evening before Independence Day. No rooms were to be had. So I camped out on the edge of town and in the morning walked back, passing a camp of Bedhouins, their skin tents pegged out. In front of one, two men were cleaning rifles. These weapons were long beautiful things.

The Russians, Americans and United Arab Republic had flown in troops to march in the parade. The people of the desert came, too, on foot, horseback and some on camels. One tribe was from the north near the Russian border and wore the same clothes as the cossacks.

During the parade, one of these tribesmen climbed off his horse, hitched his rifle up across his shoulder, to stand with arms folded, watching with obvious scorn the marching troops.

When the strange cigarette he smoked was finished, he stamped it into the dust and with one quick movement was back on the horse.

42 MILLION SAW THE SHOW

Brussels Fair Ends

BRUSSELS (AP)—The Brussels World Fair is closing its gates Sunday, having entertained 42,000,000 visitors in six months and two days.

After the curtain drops on the show, dismantling of the hundreds of buildings spread over the nearly 500 acres of parks will begin. Nothing will remain but the huge atomium with its nine shiny spheres linked by steel tubes which were the landmark of the fair.

The show included displays by 48 countries.

U.S. Tycoons Said 'Real' Art Buyers

LONDON (Reuters)—American millionaires Paul Mellon and Henry Ford were reported Friday to be the "real" buyers of four of seven Impressionist paintings auctioned here Wednesday night.

British newspapers say Mellon and Ford bought through American dealers, despite denials in New York Thursday.

Sale of the seven paintings at Sotheby's London's premier auctioneers, fetched a record for a single auction of £781,000.

New York dealer George Keller is reported to have paid £422,000 on behalf of Mellon, financier son of the late Andrew Mellon, one-time U.S. secretary of the treasury, for paintings by Cezanne and Manet.

Knoedler's, another firm of New York dealers, is reported to have paid £90,000 for a Cezanne canvas on behalf of Ford.

New Picture For 50 Cents

OTTAWA (CP)—A simplified design in the Canadian coat of arms will be used in the next issue of 50-cent pieces.

The official Canada Gazette announced Friday that the simplified coat of arms—which was changed several months ago—will appear on the reverse side of the coin.

No change is made in the provision that the face of the monarch appears on the "heads" side.

First coinage of the new 50s is expected around the start of 1959.

9 IN MEMORIAM

BROOKS—In loving memory of our son and brother, Larry Dale, who passed away October 18, 1957.

Gone is the face we loved so clear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear;
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember him who once was here,
And who, though absent, is just as clear.

—Ever remembered by his loving mother and father and sisters.

McCALL — David Moore McCall, passed away October 18, 1955.

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby

Dr. George Tucker of Ojai, Calif., sent me today's hand with the comment that it seemed to present considerable difficulty in their duplicate game and that most pairs stopped at four spades.

Opening lead—♣ K

He pointed out that either six spades or six hearts was a cinch and wondered how the hand should have been bid.

I have had a lot of fun with the hand. I wrote the North hand and South hand on separate pieces of paper and gave it to various good players to bid. Some reached the slam but all found difficulty handling the big two-suiter and the bad hand with the exact two cards needed by partner.

Eventually we did come up with a consensus of how the hand ought to be bid.

The two-spade opening and two no-trump response are easy enough. Then South should jump to four hearts. He has no interest in playing the hand at no-trump and wants to show his big two-suiter.

The jump to four hearts makes things very easy for North. He can clearly afford a five-heart bid, whereupon South should surely continue to the slam.

LET'S TALK ABOUT REMODELLING AND RUMPUS ROOMS

Maybe you have been thinking lately about new kitchen cabinets, or beautiful wood panelling in your living room, or maybe at last, starting on that rumpus room.

Building and remodelling is easy when you let Moore - Whittington help you. Just bring your measurements or sketches with you next time you drop in, and one of our friendly, well - informed salesmen will be happy to discuss your project with you. He will give you an estimate of the cost and show you all the many, many plywoods, wallboards, wood panellings, Arborites, Formicas, etc., we carry.

If you are not too sure what you want, you might ask for our FREE Remodelling booklets. These booklets are full of pictures and suggestions to make it easy for you to do the job yourself.

If you are looking for good buys, visit our "Bargain Alley" where you will find many items on sale at specially reduced prices. Here are a few:

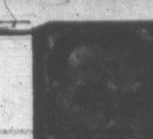
CARROLL RIGHTER'S
ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST



MONDAY, OCTOBER 20 1958

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—If you are not able to understand where certain financial experts, et al., fit into your immediate picture now, it is best to investigate or you get into most unfortunate situations. Do not decide anything until the morrow.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Avoid any semblance of argument with higher ups today, for there is no reason whatsoever why you should become involved. Reserve your judgment and you will not get into any difficulties that could really be costly in the long run.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Look into paper or other media, TV, etc., for the data you need ere you delve into that myriad of little jobs that await you. Later in the day you can then operate with maximum efficiency. Get in plenty of research and study.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)—You are able now to simply concentrate and think out what the real issues are between two warring factors, partners or organizations. Avoid getting involved in any way or you are in for much annoyance and anxiety. Be neutral.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Associate and close family tie are so far apart in experience and knowledge that it would be fool-hardy to expect any meeting of minds whatsoever. Clear the air with an understanding smile. Make the decisions yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Avoid dull-doldrum tasks today to the best of your ability. Incorporate or adopt some of the wonderful new efficiency measures that will make your lot easier. Convince associates to follow suit. Be clever and be admired.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Caviar tastes are excellent provided one has the wherewithal to afford them. Keep within your budget right now, and enjoy the less expensive luxuries. Proper thinking, however, can bring greater abundance in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—You arise this a.m. feeling that you should make some radical changes in both business and home life. A most unwise move. Analyze your present situation and personal life well instead and make slight adjustments where necessary.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—You have been dwelling on the same thoughts too long now, and this is not good for you. Branch out and increase success and happiness. Seek the proper people who will give you incentive and backing. Get shopping done, too.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Don't do anything unpredictable where real estate or source of income is concerned. Be conservative instead. Then concentrate on how to add to abundance through orthodox methods. See the right people and formulate plans.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—You are sorely tempted to express yourself in no uncertain terms with powerful individual in your life. This would be almost disastrous. Concentrate on self-advancement instead for the future. Forget credit affairs.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—A secret anxiety could cause you to make unwise moves today if you keep worrying incessantly. Read your newspaper and get a new slant on things. Then decide where and how you can branch out into something new and lucrative.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN MONDAY . . .

The impulsive child born Monday would do well to mull things over more before running helter-skelter into them. While the energies are great, the need for better judgment can best be realized by proper training, which becomes your earliest and greatest duty. And since sociability is a very pronounced part of your child's makeup, be sure he or she is taught to first be invited before stepping in.

PM's Party For Tour Numbers 28

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his wife will be accompanied by 26 others, including a 13-man RCAF crew, on their round-the-world trip this fall. His younger brother will also go.

The RCAF's big C-5 airliner will touch down in 14 countries during its journeyings from Oct. 28 to Dec. 19.

The prime minister will have a five-member secretariat, including two officials from the external affairs department. The staff will also include an air force group captain as conducting officer, an RCMP inspector as security officer, and a personal assistant.

Medical officer for the group will be a Progressive Conservative Commons member, Dr. Philip B. Rynard, MP for Simcoe East. Also making the trip will be the prime minister's younger brother, Elmer Diefenbaker of Saskatoon.

Final Hearing Here Monday Before Sloan

The Sloan Royal Commission inquiring into allegations that forest management licence holders have an "unfair advantage" over smaller operators in bidding for Crown timber, will hold its final hearing in the Charlotte Room of the Empress Hotel at 11 a.m. Monday.

Forestry advisor Gordon Sloan next month will hold hearings on whether granting a tree farm licence on June 15, 1954, to Empire Mills Ltd., was then and still is in the general public interest.

The hearing will open on Nov. 21 at 11 a.m. in the courthouse.

Churchill Rocket Soars Through Northern Lights

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—A Nike-Cajun rocket powered by solid fuel Friday night soared through a display of Northern Lights but its top altitude was not confirmed due to a failure of the telemetry system which relays information from the rocket to ground receivers.

It was estimated that the rocket—the 58th fired here as Canadian and United States scientists continued fall experiments in connection with the International Geophysical Year—reached an altitude of about 100 miles.

Scientists said it was possible that one of the rocket antennas was torn off when the second stage of the rocket fired off.

Good Drilling Winter In 'Peace'—Kiernan

Petroleum and natural gas production in British Columbia may be expanded through explorations this winter, B.C. Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said Thursday.

"It looks like a good winter for drilling in the Peace River country," he said.

Recent development in the industry is the highlight of the mines department annual report just issued, he added.

18 WELLS

By the end of 1956, when petroleum production began, 10 wells were producing. By the end of 1957 there were 18 wells in production within 40 miles of Fort St. John.

Before the end of October, natural gas production was for use only in Fort St. John. But by November, Westcoast Transmission's pipeline to Vancouver and the U.S. was in service.

Mr. Kiernan said production is now sufficient to supply Greater Vancouver, way points on the pipeline and answer the export demand.

ON FRASER DELTA

The report states that although most activity had been in northern B.C., drilling was done at two sites on the Fraser River delta, and a well was started on Saturna Island.

"Applications for permits indicate interest in several parts of British Columbia, including renewed interest in the Queen Charlotte Islands.

"Substantial areas are held under permit or lease in the Fernie area, and much exploratory work has been done there."

$20,000 ALMOND HIJACKERS REALLY WANTED COFFEE BEANS

NEW YORK (AP)—Two gunmen seized a truck driver aboard a ferry Friday, hijacked his $20,000 cargo of almonds and held him captive for several hours before releasing him in New Jersey. The truck, contents apparently intact, later was found in Manhattan. Police said the hijackers evidently thought the big truck contained coffee beans, not nuts.

$206,477 Paid To Jobless Here

Layoffs from local shipyards are again blamed for an increase in the number of men out of work, in a report issued by the Victoria office of the National Employment Service.

But officials say present total of 2,361 unemployed men is the lowest recorded since November last year.

WOMEN DOWN

Meanwhile, the situation has improved in the women's division, with number of out-of-work dropping from 1,272 to 1,258 during the past week.

The NES office here reports that $2,481,575 was paid out in unemployment insurance benefits in the Pacific region (B.C. and the Yukon) during September.

Victoria drew $206,477 of this money.

Meanwhile, the Greater Victoria Winter Employment Committee announced Friday that the Victoria Senior Citizens' Housing Society has decided to start its $100,000 housing project immediately as its contribution to the local anti-unemployment campaign.

The project, to be located on Styles Street, is hailed by committee officials as a "notable effort" in the current campaign to stimulate winter work and, therefore, employment.

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

PHILADELPHIA — Bristol Township Constable Raymond Fate insisted the prisoner was his.

"No, he's mine," replied detective William Lovejoy of the Philadelphia police.

"Hey, the handcuffs are too tight," complained Dominic Santilli, arrested here Friday on a charge of larceny by trick in adjacent Bucks County.

Lovejoy grabbed constable, prisoner, cuffs and all and put them in a cell.

In court, a manual proved the constable was correct in demanding his prisoner. As he left city hall in somewhat of a huff, his prisoner was heard to remark:

"Hey, the handcuffs are too tight."

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — A sign in the lobby of the Hotel Onondaga announcing Friday night's meeting of the Empire State Typographical Conference reads:

"Typgraphical conference —roof garden."

MILWAUKEE—Mikhail A. Menshikov, Russian ambassador to the United States, had some kind words for the Milwaukee Braves Friday.

"I've heard a lot about the Braves," Menshikov said with a smile as he arrived for a speech. "It is a famous football team."

Someone suggested that the game was baseball.

Menshikov amended his compliment at once.

LANSING, Mich. — Armed with a blow torch, Frank McNamara launched a flamethrower attack on bugs in a tree near his front porch. Firemen kept fire from destroying McNamara's house, but were unable to save the porch.

KLAGENFURT, Austria — A swallow that missed last month's annual migration flight to warmer regions left here Friday bound for the south—by train.

The bird was found on the roof of a house in danger of freezing to death. It was handed over to a local policeman who took it to the railway station, where it was put on the first train for Rome.

Bombing Arrest

ATLANTA (AP) — Police today arrested the last of five men charged with bombing a Jewish temple here. Richard Bolling, 25, described as a central figure in the case, offered no resistance.

Storms Hit Europe

Fair Ground Project For Colwood Launched

Architect Named To Draw Up Preliminary Plans

Plans for a huge fair, horse racing and sports centre at the old Colwood race track grounds moved forward another step at a meeting of the B.C. Agricultural Association Friday night.

Charles Craig, Victoria architect, was commissioned to draw up preliminary sketches for the type of buildings needed for a Class A fair at the 140-acre property which is under lease to the association. They are to be submitted by Nov. 12.

The program, envisioning an expenditure of around $1,000,000, would be financed through government grants for the fair, the leasing of horse-racing and other concessions.

PNE TALKS

Mr. Craig is in Vancouver discussing basic requirements for the project with officials of the Pacific National Exhibition.

The association leased the site of the former Colwood army camp from the department of national defence last June.

Two groups have shown interest in establishing sprint and possibly harness racing on the site, which was formerly used by the Victoria Track Racing Association and the Colwood Park Racing Association.

Guarantees of pari-mutuel operations have been assured.

Objective is a modern operation in keeping with the stature of a class "A" fair comparable to those in Vancouver, Toronto, Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton.

NEW WORK

Although in a state of some decay, not having been used since 1930, the existing track is expected to be reconditioned.

The fair would be the first of its class opened on the Island since the 1938 BCAA Fair at Willows.

Although largely inactive since that time, the BCAA has continued in good standing with the registrar of companies and its charter, dating back to 1872, remains valid and active.

ACCESSIBLE

The fair ground site is six miles from the city centre, and is accessible from all directions with two major highways and two railroads adjacent to them.

There are also numerous motels near at hand.

Future plans call for landscaping of the property, with possible erection of facilities to accommodate baseball, football, basketball, curling, hockey and theatricals.

Stipulated a non-profit making organization under their charter from the federal government, the B.C. Agricultural Association receives annual statutory grants from that body and from the provincial government for maintenance of a fair.

NURSE RESULTS ON PAGE 17

Lists of graduates from the two schools of nursing in Victoria—at Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals—and the names of Vancouver Islanders graduating from other nursing institutions, are carried on page 17 of today's Times.

Bribe Trial Resumes On Monday

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia's longest and most celebrated criminal Assize Court trial resumes here Oct. 20 after a juror's illness forced a six-week adjournment.

Its central figure is Robert Sommers, 47-year-old MLA for Rossland-Trail, who was minister of lands and forests in the Social Credit government of Premier Bennett until his resignation in 1956. He and three timber executives and four firms are charged with bribery and conspiracy.

The case has been before Assize Court Justice J. O. Wilson and a jury of nine men and three women since May 1.

It is expected that on its resumption for its 66th actual sitting day—the previous record was 43 days—the trial will take at least another two weeks.

The case is unique in the province not only for its length but for the number of adjournments and technical points of law, raised mostly by the six defence lawyers.

Sommers' lawyer Angelo Branca was about to address the jury and wind up the overall defence case on the 65th day of the trial Sept. 4 when a woman juror became ill.

The case may go to the jury sometime early in November.

Russ Nuclear Blast

TOKYO, Sunday (AP)—The Tokyo meteorological station today announced detecting a new Soviet nuclear blast that may have been the biggest set off since Russia resumed testing on Sept. 30.

WORLD'S MOST POWERFUL

Giant Bomber Built by Boeing

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — The most powerful airplane in the world—a global bomber that carries two guided missiles and several nuclear bombs—makes its maiden flight next week.

The air force disclosed today that the B-52G, with vastly greater range and punch than earlier B-52s, will enter Strategic Air Command squadrons "early next year."

Built here by Boeing Airplane Co., the eight-engine B-52G will carry two "Hound Dog" missiles that can be launched hundreds of miles from heavily defended targets.

With a guidance system that enemy radio or radar cannot jam, the supersonic missile is "all but impossible to stop," the air force said.

Armed also with "a selection of nuclear weapons" in its giant bomb-bay, the 650-mile-an-hour B-52G will be able to "destroy several targets literally thousands of miles apart on a single mission," the service added.

The plane poised for its first flight here is a 225-ton monster with enough fuel in its 185-foot wing to drive it more than 8,000 miles. This is 25 per cent further than earlier B-52s could go and makes the "G" a truly intercontinental jet bomber.

With a single in-flight refueling from a jet tanker, it can fly more than 10,000 miles.

U.K. Ready To Pull Out From Jordan

LONDON (Reuters) — The withdrawal of British troops from Jordan will start next Monday, the Defence Ministry said today.

It said movement of personnel and stores from Amman to the port of Aqaba already has started.

About 3,000 British troops moved into Jordan at the request of King Hussein following the Iraq coup July 14.

Today's defence ministry announcement said the withdrawal should be completed by the middle of November.

The troops will be transported to Cyprus and Kenya.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United Nations will help the British get their troops out of Jordan, secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold said today.

He announced that the UN will aid with ground control of British transport planes flying paratroops from Jordan to Cyprus over Syria and Lebanon.

A Jordanian official earlier said that within the next week the United Arab Republic would lift its air and ground blockade of Jordan to help speed the British withdrawal.

PERSONALITY CLASH DESCRIBED BY MONTY

How the strong personalities of "Monty" and "Ike" clashed after D-Day is told in the issue of WEEKEND magazine distributed with this issue of The Times.

In the second instalment of his own story, Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery picks up the thread of war in December, 1943, tells how D-Day was settled upon—and of British-U.S. differences which followed.

2-DAY NIGHTMARE

He Prayed In Icy Sea

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Ferndale, Wash., fisherman was pulled from the sea Friday by the British freighter Pacific Stronghold following a nightmarish two days in which his boat broke down and he was forced to swim for his life.

Raymond Hong, about 20, was picked up by the 11,300-ton freighter off Point Roberts, south of here, after he drifted and prayed for three hours, thrashing the icy waters to keep afloat.

His struggle for survival began Wednesday when his small gillnetter, loaded with fish, broke down in dank grey fog a few miles off Point Roberts.

Trying to attract attention, he fell overboard, but managed to pull himself aboard again.

But the boat began to fill with water, and finally settled to her gunwales.

Friday morning he found himself swimming, alone, in a cold, silent sea. It was then that the Pacific Stranghold, bound to Vancouver from Bellingham, Wash., spied him and went to his aid.

They gave him clothing, food, and a warm cabin.

He was taken to the United States consulate and provided with bus fare and pocket money to return home.

Storm-Tossed Tug Rescued Off Nanaimo

Two tugs and a U.S. Coast Guard cutter teamed up to save a third tug and its three crew members in a sudden storm just after midnight.

The mishap occurred off Ballenas Island, about 18 miles north of Nanaimo.

The 40-foot tug Nanaimo Brave had left Jervis Inlet on the mainland 24 hours previously with a tow of logs and was making for Nanaimo when the storm came up.

She cast her tow loose at about 12.30 a.m., but ran into extremely heavy seas and took on water faster than her pumps could clear it. When the pumps failed altogether she radioed for assistance.

Air-Sea Rescue dispatched the cutter White Holly and the Vancouver Tugboat Co. tug Le Mars to her aid. The cutter made a lee while Nanaimo Brave's. Captain Fred Wicks and mate Gordon McNeil of Nanaimo, and deckhand Robert London of Vancouver, leaped to safety on Le Mars at 1.45 a.m.

Meanwhile, the tug Broughton Straits, a sister ship of the Brave in the Nanaimo Towing Limited fleet put a line on the Brave, towed her to shelter at North West Bay, then pumped her dry.

Company manager Ian MacLeod said in Nanaimo today the Brave would be towed to Nanaimo when the weather is favorable.

"It was a sudden and unexpected storm," he said. "We wouldn't have dared tow logs across Georgia Strait unless we were pretty sure it was going to be dead calm."

Scottish XI In Shutout Soccer Win

(SCORES ON PAGE TWO)

LONDON (Reuters) — Scotland's international team, unbeaten on Welsh soil in 20 years, kept its record intact today with a 3-0 victory over Wales that gave the Scots an early-season lead in the four-team United Kingdom inter-sectional competition.

England and Ireland, the two other international teams, played to a 3-3 tie in their first games of the season and are tied for second place, one point behind Scotland.

In league play today, Bolton Wanderers opened up a two-point lead in the First Division with a 4-0 home victory over Blackpool. The Wanderers, winners of the Football Association Cup last year, had been in a tie with Preston North End for the lead before today's games but Preston bowed to Newcastle United 4-3.

Arsenal, Wolverhampton and Luton Town all took advantage of Preston's loss to pull into a points-tie for second place with the North-Enders, but Arsenal had the best goal average. The Wolves, last year's league champions, played to a 1-1 tie at Arsenal and Luton Town edged Chelsea 2-1.

U.S. WRITER'S VIEW ON CHINA

What It's Like To Be 'Enemy'

This is the second in a series of articles by special NEA correspondent John Strohm on his tour of Communist China.

By JOHN STROHM

NEW YORK—What of the Red Chinese attitude toward John Strohm, the only American correspondent with both U.S. and Chinese permission to travel in China?

Amazement, first. For here was the mortal enemy they were ranting about, calmly taking pictures of their steel plants, their farms and their militia.

Curiosity, too. I was a crowd-stopper wherever I went. I must say that my ego dropped when I found out that one group of school children who stood up and clapped their hands when I entered the classroom thought I was a Russian.

In a few spots the searing blast of hatred continually directed toward the U.S. licked at me personally. A cartoon of protest was drawn of me and placed in my hired automobile.

Strohm

Once while I was being shown through a farm implement repair shop by the vice-director of one of the new communes, a belligerent worker pushed toward me and shouted, "Get out! Get out!"

On another occasion I was surrounded and jostled by students who were serving the state by running a small blast furnace.

Scarcely anyone, once my identity as an American was established, missed an opportunity to lecture me severely about American imperialism and the validity of Red China's aims. An engineer claimed he once had seen U.S. soldiers rape girls in Peiping. In Shanghai, I was conducted through a street memorable as the scene where a drunken GI allegedly killed a pedicab driver.

"This is not a happy time for you to be here," was the understatement of a factory manager in Nanking.

10 MISSING IN SUBMERGED RADAR PLANE

ARGENTIA, Nfld. (CP) — One man is known dead and 10 others are missing with little hope for their survival following the crash into Placentia Bay early today of a huge U.S. Navy radar patrol plane.

Eighteen of the 29 men aboard the Super Constellation were rescued.

A U.S. Navy officer declined to comment on the possibility the 10 men could live inside the submerged plane, a half-mile offshore. The plane's wing tip was visible above the water.

The spokesman said "the men are listed as missing." Rescue operations "are going on smoothly and quietly."

MECHANISM PROVES SUICIDE

Bomber Blew Himself Up

WICHITA, Kan (AP) — The bomb that blasted Forrest Don McCuiston to death in Wichita's big air terminal Friday was hand detonated, police reported today.

This, Police Chief Eugene Pond said, "seems to bear out the theory of suicide."

The bomb, hidden in a paper-wrapped package, exploded as the unemployed Tulsa, Okla., aircraft worker carried it along a passageway adjoining the terminal's lobby.

A Federal Bureau of Investigation explosives expert discovered that the home-made dynamite bomb had no timing device and had to be set off manually, Pond said. Until this was discovered, authorities had been puzzled by some angles of the strange tragedy.

Donna Folsom of Dallas, Tex., the plane's hostess, remembered the package.

"I remember the man taking it down from the luggage rack as he left," she recalled. "It was larger than a shoe box. He carried it under his arm."

During the flight, Miss Folsom said, McCuiston seemed preoccupied, and in Wichita, "when I said goodbye to him he didn't answer, but just walked on past."

OUT OF JOB

McCuiston was convicted last June 24 on four counts of income tax evasion and placed on three years probation.

At his home in Tulsa, Okla., his wife, Mary, said he had been out of a job about a month and had gone to Wichita to seek employment. His father was quoted as telling neighbors his son also was losing his eyesight and had heart trouble.

McCuiston was an aircraft worker by trade. Police said they were informed he also was an "inventor and tinkerer." Neighbors described him as a quiet man who stayed much in his own yard.

COLLEGE ASSEMBLY

Science, Arts Must March Together—Dean

Science must never be separated from the arts, Victoria College annual assembly was told Friday night.

Carleton University Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, James A. Gibson, warned the gathering against ignoring arts in favor of pure science.

"There is a vast difference between scientific application divorced from every other strand of learning, and comprehension and scientific knowledge which fits in with the general reaching out of all human knowledge.

"For let no one suppose that progress in scientific achievement can really be separated from the intellectual climate in which a whole society lives.

"Do we really think we can work prodigies in science and live in an intellectual ice-age as far as other areas of learning are concerned?"

ABUSE

It would be a real abuse of greatness, he told the assembly, if the "sense of identity with history leaves us intellectually untouched, or if it should evade us, elude us, and pass by on the other side."

He advocated simultaneous attention to the arts, including history, and to the fields of science currently being emphasized in education.

Backed by over 50 years of tradition the ceremony was held at Victoria High School attended by over 400 relatives and friends.

Among the dignitaries were Education Minister Leslie Petersen, Works Minister W. N. Chant, Conservative M.P. A. de B. McPhillips, provincial archivist Willard Ireland, and pastor of Metropolitan United Church, Dr. F. E. H. James.

Chairman of the college council, Judge J. B. Clearihue, introduced the speaker, commenting on his previous association with the college as a student.

HICKMAN REPORTS

Judge Clearihue also introduced Principal W. H. Hickman, who gave a short report on the progress made over the past year.

In his address, Judge Clearihue told the assembly a library and science buildings are needed urgently at the college to stave off the possibility of restricted registration next year.

"If we don't get these facilities, I don't know where we are going to put the students," he said.

He said negotiations are going on with the federal government for the purchase of land at Gordon Head and with the provincial government for building funds.

2,000 BY 1970

He estimated that by 1970 there will be 2,000 students in first and second years alone and this would be swelled by third and fourth-year students.

"I have a hope that some of the class of 1962 will be the first to graduate from Victoria College," he said.

"The only reason we are not giving third or fourth-year courses," he said, "is that we have no buildings, no money, and not enough staff for even the first two years."

Judge Clearihue said that degree-granting courses at the college would be confined at first to arts and education but "we hope in the distant future to be able to give degrees in all the faculties."

'Greater love hath . . .'

He Giveth His Beard —For $100

The Community Chest, which in recent weeks has been the recipient of various weird gifts ranging from five tons of fish to a sweepstake ticket on a horse race, today got another one.

A beard.

Taken from the smiling jowls of Chest secretary Adrian Gilmore, the goatee-type beard was worth $100 to the campaign.

The money was promised to the Chest by campaign manager Justin Harbord, on the condition that Mr. Gilmore shaved his centennial fungus off.

HE PAID

He lost it Friday. Mr. Harbord paid up today.

Said he, "Greater love hath no man than that he giveth his beard to the community.

"But seriously, Victoria should consider itself fortunate to have in its employ this dedicated man. He is doing a wonderful job in the drive."

Meanwhile, the residential canvass was officially ending today, although considerable call-backs have still to be made.

Total cash received from all sources to date is $132,775.11.

Untouchable 'Book of Elite' Unveiled

MONTREAL (CP) — All that was missing was a burst of trumpet fanfare as Canada's new social directory of 40,000 names was unveiled Friday night before some 20 "select" reporters in a hotel suite normally reserved for royalty.

The book, a 700-page register bound in blue with a crest stamped in pure gold, was displayed with all the pride of parents showing off a new-born babe.

It lay in a glass-crib on a bed of white satin. A single light bulb of soft pink illuminated two pages of closely-printed names—from Gagnon to Gerin-Lajoie, all Montrealers.

LOCK THE DOORS

A security guard in a blue uniform stood by, unarmed, to make sure reporters didn't man-handle the book or search for names. A mysterious official in another room of the royal suite—locked for safety's sake—checked names submitted by reporters.

Yes, Prime Minister Diefenbaker is listed. So are former prime minister Louis St. Laurent and Arthur Meighen. And Governor-General Massey.

"The church, the bench, the scalpel, the professions and parliament are well represented," said a social register spokesman. "So are some people who've never attended or given a cocktail party."

The book was compiled after 300 arbiters across the country nominated names of socially prominent people. It lists names and addresses, titles, decorations, clubs and phone numbers.

FOR CHRISTMAS CARDS

"It's a handy guide for making up Christmas card lists," said the spokesman.

Host at the partly was Toronto publisher David B. Crombie, who is vice-president of the Social Register of Canada Limited, sponsors of the book. He isn't listed in the register.

But then neither is hockey player Maurice Richard or comedians John Wayne and Frank Shuster.

Mr. Crombie said almost 10,000 Canadians have joined the Social Register Association of Canada, which entitles them to a gold-embossed membership card and a copy of the register. The only way to join the association is to get your name in the book itself, and pay a $25 membership fee.

"The book is not for public distribution," said Mr. Crombie. "It will not be sold, copies may not be bought in book shops, and I question the advisability of it ever being available to the general public."

He said copies were being mailed — second-class mail — to members.

Toronto has 56 pages of names; Ottawa, 33½ pages; Halifax, 14; Vancouver, 26; Winnipeg and Edmonton, 11 each; Saskatoon, five, and Whitehorse, one.

The 555-foot-high Washington Monument in the United States capital has 81,820 tons of marble.

BEFORE THE JUDGE By SILENUS

Ruat Coelum

"MOST unfortunate! Dreadful timing! Shocking!" the Court House Seagull was muttering, as he puttered about, poking heaps of fallen plaster with his yellow bill. "Scandalous! Too much sand!"

I had just stepped out of the Court House elevator, which I often ride up and down in when in need of a period of calm reflection, when I ran into the old bird muttering and puttering as aforesaid. There was a large patch of exposed lath overhead, from which a thin rain of fine sand was sifting slowly down.

"What is going on?" was the obvious opening gambit.

"Going on! Coming down is more like! The ceiling, that's what! Did you ever see such stuff?" and he scratched a chunk of plaster with a contemptuous claw. "Awwrrk! Cheap! Ninety per cent sand, or I'm a pigeon. Must be modern! Faugh!"

SILENUS

"Fiat justitia ruat coelum. Things seem to be in a bad way here."

"It is impossible to describe the inelegant noise which the Seagull made in answer to this sally. Not in the home edition, anyway. But after a moment he resumed.

* * *

"If all you can manage is the same bad pun which I have heard I hate to think how many times today, you'd better get back in that elevator. Ruat coelum! Heavens fall, indeed! It's not any lack of justice being done here, with assizes and appeals going on at the same time up there. It's those policemen pounding about in their great boots upstairs. I always used to get nervous when I saw those red coats and felt that clump clump clump coming up the stairs, like the Great American Novel getting to the point, and now the inevitable has happened. Look out!", and he dodged expertly as a pound or so of plaster thudded onto the floor.

"Well, the building is getting a bit old, and maybe things have dried out a bit. You know how these things happen."

"Nonsense. Poor work in the first place. Look at the plaster at Hampton Court! Sistine Chapel! Versailles! Still there, ain't it? Lots of lime, and thorough mixing! You don't get that kind of work today. It's sad, that's what it is. Just ammunition for the anti-Court House crowd. They'll parlay a little bad plaster into a total collapse before you can say Chief Justice, and there we'll be, roosting in a stucco box up there on Cathedral Hill. It's a bad business all round. That's what it is. Awwrrk"

"You may have something there; certainly they'll never be able to put up a solid stone building like this again. Costs too much and lasts too long to be a fitting monument to Social Credit!"

* * *

"Steady there, boy! Didn't I tell you I was taking no part in politics any more? We've got to play this one close to the chest. Keep quiet about it, and just whistle a good plasterer in some night when no one's about. It will soon be forgotten, and all will be well. Fiat justitia! Fiat new plaster (with lots of lime)! Just a little slap of slosh here and there, and there'll be no more coelum ruating! We'll fix 'em. On the quiet. Must keep this out of the papers."

"Naturally."

"These ugly rumors must be stopped. Why, I even heard today that the judges are asking for danger pay when they come over here. Nothing in it, nothing at all. A wicked slander on our judges, who know a good court house when they see one!" said he, aiming a delicate kick at a heap of sand. "See that it gets squelched!"

And I hope it does.

LONDON LETTER By WALLACE REYBURN

Raising the Rent

LONDON—I have from reader P. Grinstead of Toronto's Marගueretta Street, a letter in which he says: "Would you tell us something about skiffle? What is it? I read of skiffle bands in various local papers from England but cannot make out if they are wind instruments, plucked instruments or some makeshift noisemaker."

Skiffle, the great musical craze of young people here, got its start around 1954 and was defined for me by an expert in such matters as "folk music played with a strict jazz beat."

Although it sounds like an American importation it is purely a British thing which merely borrowed its origins from the U.S. A home-grown product by the name of Lonnie Donegan is credited with being the man who got skiffle started. His first disc success: Rock Island Line. Followed by such hits as Cumberland Gap.

Reyburn

* * *

Skiffle is based on the type of music they used to make at "rent parties" in New Orleans in the old days—entertainment put on to try and raise money for the rent.

A skiffle group consists usually of a double bass, drums and three guitars. Sometimes a piano is added, but this is frowned on by the skiffle purists.

They argue that New Orleans rent-raisers could never raise the price of a piano. And by the same token some of the skiffle groups stress the poverty background by using a makeshift double bass consisting of a tea chest and a pole and one string.

Since southerners in the U.S. used to make this sort of music, how come it is now regarded as a British phenomenon? The point here is that it was just a local pastime in New Orleans and the British have turned it into a full-scale commercial proposition.

The folk tunes the skifflers use are invariably American, but not necessarily so. Anything in the folk field is their meat, whether it comes from England, Czechoslovakia, anywhere.

In my ignorance I thought that skiffle and rock 'n roll were related because to my untrained ear roughly the same sort of frenzied noise seemed to come from the exponents of both types of music.

* * *

But I learn that skifflers and rock 'n rollers have no love for each other. An outfit will stick strictly to one or the other, never switch back and forth. The skifflers, relying purely on folk music, have no time for numbers written specially for the style, as with rock 'n roll.

There is one aspect of skiffle that is welcomed by psychiatrists and others who tend to despair of life as lived today. The sale of guitars is booming as young people form skiffle groups all over the country, to play in their homes, at parties, on river trips, at holiday resorts.

The trend is to get away from listening on a record-player to other people performing and instead make your own music, going back to the good old saner days when people got together with their musical instruments in the parlor and entertained themselves.

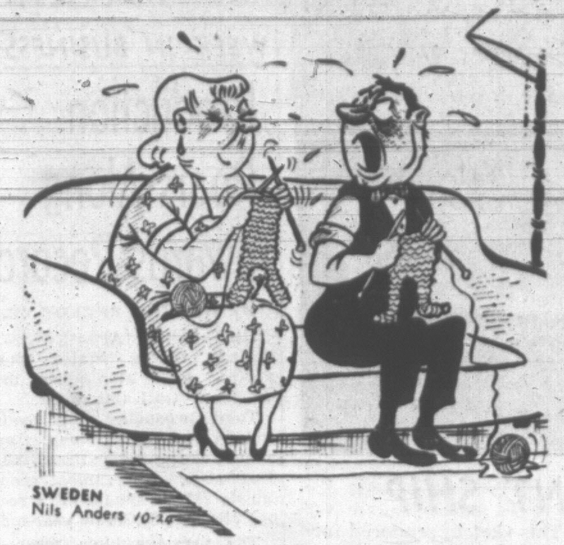
TODAY'S BEST FROM EUROPE



"Must you ALWAYS wait till the very last moment before you tell me something?"

The Day YOU Were Born

Marion Lynn Crowther, 795 Station Road, Langford, is a pretty little girl with dark brown hair and eyes, and a lovely complexion. She is in grade four at Langford Elementary School, and enjoys singing in the school choir.

Lynn is the oldest of five, and a big help to her mother. She sets the table, runs errands, and makes cakes (from mixes) and loves icing them with an icing set an aunt gave her.

The Crowthers are all busy in their spare time working on their DVA-assisted house-building program, and Lynn makes herself useful handing tools and nails to her father.

Lynn and her young brother ride their bikes to school, and, says their mother, are very careful about safety rules.

On the day she was born:

A U.S. steel strike threatened to shut down all auto-making plants. A coal strike also helped hinder industry in the U.S.

U.S. Surgeon-General Leonard A. Scheele said tuberculosis would no longer be a menace by 1959.

Philatelists complained that the portrait of the king on new Canadian postage stamps was "exaggerated, unflattering, and lacking in artistry."

A cyclone battered Atlantic shipping, disabling a freighter and holding up the Queen Mary 24 hours. Blizzards were sweeping the prairies and Montana had five-foot snow drifts. Victoria was clear and cool, temperature 55.

Vishinsky told the world that Russia had had the A-bomb since 1947.

Mrs. Nancy Hodges was sworn in as Coalition MLA for Victoria.

"Drink the coffee most people like BEST," says an ad, "at 54c a pound."

The date? Tuesday, Oct. 18, 1949.

PM WELCOMES BILL OF RIGHTS SUGGESTIONS

OTTAWA (CP) — The number of representations and suggestions from Canadian groups and individuals on the draft bill of rights indicates the importance attached to it, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Friday night.

This is "transcendent" importance prompted the provision of opportunities for such representation, he said of the draft bill introduced late in the last session of Parliament.

Mr. Diefenbaker was speaking to the third annual Bowater Awards dinner.

"If a statutory bill of rights will do no more than keep the spotlight on the process of encroachments (on liberty) it would more than justify enactment," he said.

FIRST ATOMIC-POWERED MERCHANT SHIP

This is the way the first atomic-powered ship of the U.S. merchant marine fleet will look sometime in 1960. The NS (Nuclear Ship) Savannah, under construction in Camden, N.J., is designed for a service speed of 20 knots. The 587-foot-long ship, displacing 21,800 tons, will be launched in 1959 and put into service the following year. This sketch, produced for the Reliance Electric and Engineering Company, shows the outstanding visible difference between the Savannah and cargo ships of today—no funnels to chop up its sleek silhouette. Construction was authorized by the U.S. Congress in 1956.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

$50,000 Bail Set In Drug Charges

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER — Bail of $50,000, described as the highest in recent years here, was set Friday for a 40-year-old man charged with conspiring to traffic in narcotics.

Steve Bohach of Burnaby, B.C., is also charged with possession of narcotics for trafficking. Asking for the high bail, special prosecutor R. L. Maitland said the case involved 1,200 capsules of heroin.

Bohach is to appear in police court Tuesday along with two other men.

YOUTH HELD IN SHOOTING

CHILLIWACK—RCMP are holding a 19-year-old youth for questioning after his older brother, John Dennis Chapman, 23, was found shot in the side with a shotgun.

ATOM RAIN SHOWER

VANCOUVER — Rain with a radioactivity count 150 to 175 times the normal level fell on Vancouver Friday. It was believed caused by recent Russian nuclear tests.

Dean Gordon Shrum of the University of British Columbia said, however, there is no need to worry.

"It would have to be a lot higher than that before it would be dangerous."

BLOBS IN SKY

CHILLIWACK — Numerous residents reported seeing two "huge, oblong orange blobs" Friday night, low in the eastern sky. Some residents said the "blobs" were illuminated and appeared to remain stationary for long periods.

TOURIST AIMS SET

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS —Closer integration of B.C. tourist services at home and coordinated promotion of provincial attractions abroad are two principal aims of the British Columbia Tourist Council for 1959.

The aims were expressed in a series of 26 recommendations brought down by the council Friday at the close of its two-day 19th annual meeting here.

The council recommended that small boat facilities in the province be further developed, that liquor control board regulations be eased, that the star rating system for motels and hotels be revised, and that representations be made to the government for further improvements on interprovincial roads.

Value of B.C. Mine Output Shows Drop

B.C.'s mineral production in 1957 was valued at $172,264,617, says a report from Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan. The figure is $18,000,000 short of the record-breaking $190,084,302 in 1956.

Generally lower prices for "most of the principal metals" was blamed for the drop.

Despite depressed conditions, the mineral production value was the fourth highest in B.C. history, exceeded only by 1951, 1955 and 1956.

The report noted a spectacular increase in natural gas and oil production. Natural gas production in 1957 reached 8,274,942 thousand cubic feet, compared with 187,846 thousand cubic feet the year previous. Oil production rose to 340,945 barrels from 148,454 in 1956.

In 1957 there were 13,2257 persons employed in mining, with salaries totalling $56,409,056.

100 YEARS SINCE HIS DEATH

New School Named After HBC Skipper

Sangster Elementary School at Metchosin was opened officially Friday night just 100 years after the death of the man for whom it was named.

Capt. James Sangster, former Hudson's Bay Company skipper, settled in the area in the early 1850s, and was collector of customs, harbormaster, pilot, and postmaster for Victoria.

He died 100 years ago today at his log cabin on the site of the Metchosin gravel pit. A painting of his cabin, the work of Mrs. "Rose" Bullen, was presented to the school Friday night by her son, D. B. F. Bullen of Langford.

Chief speaker, and the man who named the school officially open, was Lawrie J. Wallace, chairman of the B.C. Centennial Committee and co-ordinator of teacher recruitment in the education department.

PIONEER FAMILY

He was introduced by Sooke School District 62 board chairman Ronald Weir, member of a pioneer family in the district.

Mr. Wallace is the great-grandson of Mrs. Vine, who settled in Metchosin in 1853, and his mother, Mrs. Mary Wallace, of the Parker family at Rocky Point, cut the birthday cake provided for the celebration Friday by Sangster PTA.

In reviewing the history of the district, he said the school system was formed in 1871, with a school six miles beyond Sangster School.

It was closed in 1915, he said, but was reopened in 1942 to cope with a rush of pupils during the war years. When it was closed in 1949 it was considered the oldest operating school in western Canada.

George Gurney, school principal, was chairman at the ceremony.

CPR Veteran Buried Today

Funeral service was held in Hayward's funeral home today for James McWhirter, 85, of 742 Canterbury Road, Saanich, who died Wednesday in Royal Oak private hospital.

The Rev. Dr. J. B. Rowell officiated.

Mr. McWhirter, who came to live in Victoria from his native Shetland Islands in 1908, was associated with the Canadian Pacific Railway for many years as quartermaster and latterly, watchman.

AT BAMFIELD

During the First World War he served overseas with the Canadian merchant navy, then returned to CPR service. Later he was employed at Bamfield lifeboat station.

He was predeceased by his wife in 1953.

The last of seven brothers, Mr. McWhirter was a member of the Canadian Legion, Pro Patria branch and belonged to the White Cane Club for several years.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Muriel Haime, at home, three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Grain Farmers Get Payments Next Week

OTTAWA (CP) — Western grain producers next week will start receiving payments under an emergency $40,0000,000 grant approved at the last session of Parliament— Prime Minister Diefenbaker annouced today.

The money will be distributed by the Canadian wheat board on the basis of $1 a cultivated acre up to a maximum of $200 a farm. Payments will be based on wheat board permit books for the crop year starting last Aug. 1 and will be made directly to permit holders.

BUSINESS CHIEFS MEET IN QUEBEC NEXT WEEK

MONTREAL (UPI)—More than 30 top-ranking business leaders from Canada and the U.S. will meet at Ste. Adele, Que., Monday and Tuesday, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce has announced.

The occasion will be a closed meeting of the Canada-U.S. committee, a body maintained jointly by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and the Chamber of Commerce of the U.S.

Brooke Claxton, chairman of the Canadian section of the committee, said that subjects to be "discussed in depth" by the group would include trade in all its aspects, agriculture, continental defence, the practices of U.S. and Canadian companies with respect to corporate giving, and the St. Lawrence Seaway.

ONE MORE TO GO

American Motors Settles Contract

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corporation and the United Auto Workers union reached agreement Friday on a new three-year contract. The pact left only Studebaker-Packard outside the contract fold.

American Motors and the UAW reached agreement approximately seven hours after the firm's 13,000-plus production workers went out on strike at plants in Michigan and Wisconsin.

Both company and union spokesmen said they expect all workers back on the job Monday. All local disputes except one involving 26 workers were settled prior to the national agreement. The new contract is retroactive to July 1.

THREE-YEAR CONTRACT

UAW spokesmen said the three-year pact, calling for wage increases estimated at 24 to 30 cents hourly, will apply to American Motors' Kelvinator division in Grand Rapids, Mich., during its third year.

Neither company nor union officials could estimate the current average hourly rate at American Motors plant. The department of labor estimates the auto industry's average hourly pay at $2.43.

Meanwhile, General Motors reported continuing settlements of local disputes across the U.S. More than half of General Motors' 275,000 production workers are back on the job.

NEW CAR MODEL SALES ZOOM

TORONTO (CP)—Advance sales of Studebaker-Packard Corporation's new Lark series of automobiles are more than half of the entire 1958 production by the company, said Harold Churchill, president of Studebaker-Packard, at an unveiling of the new car on Friday.

The company is staking its future on the Lark, a low-priced, compact automobile which will be available in Canada during the first week in November.

Northwest Gas Revenues Zoom

PORTLAND (AP) —Gas sale revenues of the Northwest Natural Gas Co. showed an increase of $3,600,000 during the 12 months ending Sept. 3 over the same period last year.

The company reported revenues during the 12 months were $16,818,000.

In the report to stockholders, the firm reported net income increased $130,000 over the preceding 12-month period. It was $1,471,000 this year.

Huge Shopping Centre Planned for Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Plans for a $25,000,000 regional shopping centre which would contain both Eaton's of Canada Limited and Robert Simpson Company Limited department stores, were announced here.

It would be the first time Eaton's and Simpson's have built in the same shopping centre.

New Currency For Arab Republic

CAIRO (Reuters) — A new currency for the United Arab Republic—the Arab dinar—will replace the Egyptian pound and the Syrian lira by next July, Economic Minister Abdul el Kaissuny said today.

WEEK IN BUSINESS

Production Roars Along Towards Record

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—Business in the United States took another giant step along the comeback trail this week.

Total production of goods and services roared along at an annual clip of better than $440,000,000,000. Government economists said it should hit a record $450,000,000,000 by year-end.

The previous high, reached last summer before the recession made itself felt, was $445,500,000,000.

Stepped up production of steel, copper, aluminum, zinc and lead contributed mightily to the economy's forward surge this week. So did consumer buying.

CARLOADINGS UP

The quickened economic tempo gave the railroads a lift—freight carloadings touched a 1958 high for the fifth straight week.

On the national economic level the fast pace of recovery showed up vividly in government statistics:

1. Personal income of Americans climbed in September to a record annual rate of $357,500,000,000 adjusted for seasonal vacations. That's a gain of $11,000,000,000 since February's recession low.

2. Output of U.S. mines and factories climbed to 137 per cent of the 1947-49 average—at a time (September) when Detroit was up to its neck in labor strife and model changeovers and auto production had slowed to a crawl.

3. Private housing starts in September soared to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1,220,000 foundations poured, highest since October, 1955. Confidence ruled this week from main street to Wall Street—and dispelled much of the gloom that had shrouded automobile row.

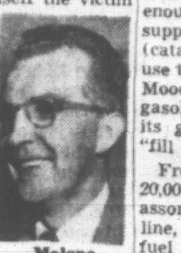
Power 'Steals' Spotlight As BA Opens New Refinery

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

PORT MOODY—Power stole the spotlight from petroleum, if infamously, here Friday when British American Oil Company opened its $25,000,000 refinery.

Power or lack of it interrupted BA's Hollywood-style kleig-light grand opening. A battery of lights proved too much for electrical facilities and ultimately scuttled them. The first dimout occurred just as BA president E. D. Brockett mounted the podium and began to pump oil—er, words—into two microphones.

He finally got under way, only to find himself the victim of a second dimout, caused by stripped circuit breakers. Mr. Brockett suffered in silence while frantic BA employees sought to find the cause of the trouble. The fuss prompted one wag to remark: "You can bet there'll be one BA electrician knocking on Shell Oil's door for a job tomorrow morning."



Malone

Ultimately, order came out of mild chaos and Mr. Brockett finished what he started. This included telling the illustrious gathering of petroleum uses and needs and how BA will attempt to fill them.

Awed onlookers had to agree, after touring the 380-acre plant in pouring rain, that the Port Moody refinery stands an excellent chance of fulfilling all the gas, kerosene and crude oil requirements that may arise in these parts for some time.

Their tour began after Labor Minister Wicks, having expounded colorfully on "this era of petroleum", twisted five colored dials. In turn, they caused colored panels to light up, indicating that the crude unit, the naptha desulphirizer and reformer unit, the catalytic cracker, the distillate desulphirizer and the alkylation unit were percolating.

Mr. Wicks had a little trouble with words like "desulphirizer" and "catalytic" but no more trouble than anyone else.

The Port Moody project is BA's biggest single undertaking. The adjective applies generally. Everything here is big, including the words. For instance: The refinery requires enough electricity monthly to supply 10,000 average homes (catalytic or otherwise). It will use twice as much water as Port Moody (pop. 3,000) and the gasoline from a single one of its great storage tanks would "fill up" 250,000 automobiles.

From the refinery will come 20,000 barrels of oil a day and assorted products such as gasoline, stove oil, kerosene, diesel fuel and high octane gas.

The raw oil will come to Port Moody via the Trans-Mountain Pipeline. After its arrival it will be washed, scrubbed, desulpherized, cracked and almost everything else will happen to it that engineers can think of.

Everything about the place is modern but it wasn't always so. Sixteen months ago when they turned the first sod, the rains came and all the fancy machinery at BA's disposal bogged down. Production didn't stop, however, some brilliant BA engineer came to the rescue. "Use a horse," he said. They did. And it worked.

Two Powell River Subsidiaries Merged

B.C. Manufacturing Company Ltd. and Westminster Shook Mills Ltd., Powell River subsidiaries, have been merged under a new corporate name, Powell River Lumber Company Ltd., H. A. Renwick, Powell River Company vice-president, announced Friday.

Said Mr. Renwick: "The new name more correctly describes our business, and identifies us directly with the parent company which is so well and favorably known throughout the world.

WEEK ON MARKETS

Industrials Setback Hits In Minor Form

By GERRY MARTIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The long-predicted setback to industrials occurred this week, though somewhat in a minor form on Canadian stock exchanges.

Rising steadily since June 20, industrials at Toronto had added more than 50 points on index without a week's setback.

This week they pushed their index to 505.69 at 11 a.m. Tuesday. This was just .64 off the industrial all-time index peak of 506.33 set Oct. 2, 1956. One hour later they started to slide with gathering momentum.

The profit-taking chopped big holes in the previous week's gains. It touched a low of 493.72 at 1 p.m. Wednesday before starting a slow recovery.

On the week, industrials were off .59 on index.

GOLDS OFF

Golds joined industrials off, with a .27 dip on the week but base metals and western oils rose smartly boosted by promising economic news and rumors.

Increased prices for copper, lead and zinc, resulted in a gradual rise for base metals, but they too suffered during the mid-week sell-off. At Toronto they closed with a 1.04 index gain.

Speculation on the contents on the Borden commission report and the possibility of tightening restrictions on the export of oil from the Middle East, enabled western oils to stretch their advance until the close. They were up 2.28, for an index of 144.16, a 1958 high.

While the western oil index was ahead, gains were generally limited to half a dozen of the more expensive issues. Canadian Husky was the leader, it gained $1.25 at $15.25. Pacific Pete, at $20.87½, and Hudson's Bay, at $21.62⅛, each added $1.12½. Calgary and Edmonton, however, lost $1.50 at $19.

MINES DOWN

Several mines had moderate gains on the week but all were down from their highs. International Nickel gained $1.50 at $91. Before sliding back to $89.50, unchanged from the previous week, Noranda was up $1 at $55.

Index changes at Toronto: Industrials off .59 to 503.62; golds off .27 to 83.25; base metals up 1.04 to 182.23; western oils up 2.28 to 144.16.

Index changes at Montreal: Banks off .78 to 54.84; utilities up 1.3 to 148.7; industrials off 1.8 to 296.3; combined off .7 to 247.1; papers new up 6.8 to 447.2; papers old up 10.44 to 1,361.26; golds up 2.13 to 79.41.

RECORD BID FAILS SHORT OF B.C.

Ice Downs Distance Flier

An attempt to set a new distance record in a light plane flying from Tokyo to Miami failed Friday night when Charles F. Banfe put his machine down at Cordova, Alaska, a short time before he would have crossed into B.C. and Yukon territory.

The 39-year-old commercial airline pilot from Palo Alto, Calif., was forced down after logging 3,270 miles on he projected 7,022-mile flight.

Banfe, his face etched with lines brought on by 29½ grueling hours at the controls of his Mooney Mark 20A aircraft, said ice that formed in the carburetor of his engine forced him down.

He was attempting to crack the non-stop, single-engine distance record established Aug. 1 by Marion (Pat) Boling, a commercial airline pilot who also lives in Palo Alto.

Boling took off from Manila and flew 6,979 miles to a landing at pendleton, Ore.

PLANS ANOTHER SHOT

Even as he shrugged off the weariness of his trip, Banfe was making plans for another shot at Boling's record.

"I'm going to try it again," he told reporters at Cordova Airport. "It will be the same flight, the same plane, within six months."

Banfe, who left Tokyo Thursday night, guided his plane into a safe landing here as fog and low clouds chocked visibility to 200 feet.

He had engine trouble three times during his long, lonesome flight along the great circle route used by commercial aircraft.

Public Area Reduced At Queen's Estate

'Buy a House to Stop Inflation'

There is no better hedge against inflation than selling a home to a family, the Real Estate Board of Victoria was told Friday afternoon.

Every time you sell a house, you save a family from falling into the chasm of inflation," said Walter Graves, of Philadelphia, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards of the United States.

"You also help to save your country from inflation."

TIGHT ROPE

Mr. Graves said Canada is now walking a "tight rope" between recession and inflation. He believed this delicate situation could be remedied by positive, forward-looking salesmanship.

"You in Victoria are in a wonderful position," he told the real estate men. "If you will leave your comfortable chairs and get out and sell, you will leave your footprints in the sands of time.

"I urge you to do all you can to sell homes, in your own interests and in the interests of your country."

Mr. Graves referred to Canada as "one of the great frontiers of the world."

NEW FIELD

He said the St. Lawrence Seaway, to be opened by the Queen next year, will bring mid-Canada to the ports of Europe and open up a vast new field of trade.

"You may not have as much industry here in Victoria as they have in other areas of Canada. But I urge you to consider that this is as much your problem as theirs.

"Take a broad vision of the future and spend part of each day in constructive thinking about it."

Mr. Graves said the recent recession in the United States had been greatly exaggerated.

CONFIDENT WOMEN

"The spending curves indicates that American women spent as much duriing this period as previously, and this suggests that the women had more confidence in their country than the menfolk.

"It suggests to me that there was no real basis for the recession. Yet I am glad it happened because it halted the spiral of inflation—and inflation is a deadly adversary."

NEW HIGH

In spite of recession talk, Mr. Graves said savings in the United States are at an all-time high.

"The average personal income is also at an all-time high and the personal spending of U.S. citizens has moved steadily upward."

During a recent visit to London, England, Mr. Graves was asked if it were true that people were "standing in soup lines" in Detroit.

NONSENSE

"I told them this was sheer nonsense—that by the end of this year U.S. manufacturers would have sold about four and a half million cars.

"You do not sell that number of cars during a recession. Yet, because that number was less than the year before, people talked of it as a poor year."

Warning of the dangers of government control, Mr. Graves said:

"Under our private enterprise system we should not look to the government to control our methods, but merely to reduce the distance between the peaks and the valleys our business cycles."

With the approval of all members Mr. Graves was elected an honorary member of the Real Estate Board of Victoria.

S P A O
V O O E

Four skeletonized key words appear across the tops of the diagrams at right. You are asked to restore the missing letters and thus identify the words.

As a clue, we'll tell you that each term has a musical connotation. You must take it from there—

To begin, copy each of the letters now in sight in the blank spaces directly below them. That is, at top left, place an S in the two blanks below, a P in the one blank below, and so forth.

Then, using these letters in the lower diagrams, try to guess at missing letters to form short horizontal words—placing trial letters in all blanks of respective vertical rows including the top or key word row. Correct insertions will meet letter demands of all horizontal words.

Remember, all four key words pertain to music.

Answer: The terms soprano, pianola, duetted, and violone meet requirements of respective diagrams.

GIVE YOUR TONGUE THE JIM-JAMS

Say swiftly aloud: The skunk sat on the stump. The skunk thunk the stump stunk. Shows the skunk's no thinker.

MENTAL MAGIC

To demonstrate an entertaining trick, hand someone a full pack of 52 cards and have him shuffle it. He is then to deal a card face up from the top, and note the value of the card. Let us suppose he turns up a five. On this he is to deal cards totalling whatever number is the difference between the denomination turned up and 12. Thus in this case seven cards would go on the five spot.

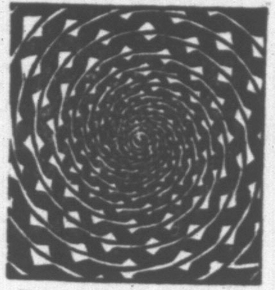
He deals another card face up and adds cards to make the total 12, exactly as he did before. Should he deal any court card (king, queen, jack) face up, he counts it as 10. This heap dealing goes on, until there are a few cards left over, which are laid aside.

You then look at the squared heaps and name a number, say 41. Turn the heaps over and lift off the single cards which were dealt first, with each heap. Add them up and they come to your number!

It's done with a simple mental calculation. Remember, you do not watch the dealing at all. At the finish, just count the heaps (in this case 7) and subtract 4, which leaves 3. Multiply this by 13 (in this case making 39) and then add the number of cards left over (in this instance 2). That gives the total of the bottom cards.

Sounds and looks complicated but it is impressive when you've memorized the formula and applied it.

VIEW IS AN EYE-OPENER



Trusting your eyes isn't always advisable, as is proved by the optical illusion displayed, above.

In this case, what appears at first to be a design made up of spirals, turns out to be a series of concentric circles. If you aren't convinced, check with a compass—placing the point of the instrument at the centre of the diagram and adjusting the pencil arm to the prescribed arcs.

ONLY INSTITUTION OF ITS KIND IN WORLD OPENED BY DEFENCE MINISTER

$3 Million Navy Technical School Sprawls Over Four and One-Half A cres

The Royal Canadian Navy today opened a school at Esquimalt believed to be the only one of its kind in the world.

The Naval Technical School, just off Esquimalt Road behind Moresby House, will provide training from the apprentice stage to petty officer, covering the complete range of technilogical knowledge needed by ratings and NCOs in the modern navy.

The school, opened officially by Defence Minister George Pearkes, will take the place of a dozen installations formerly scattered through HMC Dockyard and HMCS Naden.

It also replaces HMCS Cape Breton, the "floating classroom" formerly used on the East Coast for apprentice training.

Cape Breton is now on this coast, being refitted as a sea-going maintenance and supply ship.

Establishment of the school is a direct result of a survey conducted throughout the RCN in 1951, which showed the navy must produce many more of her own technicians, or else go short handed. In competing with the higher wages of industry, the navy was rapidly losing ground.

Decision was made to build the school, to replace outdated and adequate facilities of the Ordnance Training School, Mechanical Training Establishment (West Coast) and Electrical Training Centre.

Objective of the school, according to an official navy statement, is "the production of the finest technical personnel possible, to man, maintain, and fight the increasingly complex naval equipment."

* * *

Cost of construction was about $1,500,000, and at least a similar sum will be needed to equip it fully.

Built mainly of pre-stressed concrete, with huge areas of window space, the building has a working floor area of four and one-half acres; windows measure a total of three and one-half acres. All classrooms are individually air conditioned.

The NTS has capacity for an enrolment of 400 trainees in various stages of trades training. At present, 177 are under instruction, including 121 technical apprentices. They aim to meet the high standards required to qualify as engineering, engineering (air), electrical, ordnance, and shipwright tradesmen.

As a general rule, the apprentice, after three years, three months, joins the fleet as petty officer, second class.

* * *

All navy trades' training now will be conducted under one roof.

MONTE ROBERTS

The Bell Telephone Co's Montreal branch recently gave serious consideration to a wonderful idea.

Bell talked about returning to the good old days before dial telephones, when the subscriber picked up the 'phone and was greeted by the dulcet tones of a charming young lady saying "Number, please."

The reason: the growth in the number of subscribers. This year, for the city of Montreal, Bell had to print a 2,100-page phone book listing 720,000 subscribers.

The company conducted a survey which showed the average user carries 20 numbers in his head, consults the book for only one number in six. The thought was, why not dispense with the phone book, and have switchboard girls supply the missing numbers?

Unfortunately, the plan fell through because of the amount of money needed for extra salaries.

Which is indeed a pity. At the risk of appearing to be against technological progress, I am in favor of going back to the dear old "central" days.

In those days, the telephone was much warmer, much more personal. You felt you had a real friend in the person of the hello-girl, whose voice was alert, cheerful, and showed every wish to please.

Now we are moving even farther away from the telephone girl. In the near future, we will by-pass her on long distance calls, using the new and mechanically marvellous direct-dialing system.

Much faster, of course, much more efficient. But something fine will be missing when you no longer dial 110, and enlist the help of a highly-trained, very pleasant young lady to reach your aunt who may be in Okomokee, or is it Phanistrania?

I am a great admirer of today's long distance operators, just as I used to be an admirer of the centrals of long ago.

I guess the only thing left will be the co-operative voice of the information operator.

I may be allowed to hope the scientfic blokes will never get around to inventing a mechanical replacement for this helpful young lady.

FISHERIES MINISTER MacLEAN . . . under fire.

STALLING CHARGE

'Salmon Glut' Loss Estimated At $2 Million

A spokesman for the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union charged today that B.C. had lost more than $2,000,000 since September because federal Fisheries Minister J. Angus MacLean "refused to do anything" about a salmon glut in the Fraser River.

Homer Stevens, union business agent, told The Times B.C. fishermen are daily dumping so many "thousands upon thousands of good salmon that the river bed must be deep in dead fish."

He said too many salmon are reaching the spawning grounds, causing much of the spawn to rot and pose a threat to next year's salmon haul.

BUY NO MORE

The glut of salmon follows the Sept. 18 decision of the B.C. Fisheries Association not to buy any late run sockeye after the end of the month.

Association officials said there was no market for the rest of the run, which they described of "inferior grade."

The fishermen immediately protested the announcement and denied that the fish was not top quality sockeye.

"But the canners won't take the fish," Mr. Stevens said today, "so we are having to dump it."

"We met the fisheries minister twice recently trying to get him to intervene, but he stalled both times. We even suggested the fish be canned for use by the Colombo Plan if Canadian markets didn't want it, but he turned us down flat.

"First he said any action would require parliamentary approval, then he said he didn't think the situation justified any move by him.

DUCKING ISSUE

"He is just ducking the issue and we don't like his attitute at all. It is costing the industry $2,000,000 at least since September."

Mr. Stevens termed the position a "disaster" and said further action was contemplated. He said the Salmon Commission and B.C. Fisheries Association are similarly "ducking" the problem, "and meanwhile more and more healthy salmon is being lost."

MAN DENIES INTERFERING AT JOB OFFICE

A Victoria man pleaded not guilty in city police court today to an obstruction charge carrying a maximum penalty of 14 years in jail.

Robert Brodie, Westholme Hotel, is charged with wilfully interfering with use of the Queen's property at Unemployment Insurance Commission office, 1039 Johnson, on Oct. 6.

He was remanded for trial to Monday.

Complaint was laid by employment officer Walter H. Graham, according to the sworn information against Brodie.

FIRST STEP IN UNIFICATION PLAN

Service Medics to Merge By Jan. 1, Says Pearkes

Medical services of Canada's navy, army and air force will be brought under single administration Jan. 1, according to Defence Minister George R. Pearkes, VC, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich.

He is here today for the opening of the new Naval Technical School.

Mr. Pearkes referred to the move as the first step in unification of the armed forces.

Motive of the scheme is to provide a "close-knit organization for the control of operations."

Mr. Pearkes indicated Canada may never reach the day when sailors, soldiers, and airmen wear the same uniforms.

"But all services are being brought much closer together," he said.

"The first step must be — without making any radical or revolutionary change — to go ahead and unify the logistic, or administrative services."

Next branches to be unified, after the medical branch, will be recruiting and chaplain services.

SIGN FOR ALL

"Recruitment of the three services is being brought together so that recruiting officers will be able to sign up men for all services, and not just his own."

Commenting on the decision to employ the Bomarc missile, Mr. Pearkes said he thought it was a good selection as Canada's main anti-aircraft weapon of the future. The CF-105 supersonic jet interceptor had "outlived its usefulness before it was fully developed."

Mr. Pearkes arrived at HMC Dockyard from Vancouver aboard the destroyer escort HMCS Athabaskan at noon today, and lunched with Rear-Admiral H. S. Rayner, flag officer, Pacific coast, before attending the school opening ceremonies.

The destroyer was dispatched from Esquimalt when weather conditions made flying uncertain. As Athabaskan entered harbor at 12.15 p.m., a 17-gun salute was fired to honor the minister.

Young Driver Badly Hurt; Cars Wrecked

Both cars were wrecked and a driver received severe injuries in a two-car crash near Glen Lake Friday night.

Colwood RCMP said both drivers were alone when they clashed in a tangle of metal, glass and rubber on Sooke, between Metchosin and Jacklin at 8 p.m.

Frank Chow, 17, of 3344 Wishart, is reported to be in fair condition at St. Joseph's Hospital with head, face and chest injuries.

He was driver of a 1948 model car and the other motorist, identified as Robert J. Hunter, 3256 Happy Valley, drove a 1953 Cadillac, police said.

Details of the accident were not available, but it is known the highway was wet and possibly misty after heavy rainfall Friday afternoon.

The injured driver was taken to hospital semi-conscious, a member of his family said. The other driver was not injured.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Fortune, James Bay, Miramichi, Cowichan, return late this month.

Crescent, Cayuga, Athabaskan, Skeena, Fraser, Margaree, leave 9 a.m. Monday on U.S. cruise.

PARADE MONDAY NIGHT FOR AIR COMMODORE

AIR COMM. ROSS . . . to inspect auxiliary

Air Commodore Arthur D. Ross, GC, CBE, CD, commander of 5 Air Division, RCAF, in Vancouver, will inspect 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron Monday night at the squadron's headquarters, 865 Yates Street.

Inspection of the auxiliary squadron on parade will be at 7.45 p.m., and will be followed by a check of training facilities and all squadron personnel at work. Parade commander will be Sqdn. Ldr. R. D. Higgins.

'POOR CRICKET' SAYS OFFICIAL

Steed Resignation Accepted by Dean

Dean Brian Whitlow announced today he has accepted the resignation of Graham Steed from his post as organist at Christ Church Cathedral.

The Dean did not amplify this statement, nor did he comment on Mr. Steed's resignation.

Mr. Steed emphasized that his resignation has "nothing to do" with a controversy last June over a jazz record of the Holy Eucharist.

"My resignation is the culmination of a situation that has developed over the past three years," he told The Times.

PLAYS SUNDAY

The organist said he would play for services at Christ Church Cathedral this Sunday as usual.

In his letter of resignation, addressed to the Dean Friday, Mr. Steed said:

"It grieves me more than I can say that we cannot work together in harmony for the things that we both believe in."

He continued:

"MUTUAL TRUST"

He said church music could be produced "only on a basis of mutual trust and respect for convictions held and supported by eminent authority . . . and a willingness on the part of the clergy to delegate authority to persons skilled in music so that the sung praises of Almighty God may never become stale, but ever keep pace, in an age of progress, with new trends and ideas."

Mr. Steed said that by eminent authority, he meant the principles and recommendations of the Royal School of Church Music which are "certainly applicable here."

"It is my hope that my successor will have a less difficult path to tread than has been my lot in this Cathedral church which I have tried to serve to the best of my ability for the past nine years."

Last year Mr. Steed flew to England to consult with a firm of organ builders concerning a $40,000 rebuilding of the Christ Church organ.

The job was completed, and the organ dedicated, earlier this year. A public performance by Dr. Alexander Schreiner of Salt Lake City, introduced the new instrument to Victorians, and was warmly acclaimed by a capacity audience.

A member of the church committee made this comment on Mr. Steed's resignation:

"It seems to me pretty poor cricket for Mr. Steed to air this grievance in the press.

"There is more to it than appears in his statement. His strong views have not been wholly acceptable to the choir or congregation.

"Perhaps his resignation will clear the air."

ASK The TIMES

Q. Please tell me the average temperature and rainfall per month for a year for Victoria.

A. According to Dominion weather office records, average temperatures by month over the past 57 years were: Jan. 39, Feb. 41, March 44, April 49, May 53, June 57, July 60, Aug. 60, Sept. 57, Oct. 51, Nov. 45, Dec. 41. Full year 50.

Over the past 68 years, rainfall (in inches): Jan. 4.49, Feb. 3.13, March 2.18, April 1.21, May .95, June .90, July .48, Aug. .66, Sept. 1.39, Oct. 2.80, Nov. 4.12, Dec. 4.79. Full year 27.10.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Question and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

PUBLISHER'S NOTEBOOK By STUART KEATE

That First Crash

An interesting letter, all the way from Dartmouth Hill, near London:

Keate

"I have received recently, from a friend in Victoria, copies of the Centennial edition of the Times and an article on aviation.

"The article mentions that the first airplane to fly over Victoria crashed on a building in Chinatown.

"I claim to be the first person to greet that unfortunate aviator when he landed outside the city on the morning of his fatal flight.

"I was 8 years old at the time and lived in a shack at the edge of a field in Oak Bay.

"Early one morning while dressing I heard a strange sound and ran out of the shack in my vest and underpanted to investigate.

* * *

"The noise was made by a flying machine skimming over the grass. It landed a short distance away, close to the beach.

"Still in my underwear, I ran over the field and watched the pilot climb out of his wicker-basket seat.

"Later in the morning the pilot's wife arrived and the two of them set to work converting the machine into a seaplane by removing the wheels and fitting two floats. The pilot was going to demonstrate his plane over the city and land in the harbor.

* * *

"Early in the evening the work was completed and we all helped drag the machine down to the beach for launching.

"By this time a strong breeze had sprung up, and as it was in the right direction for the take-off the pilot had no need to manoeuvre and took his plane into the air, straight off the beach.

"I last saw the machine as a speck in the sky over Oak Bay.

"A few minutes later it had crashed. Yours faithfully,

"GEOFFREY LLOYD."

QUALICUM BEACH — A stained glass memorial window in St. Mark's Church here was dedicated by Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Victoria, Archbishop of British Columbia.

He was introduced by Rev. S. Williams, DD, rector of the church, who said the project had been started only 18 months ago, but that funds were sufficient to pay all expenses and leave a small surplus.

City Urged to Pay Church's Tax Debt

Finance committee Thursday recommended that city council give Emmanuel Baptist Church a grant of about $735 to pay its back taxes.

The recommendation was made on compassionate grounds because if the church's 1956 and 1957 taxes remain unpaid it would eventually be taken over by the city.

The church was eligible for tax exemption but failed to go through the qualifying procedures to obtain it for the two years. It requested the grant because it cannot afford to pay the due amount.

Total owed is about $1,100 but finance committee decided the church should be responsible for the taxes for school purposes, about one-third the amount.

Managing Editor 'Klug' Crawford Retires in Brandon

BRANDON (CP)—The retirement of H. L. "Krug" Crawford as managing editor of the Brandon Daily Sun was announced Friday by E. C. Whitehead, publisher and chairman of the board.

Mr. Crawford, a member of the Sun staff since 1919, will remain as an associate editor.

Mr. Whitehead also announced appointment of James E. Reid as managing editor. Mr. Reid joined the Sun in 1946, was appointed sports editor the following year and news editor two years ago.

Lindsay Crysler, formerly of Winnipeg and Saskatoon, is appointed news editor to succeed Mr. Reid, and Lubor Zink, formerly of Toronto and Prague, Czechoslovakia, is appointed chief editorial writer.

AVM Walter Kennedy Of Air Council Dies

OTTAWA (CP) — Air Vice-Marshal Walter E. Kennedy, 44, of Vancouver, RCAF comptroller, died suddenly at his home here today.

Cause of death was not immediately known but RCAF officers said Air Vice-Marshal Kennedy apparently was stricken with a heart seizure.

As comptroller of the RCAF since 1955, Air Vice-Marshal Kennedy was a member of the Air Council, the five-man body which determines air force policy.

Born in Vancouver Dec. 27, 1913, Air Vice-Marshal Kennedy was graduated from the University of British Columbia with a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering and was commissioned as a pilot officer in the RCAF in 1935.

He played a key part in the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan during the Second World War and commanded flying training schools at Claresholm and MacLeod in Alberta.

He became deputy chief of technical services in 1948 and chief staff officer of Air Material Command in 1950. He was named assistant vice-chief of the air staff in 1952.

Church Takes Middle Ground Race Strife

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Representative pastors and laymen of the Episcopal Church this week rejected a call by their bishops for an end to racial separation and endorsed a milder approach to the problem.

However, they also turned down overwhelmingly a statement saying "some degree of segregation is compatible" with Christian beliefs.

In a stormy session of the House of Deputies at the church's triennial general convention, Virginia churchmen led a winning drive for a resolution described as taking a middle ground on the racial issue.

John Paul Causey of West Point, Va., who introduced the resolution, said it "represents a meeting ground on which all people of the church . . . can stand united, rather than divided."

It urges all people "to work together, in charity and forbearance, toward the establishment without racial discrimination of full opportunities in fields such as education, housing, employment and public accommodations."

Final Tribute To Pope Sunday

VATICAN CITY (AP)—World diplomats gathered in Rome today for a final tribute to Pope Pius XII while cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church made plans to bury one of their number.

Celso Cardinal Constantini died Friday night of heart ailure just before he was to leave hospital to participate in election of a new pope. His death cut to 52 the number of cardinals expected to begin voting next Saturday for the next pontiff.

The cardinals already in the Vatican for the conclave were expected to arrange funeral services for the 82-year-old Italian cardinal for next week, after the nine-day mourning period for Pius XII ends.

MOURNING ENDS SUNDAY

The papal mourning will conclude Sunday with a requiem mass in St. Peter's Basilica to be attended by high-ranking representatives of many lands.

West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Bretano was to arrive today.

Already in Rome are President Sean T. O'Kelly of Ireland, Premier Joseph Bech of Luxembourg and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France.

The Communist newspaper in Rome suggested the foreign officials would negotiate over who would be the next pope, with world political considerations exerting considerable influence on the cardinals.

COMMUNISTS SILENT

Communist papers in predominately Catholic countries of Western Europe have been circumspect in discussing the death of Pius XII on Oct. 9 and the choice of a successor. But today the Rome paper L'Unita charged:

"The Catholic powers — and today those which are not Catholic starting with the United States—exercise with all discretion possible, but with full knowledge of the importance of the post at stake, their influence to favor or oppose this cardinal or that one."

L'Unita's comment followed the charge of Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, that government leaders were coming to Rome not so much to participate in the pope's funeral as to influence the election of his successor.

Iceland's population of about 160,000 are mainly descendants of Norsemen who first settled there in the 9th century.

CANADA TOLD BEWARE RACE 'WICKEDNESS'

TORONTO (UPI)—Toronto Rabbi Abraham Feinberg spoke out Friday night against the danger of letting racial hatreds seep into the minds of Canadians.

If hatred of people for the color of their skin were allowed to grow our society would crumble," he said.

"Such racial wickedness would undermine the basic brotherhood ideal of Judaism and Christianity."

He told his congregation that feelings of racial prejudice existed in Canada and in Toronto.

"It differs from the South in degree, but not in kind."

Douks Fear Pressure

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — Sons of Freedom Doukhobors have told the federal government they fear pressure will be applied to get them out of the country after next Tuesday, deadline for signing up for a proposed migration to Russia.

The sect released Friday the text of a telegram sent earlier this week to Justice Minister Fulton.

"Kindly advise what status or connection Dr. C. H. Wright's committee for Canadian Doukhobor affairs has with the department of justice of Canada and the attorney-general of British Columbia re the proposed Doukhobor migration to Russia," the telegram said.

"Nick T. Oglow, a member of said committee, told press representatives: 'The whole situation rests with the Russian government as to whether these people would be accepted. Until the Soviet has indicated its position, we can't bring any pressure.'

"This indicates that a campaign of 'pressure' is already prepared for Doukhobors who will reveal their desire to migrate by filing the signed forms.

"Is that government policy, or is it merely a continuation of local vigilante undertaking?"

WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

Plant primulas of all kinds into flowering places, with wallflowers, daffodils and other spring bulbs.

Plant coniferous evergreen shrubs, such as cypresses, junipers and arbor-vittaes (thujas). Also the broad-leaved evergreens as pieris, aucuba and holly.

Cuttings of violas and pansies, and runners of violets may be rooted under glass now and planted out in spring.

Moving of peonies should be completed now.

Rhubarb plants may be put in, or old beds remade. Dig deeply, and add plenty of rotted compost or old manure.

Remove yellowing leaves promptly of brussels sprouts an other brassicas. This helps to prevent spread of diseases during wet weather.

Cut asparagus growth to ground level. Top dress bed with manure or compost.

Prepare for planting of fruit trees, berry fruits and roses.

Planting sites should be readied for the arrival of trees, shrubs and bulbs which may come from the nursery during wet weather. The job of putting them in will at least be straightforward then, even though messy.

Mexico Lifts Ban On Metals Exports

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The government Wednesday lifted a temporary ban on exports of lead and zinc to the United States.

The ban went into effect Oct. 1. until the government could fix quotas for shipment. The government said the quotas were needed to distribute equitably the U.S. cut of 20 per cent in foreign purchase of those metals.

AROUND THE WORLD

Wtih JOHN MANNING

University student John Manning of 3225 Ripon Rd., has taken a year off from classroom studies to "vagabond" around the world. The 21-year-old Victorian is writing his impressions of the places he is visiting and the things he is seeing. This is his fourteenth article.

AFGHANISTAN — In the Kyber Pass the goats were few in number, moving aimlessly as though with no hope of finding forage; their bells sounded muffled in the dryness of the air.

The sun came searching down into every crack and every corner and against every rock.

Under the shadow of a ledge a man sat watching the goats. In one hand he held a rifle—the butt of it in the dust and the barrel leaning against his shoulder. Across his chest were strung two bandoliers of ammunition. Even in the shadow, the cartridges gleamed.

I went by on the other side of the Pass and when he saw me he stood up quickly and took the rifle with both hands but kept the barrel downwards until I was gone from view.

There was a trail below the road. It had been used for centuries by the Arabs with their caravans. In later years the British soldiers came along and in the heat of it all they died from the bullets of desert tribesmen who did not wish them there.

* * *

Rising up like a gun sight out of the plains of West Pakistan, the Khyber Pass begins in a range of bare hills extending into the desert of Afghanistan.

Near where the trail reaches "the summit on the eastern side, there is a large fort of the "Khyber Rifles" called Shagai. It is still occupied.

Along the upper ridge stood small blockhouses. Not once was I out of sight of one of these, for they command a sweeping view of the trail.

At the western end the pass widens out onto the desert, and there, if you are on foot, it can be dangerous. At night you make your camp, using no fire, for the tribes in that country know no laws but their own; it is a strange feeling to be alone, knowing that there are men about you somewhere in the stillness of the desert who may make the decision to kill you if they come upon you.

* * *

On the way I came upon an oasis. I had never seen one before and rested awhile to watch the Afghans as they came to the cold spring. Some small bushes grew near and provided a bit of shade. It was a scene that could have been centuries old.

I arrived in Kabul the evening before Independence Day. No rooms were to be had. So I camped out on the edge of town and in the morning walked back, passing a camp of Bedhouins, their skin tents pegged out. In front of one, two men were cleaning rifles. These weapons were long beautiful things.

The Russians, Americans and United Arab Republic had flown in troops to march in the parade. The people of the desert came, too, on foot, horseback and some on camels. One tribe was from the north near the Russian border and wore the same clothes as the cossacks.

During the parade, one of these tribesmen climbed off his horse, hitched his rifle up across his shoulder, to stand with arms folded, watching with obvious scorn the marching troops.

When the strange cigarette he smoked was finished, he stamped it into the dust and with one quick movement was back on the horse.

42 MILLION SAW THE SHOW

Brussels Fair Ends

BRUSSELS (AP)—The Brussels World Fair is closing its gates Sunday, having entertained 42,000,000 visitors in six months and two days.

After the curtain drops on the show, dismantling of the hundreds of buildings spread over the nearly 500 acres of parks will begin. Nothing will remain but the huge atomium with its nine shiny spheres linked by steel tubes which were the landmark of the fair.

The show included displays by 48 countries.

U.S. Tycoons Said 'Real' Art Buyers

LONDON (Reuters)—American millionaires Paul Mellon and Henry Ford were reported Friday to be the "real" buyers of four of seven Impressionist paintings auctioned here Wednesday night.

British newspapers say Mellon and Ford bought through American dealers, despite denials in New York Thursday.

Sale of the seven paintings at Sotheby's London's premier auctioneers, fetched a record for a single auction of £781,000.

New York dealer George Keller is reported to have paid £422,000 on behalf of Mellon, financier son of the late Andrew Mellon, one-time U.S. secretary of the treasury, for paintings by Cezanne and Manet.

Knoedler's, another firm of New York dealers, is reported to have paid £90,000 for a Cezanne canvas on behalf of Ford.

New Picture For 50 Cents

OTTAWA (CP)—A simplified design in the Canadian coat of arms will be used in the next issue of 50-cent pieces.

The official Canada Gazette announced Friday that the simplified coat of arms—which was changed several months ago—will appear on the reverse side of the coin.

No change is made in the provision that the face of the monarch appears on the "heads" side.

First coinage of the new 50s is expected around the start of 1959.

9 IN MEMORIAM

BROOKS—In loving memory of our son and brother, Larry Dale, who passed away October 19, 1957.

Gone is the face we loved so clear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear;
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember him who once was here,
And who, though absent, is just as clear.

—Ever remembered by his loving mother and father and sisters.

McCALL — David Moore McCall, passed away October 18, 1955.

22 SALESMEN, AGENTS

AN INTERESTING JOB WITH A FUTURE

We have an opening in our classified advertising sales staff.

We are ONLY interested in the highest type person who can serve the best interests of our customers. Advertising work is permanent, interesting and lucrative if you are the type who is suitable for it.

In order to succeed in advertising you should still be young enough to learn a new profession (that usually means under 25). You should have at least a high school education, experience in dealing with the public preferred. Good health is essential because even temporary absenteeism is detrimental to an advertising career. A fluent speaker, congenial, legible writer, good speller and have a good geographical knowledge of city layout.

If you are interested in a splendid opportunity and "on the job" training in a new field—apply by letter for interview to the Classified Manager, Victoria Press Ltd., 2631 Douglas St. State age, employment history, salary requirements, etc.

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby

Dr. George Tucker of Ojai, Calif., sent me today's hand with the comment that it seemed to present considerable difficulty in their duplicate game and that most pairs stopped at four spades.

Opening lead—♣K

He pointed out that either six spades or six hearts was a cinch and wondered how the hand should have been bid.

I have had a lot of fun with the hand. I wrote the North hand and South hand on separate pieces of paper and gave it to various good players to bid. Some reached the slam but all found difficulty handling the big two-suiter and the bad hand with the exact two cards needed by partner.

Eventually we did come up with a concensus of how the hand ought to be bid.

The two-spade opening and two no-trump response are easy enough. Then South should jump to four hearts. He has no interest in playing the hand at no-trump and wants to show his big two-suiter.

The jump to four hearts makes things very easy for North. He can clearly afford a five-heart bid, whereupon South should surely continue to the slam.

LET'S TALK ABOUT REMODELLING AND RUMPUS ROOMS

Maybe you have been thinking lately about new kitchen cabinets, or beautiful wood panelling in your living room, or maybe be at last, starting on that rumpus room.

Building and remodelling is easy when you let Moore - Whittington help you. Just bring your measurements or sketches with you next time you drop in, and one of our friendly, well - informed salesmen will be happy to discuss your project with you. He will give you an estimate of the cost and show you all the many, many plywoods, wallboards, wood panellings, Arborites, Formicas, etc., we carry.

If you are not too sure what you want, you might ask for our FREE Remodelling booklets. These booklets are full of pictures and suggestions to make it easy for you to do the job yourself.

If you are looking for good buys, visit our "Bargain Alley" where you will find many items on sale at specially reduced prices. Here are a few:

Ti-Cats Cinch First Place

Hamilton Tiger-Cats clinched first place in the Big Four Football Union today with a 29-10 win over the third-place Montreal Alouettes. Meanwhile tail-end Toronto Argonauts whipped Ottawa Rough Riders 41-0. In collegiate football, Western defeated McGill 39-8.

Search for Plane Halted by Winds

VANCOUVER (CP) — Strong winds forced an RCAF Canso aircraft to return to its Sea Island airport today, minutes after it had taken off to resume a search for the missing private aircraft carrying John Dudra. Wreckage was reported off Bowen Island.

U.S. Explodes Atom Bomb in Desert

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (UPI)—Atomic shot "Rio Arriba" shook a remote area of the southern Nevada desert early today, booming from atop a 75-foot tower in latest experiment of the current 1958 fall series.

3 Reported Dead as Tug Goes Aground

HALIFAX (CP)—Search and Rescue Headquarters here said today it has received a report that three persons were killed when a tug grounded off St. Pierre et Miquelon, south of Newfoundland's Burin Peninsula. The victims were not identified.

Comox Flier Killed in Car Crash

Richard David Read, 24-year-old airman from RCAF Station Comox, was killed when the car he was driving crashed into a power pole on Anderton Road, Comox, at 10.45 p.m. Friday.

Police said an inquest will be held at Courtenay on Tuesday. Read was the only occupant of the car.

NEW FAIR GROUNDS PROJECT LAUNCHED

U.S. WRITER'S VIEW ON CHINA

What It's Like To Be 'Enemy'

This is the second in a series of articles by special NEA correspondent John Strohm on his tour of Communist China.

By JOHN STROHM

NEW YORK—What of the Red Chinese attitude toward John Strohm, the only American correspondent with both U.S. and Chinese permission to travel in China?

Amazement, first. For here was the mortal enemy they were ranting about, calmly taking pictures of their steel plants, their farms and their militia.

Curiosity, too. I was a crowd-stopper wherever I went. I must say that my ego dropped when I found out that one group of school children who stood up and clapped their hands when I entered the classroom thought I was a Russian.

In a few spots the searing blast of hatred continually directed toward the U.S. licked at me personally. A cartoon of protest was drawn of me and placed in my hired automobile.

Strohm

Once while I was being shown through a farm implement repair shop by the vice-director of one of the new communes, a belligerent worker pushed toward me and shouted, "Get out! Get out!"

On another occasion I was surrounded and jostled by students who were serving the state by running a small blast furnace.

Scarcely anyone, once my identity as an American was established, missed an opportunity to lecture me severely about American imperialism and the validity of Red China's aims. An engineer claimed he once had seen U.S. soldiers rape girls in Peiping. In Shanghai, I was conducted through a street memorable as the scene where a drunken GI allegedly killed a pedicab driver.

"This is not a happy time for you to be here," was the understatement of a factory manager in Nanking.

WORLD'S MOST POWERFUL

Giant Bomber Built by Boeing

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — The most powerful airplane in the world—a global bomber that carries two guided missiles and several nuclear bombs—makes its maiden flight next week.

"The air force disclosed today that the B-52G, with vastly greater range and punch than earlier B-52s, will enter Strategic Air Command squadrons "early next year."

Built here by Boeing Airplane Co., the eight-engine B-52G will carry two "Hound Dog" missiles that can be launched hundreds of miles from heavily defended targets.

With a guidance system that enemy radio or radar cannot jam, the supersonic missile is "all but impossible to stop," the air force said.

Armed also with "a selection of nuclear weapons" in its giant bomb-bay, the 650-mile-an-hour B-52G will be able to "destroy several targets literally thousands of miles apart on a single mission," the service added.

The plane poised for its first flight here is a 225-ton monster with enough fuel in its 185-foot wing to drive it more than 8,000 miles. This is 25 per cent further than earlier B-52s could go and makes the "G" a truly intercontinental jet bomber.

With a single in-flight refueling from a jet tanker, it can fly more than 10,000 miles.

Russ Jet Liner Crash

LONDON (AP) — A Russian TU-104 jetliner has crashed inside the Soviet Union killing four West Germans who were among its passengers, according to reports to German diplomatic sources today.

Delvecchio Leads Wings To Ice Win

CHICAGO (UPI) — Alex Delvecchio scored three times today to pace the Detroit Red Wings to a 3-1 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks in the National Hockey League.

The loss was the first for Chicago after three wins and a tie. It was Detroit's second victory against two losses.

Delvecchio, pulling off the first "hat trick" of the season, scored in each period, with an assist from Gordie Howe each time.

Delvecchio scored his first goal of the season less than two minutes after the game began. Howe stole the puck from Jack Evans at the Chicago blue line and shot it across the rink to Delvecchio, who skated to within 10 feet for his scoring shot.

The Wings were able to get only three more shots at the Chicago net for the remainder of the fist period while their goalie, Terry Sawchuk, was peppered with 19, including Ed Litzenberger's score in the 16th minute.

SECOND GOAL

Delvecchio netted his second score in the second minute of the middle period, a 30-foot sizzler. He scored for the third time at 5:47 of the third period.

The game was delayed 18 minutes in the second period while a deep gash was stitched above Sawchuk's right eye after the Detroit goalie was hit by a puck. Marcel Pronovost was also hit by a puck and needed nine stitches to close a cut behind his left ear.

Scottish XI In Shutout Soccer Win

(SCORES ON PAGE TWO)

LONDON (Reuters) — Scotland's international team, unbeaten on Welsh soil in 20 years, kept its record intact today with a 3-0 victory over Wales that gave the Scots an early-season lead in the four-team United Kingdom inter-sectional competition.

England and Ireland, the two other international teams, played to a 3-3 tie in their first games of the season and are tied for second place, one point behind Scotland.

In league play today, Bolton Wanderers opened up a two-point lead in the First Division with a 4-0 home victory over Blackpool. The Wanderers, winners of the Football Association Cup last year, had been in a tie with Preston North End for the lead before today's games but Preston bowed to Newcastle United 4-3.

Arsenal, Wolverhampton and Luton Town all took advantage of Preston's loss to pull into a points-tie for second place with the North-Enders, but Arsenal had the best goal average. The Wolves, last year's league champions, played to a 1-1 tie at Arsenal and Luton Town edged Chelsea 2-1.

MECHANISM PROVES SUICIDE

Bomber Blew Himself Up

WICHITA, Kan (AP) — The bomb that blasted Forrest Don McCuiston to death in Wichita's big air terminal Friday was hand detonated, police reported today.

This, Police Chief Eugene Pond said, "seems to bear out the theory of suicide."

The bomb, hidden in a paper-wrapped package, exploded as the unemployed Tulsa, Okla., aircraft worker carried it along a passageway adjoining the terminal's lobby.

A Federal Bureau of Investigation explosives expert discovered that the home-made dynamite bomb had no timing device and had to be set off manually, Pond said. Until this was discovered, authorities had been puzzled by some angles of the strange tragedy.

Donna Folsom of Dallas, Tex., the plane's hostess, remembered the package.

"I remember the man taking it down from the luggage rack as he left," she recalled. "It was larger than a shoe box. He carried it under his arm."

During the flight, Miss Folsom said, McCuiston seemed preoccupied, and in Wichita, "when I said goodbye to him he didn't answer, but just walked on past."

OUT OF JOB

McCuiston was convicted last June 24 on four counts of income tax evasion and placed on three years probation.

At his home in Tulsa, Okla., his wife, Mary, said he had been out of a job about a month and had gone to Wichita to seek employment. His father was quoted as telling neighbors his son also was losing his eyesight and had heart trouble.

McCuiston was an aircraft worker by trade. Police said they were informed he also was an "inventor and tinkerer." Neighbors described him as a quiet man who stayed much in his own yard.

Architect Named To Draw Plans For Colwood Site

Plans for a huge fair, horse racing and sports centre at the old Colwood race track grounds moved forward another step at a meeting of the B.C. Agricultural Association Friday night.

Charles Craig, Victoria architect, was commissioned to draw up preliminary sketches for the type of buildings needed for a Class A fair at the 140-acre property which is under lease to the association. They are to be submitted by Nov. 12.

The program, envisioning an expenditure of around $1,000,000, would be financed through government grants for the fair, the leasing of horse-racing and other concessions.

PNE TALKS

Mr. Craig is in Vancouver discussing basic requirements for the project with officials of the Pacific National Exhibition.

The association leased the site of the former Colwood army camp from the department of national defence last June.

Two groups have shown interest in establishing sprint and possibly harness racing on the site, which was formerly used by the Victoria Track Racing Association and the Colwood Park Racing Association.

Guarantees of pari-mutuel operations have been assured.

Objective is a modern operation in keeping with the stature of a class "A" fair comparable to those in Vancouver, Toronto, Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton.

Although in a state of some decay, not having been used since 1930, the existing track is expected to be reconditioned.

The fair would be the first of

Bribe Trial Resumes On Monday

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia's longest and most celebrated criminal Assize Court trial resumes here Monday after a juror's illness forced a six-week adjournment.

Its central figure is Robert Sommers, 47-year-old MLA for Rossland-Trail, who was minister of lands and forests in the Social Credit government of Premier Bennett until his resignation in 1956. He and three timber executives and four firms are charged with bribery and conspiracy.

The case has been before Assize Court Justice J. O. Wilson and a jury of nine men and three women since May 1.

It is expected that on its resumption for its 66th actual sitting day—the previous record was 43 days—the trial will take at least another two weeks.

The case is unique in the province not only for its length but for the number of adjournments and technical points of law, raised mostly by the six defence lawyers.

Sommers' lawyer Angelo Branca was about to address the jury and wind up the overall defence case on the 65th day of the trial Sept. 4 when a woman juror became ill.

The case may go to the jury sometime early in November.

2-DAY NIGHTMARE

He Prayed In Icy Sea

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Ferndale, Wash., fisherman was pulled from the sea Friday by the British freighter Pacific Stronghold following a nightmarish two days in which his boat broke down and he was forced to swim for his life.

Raymond Hong, about 20, was picked up by the 11,300-ton freighter off Point Roberts, south of here, after he drifted and prayed for three hours, thrashing the icy waters to keep afloat.

His struggle for survival began Wednesday when his small gillnetter, loaded with fish, broke down in dank grey fog a few miles off Point Roberts.

Trying to attract attention, he fell overboard, but managed to pull himself aboard again.

But the boat began to fill with water, and finally settled to her gunwales.

Friday morning he found himself swimming, alone, in a cold, silent sea. It was then that the Pacific Stranghold, bound to Vancouver from Bellingham, Wash., spied him and went to his aid.

They gave him clothing, food, and a warm cabin.

He was taken to the United States consulate and provided with bus fare and pocket money to return home.

10 MISSING IN SUBMERGED RADAR PLANE

ARGENTIA, Nfld. (CP) — One man is known dead and 10 others are missing with little hope for their survival following the crash into Placentia Bay early today of a huge U.S. Navy radar patrol plane.

Eighteen of the 29 men aboard the Super Constellation were rescued.

A U.S. Navy officer declined to comment on the possibility the 10 men could live inside the submerged plane, a half-mile offshore. The plane's wing tip was visible above the water.

The spokesman said "the men are listed as missing." Rescue operations "are going on smoothly and quietly."

COLLEGE ASSEMBLY

Science, Arts Must March Together—Dean

Science must never be separated from the arts, Victoria College annual assembly was told Friday night.

Carleton University Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, James A. Gibson, warned the gathering against ignoring arts in favor of pure science.

"There is a vast difference between scientific application divorced from every other strand of learning, and comprehension and scientific knowledge which fits in with the general reaching out of all human knowledge.

"For let no one suppose that progress in scientific achievement can really be separated from the intellectual climate in which a whole society lives.

"Do we really think we can work prodigies in science and live in an intellectual ice-age as far as other areas of learning are concerned?"

ABUSE

It would be a real abuse of greatness, he told the assembly, if the "sense of identity with history leaves us intellectually untouched, or if it should evade us, elude us, and pass by on the other side."

He advocated simultaneous attention to the arts, including history, and to the fields of science currently being emphasized in education.

Backed by over 50 years of tradition the ceremony was held at Victoria High School attended by over 400 relatives and friends.

Among the dignitaries were Education Minister Leslie Petersen, Works Minister W. N. Chant, Conservative M.P. A. de B. McPhillips, provincial archivist Willard Ireland, and pastor of Metropolitan United Church, Dr. F. E. H. James.

Chairman of the college council, Judge J. B. Clearihue, introduced the speaker, commenting on his previous association with the college as a student.

HICKMAN REPORTS

Judge Clearihue also introduced Principal W. H. Hickman, who gave a short report on the progress made over the past year.

In his address, Judge Clearihue told the assembly a library and science buildings are needed urgently at the college to stave off the possibility of restricted registration next year.

"If we don't get these facilities, I don't know where we are going to put the students," he said.

He said negotiations are going on with the federal government for the purchase of land at Gordon Head and with the provincial government for building funds.

2,000 BY 1970

He estimated that by 1970 there will be 2,000 students in first and second years alone and this would be swelled by third and fourth-year students.

"I have a hope that some of the class of 1962 will be the first to graduate from Victoria College," he said.

"The only reason we are not giving third or fourth-year courses," he said, "is that we have no buildings, no money, and not enough staff for even the first two years."

Judge Clearihue said that degree-granting courses at the college would be confined at first to arts and education but "we hope in the distant future to be able to give degrees in all the faculties."

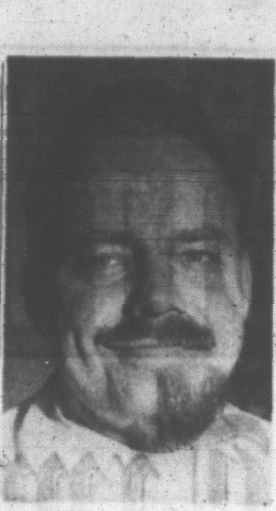
Cyprus Peace Bid

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—Governor Sir Hugh Foot today offered to halt counter-terrorist operations in Cyprus if EOKA violence, including attacks on Greek Cypriots, ceased.



ADRIAN GILMORE
'Greater love hath . . .'

He Giveth His Beard —For $100

The Community Chest, which in recent weeks has been the recipient of various weird gifts ranging from five tons of fish to a sweepstake ticket on a horse race, today got another one.

A beard.

Taken from the smiling jowls of Chest secretary Adrian Gilmore, the goatee-type beard was worth $100 to the campaign.

The money was promised to the Chest by campaign manager Justin Harbord, on the condition that Mr. Gilmore shaved his centennial fungus off.

HE PAID

He lost it Friday. Mr. Harbord paid up today.

Said he, "Greater love hath no man than that he giveth his beard to the community.

"But seriously, Victoria should consider itself fortunate to have in its employ this dedicated man. He is doing a wonderful job in the drive."

Meanwhile, the residential canvass was officially ending today, although considerable call-backs have still to be made.

Total cash received from all sources to date is $132,775.11.

Untouchable 'Book of Elite' Unveiled

MONTREAL (CP)—All that was missing was a burst of trumpet fanfare as Canada's new social directory of 40,000 names was unveiled Friday night before some 20 "select" reporters in a hotel suite normally reserved for royalty.

The book, a 700-page register bound in blue with a crest stamped in pure gold, was displayed with all the pride of parents showing off a new-born babe.

It lay in a glass crib on a bed of white satin. A single light bulb of soft pink illuminated two pages of closely-printed names—from Gagnon to Gerin-Lajoie, all Montrealers.

LOCK THE DOORS

A security guard in a blue uniform stood by, unarmed, to make sure reporters didn't man-handle the book or search for names. A mysterious official in another room of the royal suite—locked for safety's sake—checked names submitted by reporters.

Yes, Prime Minister Diefenbaker is listed. So are former prime minister Louis St. Laurent and Arthur Meighen. And Governor-General Massey.

"The church, the bench, the scalpel, the professions and parliament are well represented," said a social register spokesman. "So are some people who've never attended or given a cocktail party."

The book was compiled after 300 arbiters across the country nominated names of socially prominent people. It lists names and addresses, titles, decorations, clubs and phone numbers.

FOR CHRISTMAS CARDS

"It's a handy guide for making up Christmas card lists," said the spokesman.

Host at the party was Toronto publisher David B. Crombie, who is vice-president of the Social Register of Canada Limited, sponsors of the book. He isn't listed in the register.

But then neither is hockey player Maurice Richard or comedians John Wayne and Frank Shuster.

Mr. Crombie said almost 10,000 Canadians have joined the Social Register Association of Canada, which entitles them to a gold-embossed membership card and a copy of the register. The only way to join the association is to get your name in the book itself, and pay a $25 membership fee.

"The book is not for public distribution," said Mr. Crombie. "It will not be sold, copies may not be bought in book shops, and I question the advisability of it ever being available to the general public."

He said copies were being mailed—second-class mail—to members.

Toronto has 56 pages of names; Ottawa, 33½ pages; Halifax, 14; Vancouver, 26; Winnipeg and Edmonton, 8 each; Saskatoon, five, and Whitehorse, one.

The 555-foot-high Washington Monument in the United States capital has 81,820 tons of marble.

$20,000 ALMOND HIJACKERS REALLY WANTED COFFEE BEANS

NEW YORK (AP)—Two gunmen seized a truck driver aboard a ferry Friday, hijacked his $20,000 cargo of almonds and held him captive for several hours before releasing him in New Jersey. The truck, contents apparently intact, later was found in Manhattan. Police said the hijackers evidently thought the big truck contained coffee beans, not nuts.

Storm-Tossed Tug Rescued Off Nanaimo

Two tugs and a U.S. Coast Guard cutter teamed up to save a third tug and its three crew members in a sudden storm just after midnight.

The mishap occurred off Ballenas Island, about 18 miles north of Nanaimo.

The 40-foot tug Nanaimo Brave had left Jervis Inlet on the mainland 24 hours previously with a tow of logs and was making for Nanaimo when the storm came up.

She cast her tow loose at about 12.30 a.m., but ran into extremely heavy seas and took on water faster than her pumps could clear it. When the pumps failed altogether she radioed for assistance.

Air-Sea Rescue dispatched the cutter White Holly and the Vancouver Tugboat Co. tug Le Mars to her aid. The cutter made a lee while Nanaimo Brave's Captain Fred Wicks and mate Gordon McNeil of Nanaimo, and deckhand Robert London of Vancouver, leaped to safety on Le Mars at 1.45 a.m.

Meanwhile, the tug Broughton Straits, a sister ship of the Brave in the Nanaimo Towing Limited fleet put a line on the Brave, towed her to shelter at North West Bay, then pumped her dry.

Company manager Ian MacLeod said in Nanaimo today the Brave would be towed to Nanaimo when the weather is favorable.

"It was a sudden and unexpected storm," he said. "We wouldn't have dared tow logs across Georgia Strait unless we were pretty sure it was going to be dead calm."

U.K. Ready To Pull Out From Jordan

LONDON (Reuters) — The withdrawal of British troops from Jordan will start next Monday, the Defence Ministry said today.

It said movement of personnel and stores from Amman to the port of Aqaba already has started.

About 3,000 British troops moved into Jordan at the request of King Hussein following the Iraq coup July 14.

Today's defence ministry announcement said the withdrawal should be completed by the middle of November.

The troops will be transported to Cyprus and Kenya.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United Nations will help the British get their troops out of Jordan, secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold said today.

He announced that the UN will aid with ground control of British transport planes flying paratroops from Jordan to Cyprus over Syria and Lebanon.

A Jordanian official earlier said that within the next week the United Arab Republic would lift its air and ground blockade of Jordan to help speed the British withdrawal.

its class opened on the Island since the 1938 BCAA Fair at Willows.

Although largely inactive since that time, the BCAA has continued in good standing with the registrar of companies and its charter, dating back to 1872, remains valid and active.

ACCESSIBLE

The fair ground site is six miles from the city centre, and is accessible from all directions with two major highways and two railroads adjacent to them.

There are also numerous motels near at hand.

Future plans call for landscaping of the property, with possible erection of facilities to accommodate baseball, football, basketball, curling, hockey and theatricals.

Stipulated a non-profit making organization under their charter from the federal government, the B.C. Agricultural Association receives annual statutory grants from that body and from the provincial government for maintenance of a fair.

Churchill Rocket Soars Through Northern Lights

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—A Nike-Cajun rocket powered by solid fuel Friday night soared through a display of Northern Lights but its top altitude was not confirmed due to a failure of the telemetry system which relays information from the rocket to ground receivers.

It was estimated that the rocket—the 58th fired here as Canadian and United States scientists continued fall experiments in connection with the International Geophysical Year—reached an altitude of about 100 miles.

Scientists said it was possible that one of the rocket antennas was torn off when the second stage of the rocket fired off.
